Will Rogers Remarks:

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) May 26. [To the Editor of The Times:] Say, what do you know about those two old country boys flying around in Texas all this spring? Began to look like the only way to get 'em down was to starve 'em to death. Any of you that are not familiar with that country, I can tell you what kept them up. Amon G. QUAKE KILLS SIXTY-FOUR

Ancient Turkish City Rocked

Seventy-two Injured and 1357 Homes Reported Demolished

Temblor Shakes 74 Villages; Disturbance May 3 Cost 2000 Lives

PARIS, May 26. (AP)—Havas Agency dispatches from Angora report sixty-four persons killed and seventy-two injured in seventy-four villages shaken by an earthquake Saturday. The greatest damage was at Karalissar and Souheihir, near Sivas. A total of 1357 houses were said to have been destroyed and 313 others damaged.

Sivas is an ancient city of about 30,000 population situated in a fertile valley in Central Turkey. In the days of the caravan routes it was of much greater size and still retains many evidences of its former glory.

On the 3rd inst., earthquakes shook Russian Turkestan and Persia, destroying several villages and causing, according to unofficial estimates, 2000 deaths. The tremors continued for three days.

Earthquakes are of frequent occurrence in Northern Asia Minor.

Blinding Snow Lashes Reno

RENO, May 26. (AP)—Reno residents awoke early this morning to see blinding gusts of snow beating down on their prized gardens.

The unexpected storm, which began shortly after midnight and alternated brief respites with furious flurries of snow and hail, stopped before noon. A stiff breeze, which blew over the mountains from the west and north all day yesterday, is believed responsible for the belated snow.

SOVIET CUTS RUM SALES

Move for Drying Russia Begins

Moscow Saloons Reduced in Plan for Gradual Prohibition

Lack of Liquor Demanded to Speed Up Industry and Aid Workers

MOSCOW, May 26. (Exclusive) The soviet government is preparing to make Russia legally as dry as the United States, primarily to increase the nation's industrial productivity.

The authorities plan to introduce prohibition gradually but their ultimate objective is a bone-dry country.

Modified prohibition is to be brought into force this summer by government curtailment of the sale of vodka, beer and other alcoholic beverages. Measures to reduce production of these by 30 per cent are now being drawn up, to be enacted into law.

As a first step toward a dry Russia the government has already reduced the number of licensed saloons in Moscow from 700 to fifty-five. It has also prohibited the sale of beer in private restaurants. Three of the largest breweries and the only distillery in Moscow have been closed and are to be converted into soft-drink plants.

ARID RUSSIA AIM

The government earnestly desires ultimately to proclaim complete prohibition. By forcing sobriety upon the workers, the authorities believe, the cultural standard of the masses will be raised, and industry will progress more rapidly.

No official proposition to gradual introduction of prohibition exists since there are no "wets" in the government ranks. But those in political power fear that an attempt to establish prohibition overnight will lead to bootlegging, as in the United States. Hence the intention to introduce dry measures gradually.

CUTS LIQUOR TAX

The dry movement sponsored by the government represents a sacrifice from the fiscal viewpoint, since the liquor tax provides a substantial part of the government income. While recognizing this fact, the authorities are determined to make the people sober at any cost, believing that the consequent improvement in industrial conditions will more than offset the loss.

As a further step, antialcohol committees are being sent to industrial centers such as the Don Basin, the Ivanovo-Vosnesenek textile mills and the Sormovo locomotive works, to stimulate dry propaganda among the workers there. Similar expeditions sent to Far Eastern Russia have telegraphed Moscow that in many cities and towns in Asiatic Russia the sale of vodka has completely ceased.

FRIGID SKY GLOWERS AT BYRD PARTY

Gloomy Weather Seems to be Hatching Trouble for Antarctic Explorers

BY RUSSELL OWEN

(Copyright, 1929, by the Los Angeles Times, New York Times Company and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

LITTLE AMERICA (Antarctica) May 26. (Exclusive)—It still is overcast and gloomy as though the Antarctic were sulking at our comfort and trying to retaliate by limiting looks outdoors.

There has been a full week now of this dull weather with comparatively mild temperatures. Indeed, last night it became as warm as 9 deg. above zero, a surprising rise, as the wind was not unusually strong.

This morning it was from the south and became a little colder and then shifted around to the east where our storms come from and the mercury dropped to 20 below zero again.

It is as if the weather were brooding and trying to make up its mind what to do, but probably it won't do anything at all except get colder and colder, for the days of great cold are not far off.

There is a faint discouraged moon shining through the haze and it is too bad, for now it should be at its brightest and it would be pleasant to have it light the way down the inlet trail where most of the walking is done.

But no matter how moody and repellent the frozen world may be outside, it is warm and cheerful in the houses and the days go very rapidly. In less than a month the end of the winter day will be reached and we can look ahead to the return of the sun.

New Jersey Air Pilot Killed

MILLINGTON (N. J.) May 26. (AP)—A pilot was killed and two passengers were injured today when an airplane from the Millington airport crashed on a farm at Stirling about eight miles from here.

Richard Perry of Plainfield, pilot of the plane, was killed. Perry was engaged in taking passengers up for short spins.

DIVORCEE CLOSES RENO

Responsibility for Wholesale Raids on Clubs and Roadhouses Admitted by "Informer"

RENO (Nev.) May 26. (AP)—From the turmoil left in the wake of the prohibition drive which truck practically all of Reno's important night clubs and roadhouses yesterday, one outstanding discovery is being mulled over by the stricken resort owners today—the woman responsible for it all is a divorcee.

Several of the establishments which have won wide recognition from pleasure seekers have been frankly recognized as important elements in Reno's attempt to make the stay of divorce seekers as lively as possible.

To be in a town for "the cure," as the process of divorce is referred to, was an unquestioned pass word to the dance hall, barroom or gambling hall. The pass word is no longer good.

WOMAN RESPONSIBLE

The woman responsible was known as "Billy" Rivers. She was granted a divorce in Reno on May 13 from Dewey Rivers, who she charged with "drinking continuously," shooting her in the head with a revolver, and then attempting to shoot her with a rifle.

Last Friday she went before the Federal Grand Jury in Carson City and gave information which resulted in twenty-one arrests for violation of the national prohibition law being made in Reno yesterday.

The woman's name, it was revealed, is now Mrs. Stanley King, as a result of her second marriage which took place in Reno the day before she went before the grand jury. She is also the mother of a 4-year-old son by her first marriage.

ADMITS IDENTITY

Mrs. King did not hesitate in admitting that she is the woman who obtained the evidence against the resorts. She did so as a "contracting informer" for the prohibition department, she said. The man she married last Thursday assisted her.

She stated that she was leaving with him at once for Los Angeles.

HIGH FLIGHT RECORD WON BY GERMAN

Junkers Plane Attains Atitude of 40,625 Feet to Beat American Mark

BERLIN, May 26. (Exclusive)—A German pilot, Willie Neunhofer, flying a Junkers plane at Dessau today broke the American-held world's altitude record when the sealed recording instruments showed that he reached a height of 40,625 feet, which is 1485 feet higher than the previous record.

Germany now claims two of the four leading air records, namely, altitude and flight duration. Herr Neunhofer's flight was part of an experimental series for the scientific observation of high atmosphere levels on the working of motors and oil.

Denver College Needle Records Severe Quake

DENVER, May 26. (AP)—Father Armand W. Forstall of Regis College announced this afternoon that an earthquake of marked intensity was registered on the seismograph.

He said the disturbance had been in progress for more than one hour at 4:30 p.m. and still was registering. He could not determine the direction of the disturbance at that time.

NEW YORK, May 26. (AP)—Conde Benist Pallen, 70 years of age, former managing editor of the Catholic Encyclopedia and former president of the Encyclopedia Press, Inc., which published that work, died of heart disease today at the Blackstone Hotel.

Ten Children Crash Victims

OAKLAND, May 25. (AP)—Ten children were injured, one seriously, in an automobile accident on a grade near here today. The children, all in one automobile, were on their way to a Sunday-school picnic when their machine turned over. Kenneth Fitzsimmons, 9 years of age, of Berkeley, received internal injuries.

ARIZONA AIR CRASH KILLS CALIFORNIAN

Another Expected to Die as Result of Plunge in Old "Jenny" Near Yuma

YUMA (Ariz.) May 26. (AP)—Franklin H. Christofferson of San Ysidro, Cal., was killed instantly, and Ernest Henderson of San Diego was injured probably fatally in the crash of an unlicensed old model Curtiss plane at 9 a.m. today.

Christofferson was piloting the "Jenny" with Henderson as a passenger. The plane went into a tail spin from a few hundred feet altitude.

Henderson was unconscious at a late hour today and little hope is held for his recovery. The plane, according to witnesses, approached Yuma from a westerly direction flying low over the town. It crashed between some houses near a private landing field after going into a tail spin.

THIRD BROTHER LOSES LIFE FLYING

SAN DIEGO, May 26 (AP)—F. H. Christofferson, killed in an air crash at Yuma today, was the third brother of the famous Christofferson family to lose his life in aviation. One brother was killed during the war, the other after the war.

Christofferson and Ernest L. Henderson, State traffic officer here, left the Chula Vista airport, outside San Diego, Saturday afternoon and landed at El Centro a short time later. They telephoned to Chula Vista that they intended to return Sunday.

Christofferson took up aviation a short time ago and purchased a plane in Los Angeles. Henderson, an ensign in the naval aviation reserve, was helping teach Christofferson to fly.

PLANE "BULLDOGGER" INJURED IN CRACK-UP

PONCA CITY (Okla.) May 26. (AP)—Buck Hoover, Ponca City pilot, was injured, but not dangerously, when an airplane from which he was preparing to "bulldog" a steer at the 101 Ranch near Ponca City cracked up on the improvised arena near the ranch show stadium today. R. P. Shannon, co-pilot, was not injured.

Prince de Sagon Fights for Life

PARIS, May 26. (AP)—Prince De Sagon, 19-year-old son of the former Anna Gould, is making a strong fight for recovery, inspired by the young girl for whose love he shot himself. She visits him daily in the hospital across the street from the mansion of the Duchess of Talleyrand, his mother.

The boy's fever still is high this evening, but his physicians said he is getting along as well as possible.

SEATTLE, May 26. (AP)—Six men were jailed for reckless driving and seventeen persons were injured, none of them seriously, in eight automobile crashes here today. Two fire hydrants were snapped off in the smash-ups.

LINDBERGH MEETS SOCIETY

Flying Colonel as Guest at Morrow Function Shakes Hands of 150 Persons

ENGLEWOOD (N. J.) May 26. (Exclusive)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh made his formal bow to the society to which he has entrusted his happiness for the first time today. It was at one of those regimental teas at the far-flung Dwight W. Morrow estate here. More than 150 palpitating guests shook the hand of the hero who, until today, always managed to linger back stage at social affairs of the family of his fiancee, Anne Morrow.

While the obviously thrilled guests were arriving it was reported over the teacups that at the end of the affair Ambassador Morrow, who arrived from Mexico City early in the afternoon, would announce the date of the wedding formally.

WAIT IN VAIN

But while the guests lingered as late as 7 p.m. no such announcement was forthcoming.

It was a real family tea—the Morrows and the Lindberghs facing society together for the first time. The air of an impending important announcement first enveloped the party when Lindbergh arrived early with his mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, talked for a half-hour before any of their guests arrived.

CALLES NOT BEST MAN

Published reports that former President Plutarco Elias Calles of Mexico was coming to the United States to attend the Morrow-Lindbergh nuptials as best man for the Lone Eagle were officially denied tonight.

It was said on behalf of Calles that he would not be in this country at the time of the wedding but on the contrary he would depart within a few weeks for his El Marti ranch in Tamaulipas State, whence he will proceed either to South America or Europe or both, on an extended vacation.

TEXAS AVIATORS FORCED DOWN AFTER 172 HOURS

Cracked Propeller Ends Flight of Record Breakers and Throng at Fort Worth Mobs Plane

FORT WORTH (Tex.) May 26. (AP)—The world's record for sustained flight was boosted almost a day by the single-motored Ryan monoplane Fort Worth, which landed at Municipal Airport here this afternoon at 4:05:25 o'clock after remaining aloft 172h. 32m. 1s. The ship took off last Sunday at 11:33 a.m.

The silvery ship surpassed the record made by the Army's trimotored Question Mark last January by 21h. 51m. 46s. All other marks for sustained flying for all types of aircraft were left far behind.

JIM AND REG CUSS LUCK

They Wanted to Fly Right On

But Their Own Story Tells Why Two Record Airmen Had to Come Down

Cracked Propeller to Blame; Boys Scorn Vaudeville to Stay in Sky Game

Here are the personal experiences of Reg Robbins and Jim Kelly, the machinist and cowboy, who broke the world endurance flight record by remaining in the air for more than a week.

BY REG L. ROBBINS AND JAMES KELLY

(Written exclusively for The Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance) (Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

FORT WORTH (Tex.) May 26. (Exclusive)—The world at large appears to be amazed at our little flying feat accomplished in a two-year-old plane powered with a second-hand motor, but our principal astonishment is that we were forced to come down after only 172 hours and thirty-two minutes in the air.

Although we are back on earth after spending more than a week in the cramped environs of our rebuilt Ryan as it slowly but surely flew past every world's record for endurance flying, we have not been completely isolated.

Newspapers and telegrams as well as personal messages from our wives and friends were delivered to us twice a day by the pilots of our refueling ship, and our only disappointment is that we were unable to fulfill our promise of staying up 200 hours or longer.

SHIP STANDS GAFF

If flyers were ever blessed with a perfectly performing ship and a motor that stood every test put to it we are those two pilots.

The Ryan brougham in which we made the trip has been in use two years and has carried thousands of passengers for commercial hops. The Wright Whirlwind motor in the Fort Worth was second-hand when placed in the ship less than two years ago. It has gone more than 50,000 miles without a forced landing.

Plane and motor would have kept us up until a really enviable mark had been established. However, the luck which had been with us throughout the flight finally failed and the propeller was cracked when the buckle of a safety belt hit it while the rocker arms on the motor were being greased.

STORMS DO DAMAGE

This happened Monday, the second day of our flight while the rocker arms were being greased in rough air and we probably would have felt no ill effects from the accident had it not been for adverse weather we passed through. Rain caused the crack to swell, making the motor run rough.

The severe storm we passed through on Saturday night also helped to weaken the propeller. However, it kept us in the air during the bad weather and many hours after we had passed through the electrical disturbances.

At one time lightning flashed so close to our ship that we both thought it had been struck. That was our worst scare of the entire

The pilots, R. L. Robbins and James Kelly, stepped to earth as a ser of humanity closed about their plane.

A battered propeller forced a landing long before the flyers were ready to give up the flight. Before they landed the flyers had believed the propeller damage due to the effects of a rainstorm through which the ship battled Saturday night, but inspection of the part indicated that the blades had encountered something more solid than rain or hail.

Thereupon Kelly recalled that the propeller came in contact with a buckle on his belt while he was clinging to the perch underneath the hood of the motor, from which he greased rocker arms of the valves. It seemed apparent, the flyer said, that the buckle had dented the propeller and the rain that fell last night had caused the wood to swell and crack.

Although the men were tired and deaf from almost seven and one-half days of exposure to the roar of a Whirlwind motor, they were so happy they forgot their aching muscles and long sleepless vigils.

CROWD MOBS PLANE

The crowd, variously estimated at 20,000 to 30,000, swept all police barriers and fences aside and almost crushed the plane before the flyers could alight. Heavy ropes strung on iron posts set in concrete went down before the rush and the police cordon, which formed the second line of defense, soon had to run to keep up with the head of the crowd. Around the plane fifty men, holding a heavy rope, were crushed in until their backs were against the plane itself.

A line finally was made through the crowd and Mrs. Robbins, her 5-year-old son Jack, and Mrs. Kelly were carried through on the shoulders of men. All three of them tried to greet the flyers at once and the narrow door of the plane was sorely taxed.

When the crowd was pushed back sufficiently to allow photographers to set up their cameras, Robbins and Kelly alighted, stiff and sore, but well able to move on their own feet. The field was a sea of mud and no one escaped without ruining clothing.

LANDING "TAME"

By constant shoving, police finally managed to slide the crowd back sufficiently to allow the flyers to reach waiting automobiles and come to town for a shave and a meal. One floor of the Fort Worth Club was turned over to them.

The landing itself was rather a flat denouement as far as most of the crowd were concerned. After all of the hours of suspense while the Fort Worth was breaking the record, the breathless moments during refueling or the thrilling trips which Kelly made to his perch under the motor to grease the valve rocker arms, the landing was matter of fact.

All afternoon the monoplane had been hovering over the field while hundreds of spectators and other flyers went aloft. When the silver endurance ship finally did swing up wind, turn lazily and glide to the field, it seemed as if something tremendous in the way of an ovation or a spectacle should climax the nerve-racking effort. The human voice was inadequate.

FORTUNES MADE

The flyers not only rode to fame, but to considerable fortune on their venture. A fund raised by the Fort Worth Association of Commerce has passed the $12,000 mark and is mounting rapidly as a number of West Texas communities suddenly have taken an interest and made contributions. Presidents of a number of air transport companies yesterday promised the flyers $50 each and this will amount to $2200 or perhaps $2300. In addition to this they already have opportunities to clean up many thousands of dollars

Fort Worth Crew's History Shows Their Mettle; Left Jobs on Urge of Flying Spirit

FORT WORTH (Tex.) May 26. (AP)—"From Saddle to Cockpit" and "Railroading to Flying Fame" might well be the captions over the life sketches of Reginald L. Robbins and James Kelly, who for more than a week have piloted a one-motored monoplane above the earth. Breaking all records for sustained flight and setting a new mark that stifles imagination, the Texas flyers have written a brilliant chapter in aviation history, a chapter that gives impetus to civilian aeronautical endeavor throughout the world.

Robbins, chief pilot of the Fort Worth, learned most of his flying by personal experience. He is 26 years of age. Three lessons were all he had. The remainder of his flying skill was picked up by listening to the chatter of pilots and mechanics around airports and by personal experiment. He formerly was a railroad mechanic. When the desire to fly seized him six years ago he "railroaded" his way into the air, to use the slang term for "speeding up things."

Kelly, 23, copilot of the endurance ship, leaped from the hurricane deck of a cow pony to the cockpit of an airplane. As he sat upon his pony through rains, terrific heat and dust storms he often allowed his eyes to linger on the planes passing over his home country around Cuddo, in West Texas, and he envied the flyers their cool isolation above the uncomfortable plain. One day he decided that he was foolish to be punching cattle when there was a vocation as alluring as flying. So he drew his pay and came to Fort Worth.

A commercial air school had just been opened here and Kelly enrolled. "Give me the works," he told the instructors. After a thorough training he finished the course last April. He showed such aptitude with planes and motors that the company made him manager of its Laredo flying field.

Kelly, recently married, became

GREWSOME GOLD DAYS RELIC FOUND BY BOYS

McCLOUD, May 26. (AP)—A slaying committed perhaps in the gold-rush days of California was revealed here today, when two boys hunting buried treasure dug up an old trunk containing a male human skeleton. Physicians said the man had been dead at least fifty years. The trunk was found buried under a tangle of brush.

Failure Near on Reparations

Definite End of Dickering by Experts Looked for As All Stick by Guns

Schacht Lays Cards Face Up; Creditors to Give Reply to Young Today

PARIS, May 26. (AP)—Definite announcement that the reparations conference has failed to reach an agreement is looked for by many in touch with the experts following a brief Sunday morning session at which Dr. Hjalman Schacht, spokesman for the Germans, laid his cards on the table to Owen D. Young, American chairman of the conference.

Dr. Schacht, it is understood, stood pat on his proposals.

The creditors will have their final say tomorrow and they also are believed to have made up their minds to stick by their guns.

The German spokesman is credited in brief with rejecting the Allied reservations to his reservations and the Allies will not accept the German reservations. Therefore, conference observers see no hope for that "complete and final settlement," which the experts had confidently expected to reach at the beginning of their work weeks ago.

Dr. Schacht today told Mr. Young exactly where the Germans stand and Mr. Young passed it on to the creditors at the brief meeting. When the creditors, after sleeping on it, give their answer to Mr. Young tomorrow, the American chairman, knowing the width of the gulf between the payor and the payee will determine whether there is a chance for compromise.

Predictions in conference circles are that the gulf will not be bridged and a plenary session will be called to find a soft synonym for "failure" and gather all points of view into a report so the individual governments can try their hand at settling the ten-year-old problem.

DEBT PROPOSAL WELL RECEIVED IN FRANCE

PARIS, May 26. (AP)—The proposed congressional postponement by America of payment for war stocks from the French government is regarded momentarily in semi-official circles as a reasonably satisfactory solution of that problem. In quarters where comment is to be had it is agreed that this and allied problems must await outcome of the reparations settlement before anything definite can be said.

If the experts now in Paris make a satisfactory settlement of the reparations question it is likely that Premier Poincare will ask Parliament to ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement. If the experts disagree it still is possible for the governments concerned to reach a settlement and in that case the debt accord still can be ratified.

CHOOSING A PIANO

By David Bingham

Choosing a piano is a matter in which one's judgment is frequently swayed by cleverly designed advertising whose purpose is to conceal but not reveal the real worth of the instrument. The salesman who through ignorance or intent is irresponsibly misleading is a constant menace. The safest method of finding the right piano for your particular need is to go directly to a House whose reputation and responsibility is established beyond question. For thirty-seven years the Fitzgerald Music Company has been building for the future. You will find the right piano here.

BLOATED BOVINE BAFFLES OWNER

Cow Meanders Into Basement, Eats Plenty, Now She can't Get Through Door

SACRAMENTO, May 26. (Exclusive)—C. A. Freeman, a farmer residing near here, owns a pet cow. Two days ago, the bovine, which never before had been known to have roving inclinations, wandered down three steps into Freeman's basement. The cow feasted heavily on dried apples and dried apricots stored there, and now the animal is so bloated Freeman can't get her through the cellar door.

So the farmer has to milk the cow in the basement, until some civil engineer or nature comes to the rescue.

head mechanic for the Southern Aeronautical Service after the Mexican air mail started operation between Mexico City and Brownsville, the Texas terminus having been moved to the latter point from Laredo.

Robbins's home was at Everman, Tex., prior to his removal here. His first plane was second-hand and in this ship he started a barn-storming career several years ago. He estimates that since that time he has carried as many as 20,000 passengers all over the Southwest.

The chief pilot purchased his present Ryan monoplane two years ago. He was dissatisfied with the motor in it and bought a rebuilt Wright Whirlwind which another famous flyer had discarded. There is no record of the number of hours this motor had flown until Robbins acquired it, but he gave it 500 hours himself before starting the present venture.

Don't Neglect Your Scalp

Youthful appearing men with good heads of hair have the decided advantage today in social and business life. Let the Thomas' help you retain or regain that head of hair with their fifteen year proved scalp treatment! This treatment overcomes the causes of premature loss of hair—dandruff, itchy scalp, falling hair, and dry or oily hair and promotes hair growth.

It revitalizes the dormant sources of hair growth and actually makes it possible for new hair to grow. You want thick, luxuriant hair—evidence of youthful vigor—not thin, lifeless hair or a bald head.

CHIEF OF POLICE SHOT BY ROBBER

Chicago Bandit Doody In Another Escape

Wounded Officer Seriously Three Weeks Ago

Preyed on Postal Stations; Reward Offered

CHICAGO, May 26. (AP)—"Baby Face" Willie Doody, postal robber, object of one of the most elaborate searches in the history of the local department, shot his way out of the second police trap in three weeks today, seriously wounding Chief of Police Charles Levy of Berwyn, Chicago suburb.

Doody, who three weeks ago shot and wounded Postal Inspector Even L. Jackson in a North Side hotel, was standing beside a stolen automobile in Berwyn with Eddie Majiewski, a companion, when Levy with another officer approached the pair. Before any words had been exchanged, Doody began shooting and the officers returned the fire. Shooting as he retreated, Doody fled up an alley and escaped, and Majiewski was seized and taken to the Berwyn Jail.

LYNCHING THREAT

Milling crowds soon gathered around the jail, shouting angry threats of lynching and the prisoner was taken to the Oak Park Jail to prevent violence.

Authorities revealed that Doody had been the object of a search by 200 government agents for several months for his suspected leadership in the systematic robbery of dozens of postal substations in and around Chicago. He had been trapped in a hotel when Inspector Jackson entered to arrest him. Doody shot his way out. Jackson was able to leave the hospital for the first time yesterday, after having been near death for days.

REWARD OFFERED

A government reward has been on Doody's head since the Jackson shooting and Mayor Byron C. Thorpe, of Berwyn, announced that the City Council of the suburb would post an additional sum.

Though small physically—standing only 5ft. 3in. and weighing but 120 pounds—Doody is known as a desperate thug and a "cop hater."

Majiewski told officers that his companion had vowed:

"I'll take a dozen cops with me before they'll get me."

Majiewski stated that he and Doody were on their way to the Hawthorne dog racing track and police think they had planned a robbery there.

TEXANS FORCED TO END FLIGHT

on newspaper and magazine serials and vaudeville tours. All this is in addition to any bonuses they may receive from the manufacturers of their equipment.

Examination of the plane showed that the motor still is in good condition, and probably could run many more hours. The second-hand whirlwind engine which Robbins picked up after another flyer had discarded it, never missed a beat in the seven and one-half days. The propeller was the only part of the plane damaged, and long cracks in it showed the severity of the hail which the plane went through last night.

One of the most enthusiastic congratulations which the flyers received came from Lady Mary Heath of England, feminine pilot, who returned to Fort Worth from Temple, Tex., this afternoon to see the end of the flight. She is on her way to the Pacific Coast.

MEN IN GOOD SHAPE

Robbins and Kelly were subjected to a thorough physical examination after they ended their flight and were found to be in better condition than the plane.

Their blood pressure was normal. Robbins's pulse was eighty-two and Kelly's eighty-four. This is a trifle above normal, but any one who had just broken a world's record and received an ovation from more than 20,000 persons would have a little acceleration of the heart.

The plane's motor was ready to start aloft on another flight. The fuselage was in good condition. The fabric was frayed in places but would have lasted another week. Only the propeller was damaged.

Woman Defeats Would-be Killer

CHICAGO, May 26. (Exclusive)—Mrs. Vera Richards, 25 years of age, weighs 120 pounds. Tonight she grappled with a 170-pound intoxicated man who had fired five shots at her parents in their home. She bent her antagonist's arm until the gun pointed at his own stomach. Then in the struggle it was discharged and the bullet struck him, causing a wound from which he may die.

RECORD FLYERS TELL STORIES

Kelly and Robbins Relate Details of Flight

Airsickness Bothered Them For First Two Days

flight. The visibility was poor and neither of us got much rest. Each of us got about an hour's sleep during the night.

We took off at 11:33 a.m. Sunday, the 19th inst., from the Municipal Airport here, and landed on the same field at 4:05 p.m. today. There were several more hours in our ship had we cared to risk a crash.

The primary purpose of our flight was to advance the cause of commercial aviation, though, and we both feel that a proper regard for safety is one of the first qualifications of a pilot.

We were tired but not overtaxed when we landed. Two doctors have examined us and pronounced us both in normal physical condition with the exception of being slightly deaf. This will wear off in a few days.

There was more nervous strain during the first forty-eight hours than at any other time. After we had completed two days and nights in the air we began to lose our nervousness and felt more confidence both in the ship and in ourselves.

At various times during the flight we became slightly groggy but at no time did we lose the balance or control of the plane. Airsickness worried us both during the first forty-eight hours, but this must have been caused by nervousness because the air was smooth and neither of us is susceptible to airsickness.

STICK TO FLYING

Our future plans are at present rather vague. We have received offers of contracts of many types, including several vaudeville contracts.

Flying is our game, though, and that is what we are going to stick to. We have no intention now of signing show contracts regardless of the financial investment.

We feel that we have been amply repaid by one fact of our flight alone. That is the endurance qualities and airworthiness of a single-motored ship. When plans for our flight were in the preliminary stage a tri-motored plane was considered. This plan was dropped, though, as we felt our chances for success were greater in the type of ship we were both accustomed to handling.

This is not intended as any reflection on tri-motored jobs. Their capabilities are too well known. We spent a lot of time studying the facts about the Question Mark flight and reached the conclusion that success was as probable with one motor as with three, if the load the tri-motored plane carried was so heavy that two motors would not keep it up.

GREASED DAILY

Particular study of the rocker-arm troubles of the Question Mark was made also. The rocker arms on our motor were greased twice daily. No other work on the motor was necessary although we were prepared to replace spark plugs if necessary, or change other engine parts.

One set of spark plugs carried us through the flight. No other part of the engine was badly worn and when we came down today our motor was gone over and declared to be in excellent condition by E. M. Walsh, engine expert from the Wright Aeronautical Corporation.

The linen was somewhat frayed on parts of the plane but the covering was not in bad condition. The ship was recovered with new linen in preparation for flight.

The Ryan brougham, in which we made the flight, was rebuilt according to our own ideas of aviation engineering. The roof was removed from the back half of the cabin in order to make refueling easier. The funnel, connecting with the extra gasoline tank which occupied the middle section of our Fort Worth was on the right side of the ship. It was on the outside of the ship. We considered this safer than to have the funnel in the center of the ship.

DANGER OF FIRE

One of the gravest dangers in a flight of this kind is the possibility of fire. We had to exercise unusual care in preparations for refueling as well as the actual process of transferring gasoline from plane to plane for that reason. Generation of electricity either from the propeller or from friction was guarded against by a copper ground wire attached to the refueling hose and clamped to the funnel during contact.

K. K. Hoffman, pilot of the refueling ship, and H. S. Jones, co-pilot of the ship, deserve much of the credit for the success of our flight. Their iron nerve and remarkable piloting skill were responsible for seventeen successful refuelings. Ten or fifteen gallons of gasoline were spilled once when we failed to make contact because a rag stuffed in the refueling funnel had not been removed before contact was made.

The last refueling, this morning, was accomplished in a driving rain. We are not sure, but believe this is the first time an airplane has ever been refueled in mid-air during a rainstorm.

The refueling ship, which was also a Ryan brougham, had a hole in the bottom of it through which Jones dropped the hose. This hose was thirty-seven feet in length. Contact was usually made by using only twenty feet of the hose. Several times only ten feet of the hose were used.

THREE TIMES DAILY

We refueled three times daily during the flight, with the exception of one day when our reserve supply of gasoline was so high that we refueled only once. Early morning and early evening were the hours we chose for this delicate and dangerous operation.

The air is smoother at that time and there is less danger of planes being buffeted by air "bumps" while flying close together. In the morning, usually around 6 o'clock, we took on 110 gallons of gasoline. At night, in two contacts, we would take 130 or 140 gallons. Fodr and one-half gallons of oil were given us twice daily.

With the oil we got our food, letters and other supplies, which were lowered in a canvas sack dropped by the refueling ship immediately after the refueling contact was broken.

Hoffman had worked out a definite set of signals with us and the refueling was accomplished with almost clock-like precision. Some persons consider a remarkable feature of our flight the fact that the first transfer of gasoline between our endurance ship and the refueling plane was made after the flight had been in progress almost twenty-four hours.

We did not consider this remarkable as we had full confidence in our ability to perform the feat. The day before the Fort Worth took off we practiced the refueling contact three times with Hoffman and Jones. However, no fuel was actually transferred. We took off with 250 gallons of gasoline which lasted us through the first night of the flight.

In case of an accident we agreed on the procedure we were to follow. The endurance ship was to pull to the left and down while the refueling ship was to pull to the right and up. In order to fly close enough together to permit refueling in the air we had to obtain a special permit from the Department of Commerce. After an inspection of the Fort Worth and the refueling ship and an explanation of our plan, they waived their rule forbidding commercial aircraft to fly closer than 300 feet apart.

During the daylight hours we flew in circles 100 or 200 miles from the municipal airport. At night we kept closer to the field and usually were not more than five miles distant from its floodlights.

Regular periods of rest were taken by both of us. We each got four to six hours sleep every day and night of the flight, with the exception of our last night up. Stormy weather removed all thoughts of sleep then.

DELICIOUS MEALS

Delicious meals were sent us twice daily. We had hot meals every night and during the day enjoyed hot coffee or iced drinks from thermos bottles, which were replenished regularly. We both ate heartily and suffered no loss of appetite during the trip. This and the fact that we obtained enough sleep probably was responsible for our excellent condition at the end of the flight.

Our rebuilt monoplane has bettered every world's record for endurance flying. We are proud of its performance and of our part in setting up a record, which we hope will aid in promoting public confidence in air travel and the safety and durability of airplanes.

No more endurance flying for us though, at least not for some time.

Maj.-Gen. Smith Dies in Omaha

OMAHA, May 26. (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Harry A. Smith, 62 years of age, commander of the Seventh Army Corps area with headquarters at Fort Omaha, died in a hospital today.

Gen. Smith underwent an operation for an intestinal disorder last Wednesday after he was taken suddenly ill while attending a horse show at Lincoln, Neb.

A blood transfusion was performed Friday and his condition temporarily improved. Last night he suffered a relapse.

Miss Ranger Pilots Shift to Minneapolis

Thirty-eighth Hour Reached Without Hitch

Endurance Record Seekers to Visit Texas

MINNEAPOLIS, May 26. (AP)—A single-motored monoplane, Miss Ranger, piloted by Gene Shank and Owen Haugland, was soaring smoothly over Minneapolis tonight in an endurance flight in which they hoped to break all existing records.

The Miss Ranger cruised over Minneapolis during the heavy rain this afternoon. Two fuel transfers were made without a hitch since their arrival here. Notes dropped by the pilots indicated that all is well "and we're going strong."

At 10:54:30 tonight the Miss Ranger had been in the air thirty-eight hours. The plane left Wichita at 7:15 this morning after flying since 8:54:30 a.m. Saturday. It arrived over this city at 1:40 this afternoon.

PLANE TO STAY NORTH THREE DAYS

WICHITA (Kan.) May 26. (AP)—Gene Shank and Owen Haught, commercial flyers who took off here Saturday morning in their monoplane Miss Ranger, in an attempt to break the world's endurance record, refueled here this morning and headed their crimson ship for Robbinsdale, Minn. The start was made here at 7:15 o'clock.

The third actual refueling contact made at 6:04 a.m., almost twenty-two hours after the plane went aloft, was described as "perfect" by the two refueling ship pilots, Verne Nelson and O. P. Harrah. Seventy gallons of gasoline and breakfast, consisting of toast and cheese, were transferred to the two men. Half an hour later they set a course to the north, toward their home State. The refueling plane left thirty minutes later. Two contacts were made late yesterday.

A note dropped by Haught this morning said they plan to cruise over Robbinsdale and the Twin Cities, Minneapolis and St. Paul, for about three days. If their flight is successful at the end of that time, they plan to fly south, refuel here and continue to Ranger, Tex. In order to make the flight official, they must land here.

The note also said they spent a "bad night." This was taken to mean, by airport attendants, that flying conditions were unfavorable.

GANGSTER LIKE POET, IT SEEMS

with the wealth that flows from illicit booze, are they dubs? Decidedly not, declares the psychiatrist. They are above the average in intelligence and their superior intellect lifts them to leadership and makes the others their tools. But emotionally they don't register.

The leader, the typical gangster, the thief, the yegg and all criminals have in common feeble-minded affectivity, or emotional make-up, Dr. Hickson said. Education and intelligence only fit them for bigger and better crimes.

A popular impression of the gangster, embodied often in lurid fiction concerning him, is that his reprisal shootings are prompted by bitter desire for revenge.

JUST BUSINESS

"Nothing could be farther from the facts," declares Dr. Hickson. "The gangster's reprisal shootings are merely his business-like way of keeping competitors balanced with himself. He removes the rival because he is in the way and it is done with the lack of compunction the ordinary person would exhibit in pushing aside a piece of wood blocking his path. The gangster is as incapable of feeling revenge as he is incapable of feeling respect for the law that vainly commands him not to kill."

Gangsters of the future, said Dr. Hickson, now are in the schools making life miserable for teachers.

"As boys they are haled into Juvenile Court," he said. "Perhaps they get short terms in the reformatory—at any rate they never fail to perform. Sooner or later they launch into murderous careers."

HE SPOTS THEM

Dr. Hickson said he has examined 40,000 criminals during the past twelve years and that time and time again his laboratory has labeled youths as killers only to have the prophecy fulfilled.

"These gangsters should be taken from the schools before they get big enough to be gangsters," he declared. "They should be segregated on State farms—not punitive—until such time as they are pronounced cured. In nearly every case that would mean life segregation. The commitment should be made after examination by a commission which would report to the courts on just what type each criminal is—and that before the crime. Segregation would keep them from both crime and propagation."

JUST CAN'T REFRAIN

The gangster's defect, according to Dr. Hickson, is physical and hereditary. The emotional part of his brain stopped its development in infancy and, said Dr. Hickson, is traceable directly to ancestral defects. He is constitutionally incapable of refraining from crime.

For normal parents, a note of comfort is added.

"If your son is normal," declared the psychiatrist, "you never can make a criminal out of him."

CHINA BOWS TO DR. SUN

Body of Hero on Way to Nanking

Cortege Two Miles in Length Winds Its Way Through Peking Streets

(Copyright, 1929, by New York Times)

PEKING, May 26. (Exclusive)—Borne with imperial pomp on the shoulders of thirty-two trained men, the body of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, father of the Chinese revolution, who was largely responsible for the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty, was carried today through Peking, and without incident started a long journey to the new capital, Nanking, where it will be given permanent entombment in a $2,000,000 mausoleum on Purple Mountain.

Though Dr. Sun's life hope was the establishment of a peaceful united China, so apprehensive were the authorities of the possibilities of trouble being fomented by some of the warring factions that Peking was under martial law and the two-mile cortege, in progress through six miles of Peking's streets, proceeded between lines of soldiers with fixed bayonets. Every houstop along the route was manned by soldiers, with rifles bristling from many windows near the various street intersections. Large bodies of cavalry and infantry with machine guns were kept in readiness to charge any mobs or shoot down trouble-makers.

Today's ceremonies originally were designed to commemorate the unification of China, but ironically marked the beginning of a hurried trip to Nanking along a railway disrupted by the movement of armies against Feng Yu-Hsiang and especially guarded by 30,000 troops, watchful against the cutting of the line by forces now in rebellion against Nanking.

Instead of marking the unification of China, today's homage to the founder of the Kuomintang party had a tragic air of futility, for during the very hours of this homage the armies of the Kwangsi right wing and Feng Yu-Hsiang's left wing were fighting against the armies of Nanking, each maintaining the other had betrayed the Kuomintang and frustrated the aims of the revolution.

The cortege left Piyuashi, a picturesque temple in the western hills twelve miles from Peking, at 1 a.m. with an infantry and cavalry escort. Lurid lights and flaring torches marked the way at stated intervals. The squads of thirty-two carriers of the catafalque regularly shifted the burden. By sunrise the body of the dead leader was being carried past the decaying glories of the summer palace built by the famous Dowager Empress of the dynasty he overthrew.

At 10 a.m. the body of the man who labored for the founding of the republic in China was carried through the northwest gate in the Tartar wall begun by Kublai Khan in the thirteenth century.

Then on during six hours of progress through six miles of streets the procession was constantly augmented by silent throngs constantly growing more dense.

EIGHTY THOUSAND DESERTERS ARRIVE

CANTON (China) May 26 (AP)—Five transports bearing 80,000 fully equipped troops that deserted the Kwangsi cause arrived today from Hankow and anchored off Shameen, the foreign colony. They came presumably to assist the defending Kwangtung armies and 8000 more are expected shortly.

Although these soldiers came as friends they received a doubtful welcome from the native city of Canton. The merchants are quite certain that they will demand funds and free food as long as they remain in the Canton camp.

The sanguinary nature of the fighting at Samshui was indicated today when 200 bodies of Kwangsi soldiers were counted as they floated down river past Shameen. Announcement that one Canton general and one Kwangsi general were killed in the recent fighting and two Kwangsi generals wounded was made today. The Cantonese announced capture of Gen. Wong Yin-Uy, who recently deserted to the Kwangsi, and his court-martial is almost certain to end in an order of an execution.

Great Increase in Number Of Instruments and Calls Shown by Survey

WASHINGTON, May 26. (Exclusive)—The Department of Commerce announces that according to data collected at the quinquennial census of electrical industries taken in 1928, the total number of telephones in use in the United States on December 31, 1927, was 18,522,767, an increase of 29.1 per cent as compared with 14,347,395 reported for 1922. This rate of increase is nearly fourt times as large as the rate of increase in the population of the country during the same period, which has been estimated at approximately 7.5 per cent. The total number of calls made in 1927 was 31,614,172,621, representing an increase of 28.3 per cent over 24,647,560,860 made in 1922. The wire mileage aggregating 63,836,182 in 1927, evceeded by 71.3 per cent the corresponding mileage of 37,265,953 for 1922.

Salvation Army Head Still in Serious Condition From Auto Injuries

NEW YORK, May 26. (AP)—A slight improvement is reported today in the brain concussion suffered in an automobile accident by Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, but her physician says there are new evidences of body contusions and the patient is more uncomfortable.

"I find the commander's condition worse today," said a statement issued by Dr. Walter Clark Tilden at the commander's home at Hartsdale.

"The concussion symptoms have improved slightly, but there are new evidences of body contusions and increased lameness generally, so that the patient is more uncomfortable today. I find no evidences of internal injuries, although the commander is suffering greatly from the general knocking about she received. I hope to be able to have X-rays of the head taken Monday or Tuesday."

Although the commander was injured Friday the fact was not made public until yesterday. She was thrown against the side and top of her automobile when her chauffeur swerved into a depression in the road to avoid striking a woman pedestrian on one side and an automobile on the other.

COCHRAN BALKS HOLD-UP INQUIRY

Suspect Scorns Wife's Plea to "Come Clean"

Agua Caliente Murder Case Hunt Goes On

New Tips Aid Search for Red-Haired Girl

SAN DIEGO, May 26. (AP)—Scornfully disregarding the tearful pleas of his wife to "come clean and tell everything," Lee Cochran, charged with murder and robbery in connection with the Agua Caliente money car slayings a week ago, suddenly shifted his attitude today and assumed a "closed mouth" stand when Paul Hayes, chief of detectives, attempted to obtain a formal confession from Cochran.

The attempt on the part of the detective to get Cochran's formal confession followed the grilling of Mrs. Cochran, who also is held by police.

Breaking down completely, Mrs. Cochran, while talking to Hayes, sobbed:

"I'll do anything; I'll get down on my knees to my husband and beg him to 'come clean.'"

PLEAS PROVE VAIN

Mrs. Cochran was taken immediately from the captain of detectives' office into the City Jail matron's office, where she faced her husband.

Cochran, who had talked freely while being returned here by automobile from Los Angeles Saturday, contradicted this attitude, resisted his wife's entreaties and blankly refused to pay any attention to Hayes.

Prior to confronting her husband, Mrs. Cochran told Hayes how she begged him to "stop running with 'Marty.'" "Marty," whose full name is Martin Colson, is in the County Jail with a bullet wound in his shoulder, inflicted, police maintain, by one of the two money guards before they were mowed down with a hail of lead. He has been arraigned and bound over to Superior Court on the dual charge of murder and robbery.

In her story to Hayes, Mrs. Cochran told of various meetings between her husband, Kearney, Jeanne Lee and Marcel Dellon. She told of details leading to her arrest, with her husband, and of Cochran's actions as far as she knew them.

DETAILS RELATED

Steadfastly adhering to her original story that neither she nor her husband knew of the crime until after it was "pulled," Mrs. Kearney today related again to Hayes how she cared for Colson in her home after he had been taken there Monday by Cochran.

While detectives continue to check and recheck information furnished them by the women, and run down numerous leads in an attempt to find still more evidence against the suspects, the State-wide search for Marcel Dellon and Jeanne Lee, wanted as accessories to the crime, continues.

While rumors that the pair were in a dive at Ensenada sifted into the police station, information was received from Sheriff Lowery, San Luis Obispo, that two men and a red-haired woman spent two days and nights in an apartment at Pismo Beach. The trio, it is said, remained inside all the time, not even leaving the apartment for meals. The wire reported that they left the beach Friday.

Plans to attempt to get some statements from Colson were abandoned for the present by the police, as the wounded man was running a temperature today. He has refused to talk since his arrest in the Kearney home Wednesday afternoon.

Auto Crash With Log Train Fatal

MT. VERNON (Wash.) May 26. (AP)—One man was killed, a little girl probably fatally injured and a third person seriously injured in two week-end automobile accidents here.

Earl Wiles, 22 years of age, was hurled over a logging train to his death when a car driven by James Shipp, 18, crashed into the train late last night. Shipp was only slightly hurt, but a third youth in the car, Lawrence Brossard, was seriously injured. Shipp was jailed.

Opal Chambers, 8, was probably fatally injured when she was struck today in front of the church at Lyman, near here, by an automobile reportedly driven by Harry L. Kell.

PRESBYTERIANS TO SEEK ACCORD

Move for End of Seminary Row Set for Today

Indications at St. Paul Point to "Liberal" Victory

New Moderator Declared to Favor That Faction

ST. PAUL (Minn.) May 26. (AP)—Settlement of a controversy, a sore point in the Presbyterian Church of the United States for a decade, involving control of Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J., and conflict between "fundamentalists" and "liberal" groups at the institution, will be sought at the church general assembly here tomorrow.

Victory for the "liberal" group appears to be in prospect for the first time with the new moderator, Dr. Cleland B. McAfee of Chicago, sympathetic to their cause. The result of a test vote last Friday on the question of procedure, in which Dr. McAfee scored a victory over Dr. J. Gresham Machan, ultra-conservative member of the Princeton faculty, is regarded by delegates as signifying a complete triumph Monday.

PROGRAM OF "LIBERALS"

The "liberal" program calls for creating of a single board of control for the seminary and dissolution of the two boards of trustees and directors, now in conflict. In addition it provides for extension of the power of the president to make possible effective action toward ending faculty conflict.

Directly opposed is the program of the ultra-conservative group, who seek to leave the boards as they now are constituted and to cut the powers of the president, Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, accused of "liberalism," so that he would amount to an administrative agent of the faculty and the boards.

BITTERNESS ON CAMPUS

So bitter has the controversy become on the seminary campus, the assembly was told, that members of the two factions on the faculty have refused to associate with one another even to the extent of shaking hands.

Alumnae and friends similarly have been perturbed in the matter to a point where the assembly was told that the spiritual energy of the church is being reduced.

Dr. Stevenson is accused of favoring a program opening the way of theological doctrine at the seminary to new thought. From his supporters at the convention have come many assertions that Dr. Stevenson's activities have no intention of making any departure from traditional Presbyterian doctrine.

TWO IMPORTANT STEPS

Two important steps were taken by the assembly last week. The first provides for appointment of a commission to negotiate with representatives of other Protestant churches regarding organic union. The churches toward which definite negotiation is proposed include the Protestant Episcopal church, the Methodist Episcopal church, north, the Methodist Episcal church, south, the Presbyterian Church of the United States, south, and the Reformed Church Synod, generally known as the Dutch Reformed Church. Negotiations with the latter two church bodies are to be undertaken separately also.

The other outstanding action is decision to submit to the 214 Presbyteries overtures which would give women parity with men in affairs of the church. A majority of the Presbyteries must vote affirmatively for each overture before it becomes the law of the church.

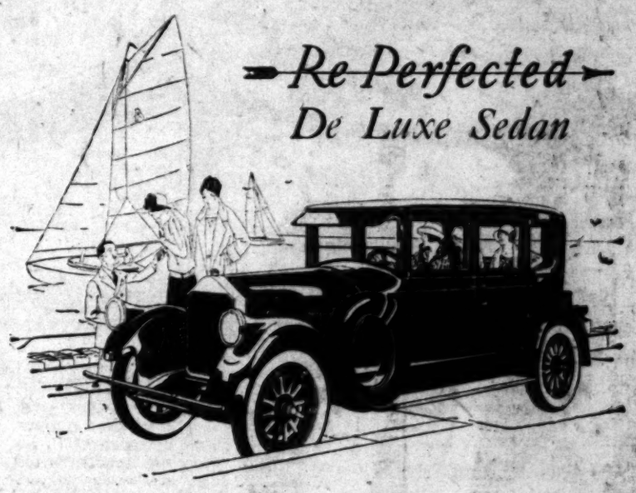
Re Perfected

De Luxe Sedan



The last time we offered a Re-Perfected Pierce-Arrow DeLuxe sedan of the "80" series it was snapped up at once. We have just gotten ready for sale another of these five-passenger cars done in a rich maroon with black trim. It looks fine. The two spare tires are mounted in front fender wells leaving the trunk at the rear easy of access.

The previous owner equipped the wheels with new tires a short time prior to trading it to us. The finish inside and out is excellent. The body, fenders and hood are not marred.

After Re-Perfecting the car mechanically in our own shops, the finish was retouched on the few spots needing renewal. The customary guarantee and service, such as applies on new Pierce-Arrows, will be given free.

As the price is but $1350 you can judge for yourself whether you can afford to delay seeing it and testing it.

REPORT SHOWS COSTS OF CITY

Government Bureau Gathers Los Angeles Statistics

General Departments Take $66,250,659 in 1928

Transactions of County Also in List

WASHINGTON, May 26. (Exclusive)—The Department of Commerce announces a summary of the financial statistics of the city corporation of Los Angeles for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928.

It should be noted that in order to put the city of Los Angeles on a basis comparable with those cities in which the county organization has been merged with that of the city and in which the schools are a part of the city corporation, the figures here given include 58.3 per cent of the transactions of the independent county of Los Angeles, 86.9 per cent of the transactions of th independent high school district, 90.6 per cent of the transactions of the independent elementary school district, all for the fiscal year closing June 30, 1928, the percentage in each case being based on the ratio of the assessed valuation of the city to that of the entire independent district.

No per capita figures are given, there being no estimate of the population of this city shown for 1928.

EXPENDITURES LISTED

The payments for operation and maintenance of the general departments of Los Angeles amounted to $66,250,659. In 1927 the comparative amount for operation and maintenance of general departments was $58,881,391 and for 1918, $13,932,033. Payments for the operation and maintenance of public service enterprises in 1928 (waterworks, electric light and power system, harbor and cemetery) amounted to $11,154,448; interest on debt, $10,599,272, and outlays for permanent improvements, including those for public service enterprises, $71,540,136. The total payments, therefore, for operation and maintenance of general departments and public service enterprises, for interest and outlays, including the county and schools, were $159,544,515. The totals include all payments for the year, whether made from current revenues or from the proceeds of bond issues.

Of this amount $2,486,773 represents payments by a city department or enterprise to another on account of services.

The total payments included for the county amounted to $36,298,822. Of this amount $22,127,578 represents payments for operation and maintenance of general departments; $10,515, operation and maintenance of public service enterprises; $868,647, interest on debt; and $13,182,082, outlays. The total payments included for the schools amounted to $24,562,325. Of this amount $18,703,058 represents payments for operation and maintenance; $2,742,523, interest on debt; and $3,116,744, outlays.

REVENUES OF CITY

The total revenue receipts, including the county and schools, were $152,166,523. This was $64,162,144 more than the total payments of the year, exclusive of the payments for permanent improvements, but $7,377,902 less than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. These payments in excess of revenue receipts were met from the proceeds of debt obligations. The revenue receipts included for the county amounted to $33,191,549, and those included for the schools, to $24,155,645.

Of the total revenue receipts, $2,486,773 represents receipts from a city department or enterprise on account of services.

The property taxes represented 47.9 per cent of the total revenue for 1928, 47.8 per cent for 1927, and 65.4 per cent for 1918. The increase in the amount of property taxes collected was 275.2 per cent from 1918 to 1927, and 15.7 per cent from 1927 to 1928. The amount of property taxes collected was $72,907,178 in 1928, $63,009,528 in 1927, and $16,791,950 in 1918.

Earnings of public service enterprises operated by the city represented 16 per cent of the total revenue for 1928, 17.5 per cent for 1927, and 13.7 per cent for 1918.

INDEBTEDNESS OUTSTANDING

The total funded or fixed debt outstanding, June 30, 1928, was $224,431,962. Of this amount $109,244,592 was for public service enterprises.

The net indebtedness (funded or fixed debt less sinking fund assets) was $207,128,503. Of the total net indebtedness, $136,794,333 was for the city corporation, $17,566,441 for county, and $52,767,729 for the schools. In 1927 the net debt was $203,403,399, and in 1918, $48,708,256.

The increased net debt reported for 1928 was principally due to bonds issued for the electric light and power system and for county purposes.

VALUATIONS AND TAX LEVIES

The assessed valuation of property in Los Angeles subject to ad valorem taxes for the city corporation was $1,723,154,405. The levy for all purposes was $72,865,450, of which $29,556,686, or 40.6 per cent, was levied for the city corporation, $23,664,804, or 32.5 per cent, for the county, and $19,643,960, or 27 per cent, for the schools. The tax levy for the city, county and schools was $63,210,576 in 1927 and $15,837,425 in 1918.

In California there is no levy of the general property tax for State purposes.

UNIFORM CLASSIFICATION

Financial statistics of the cities having a population of over 30,000 have been collected since 1903, but because of the diversified accounting systems in the 250 cities in this class it is still necessary to have agents visit most of these cities to prepare the reports.

The Bureau of the Census advocates a simple, logical and comprehensive classification of accounts, the use of which will permit obtaining readily accurate and comparable data. It requires only that the accounting official segregate receipts and payments under proper headings, showing the sources of revenue and the objects of expenditure. This can be done in any city without changing the present system of accounting.

ELECTRICAL UNBALANCE HELD DISEASE CAUSE

ATLANTA, May 26. (AP)—A theory that there is fundamentally only one disease, due to loss of electrical balance in the body, has been presented to the Interstate Post-graduate Medical Association of North America here.

The author is Dr. J. E. R. McDonagh, surgeon of the London Lock hospitals. His ideas bring together some of the recent findings of the many ways in which slight electrical effects manifest themselves in the body.

He holds that resistance to disease is the one vital factor in health, and that if the resistance is high enough, no kind of infection can get started.

This resistance, he says, depends on the state of protein particles. The proteins are called the life-carriers of the body. They are complex substances, forming an important part of body cells.

"If an invader," says Dr. McDonagh, "either of a bacterial or a chemical nature, is able to subject the protein particles to a dehydration, disease is caused—the term infection being used when the invader is a micro-organism. When the protein particles are subjected to dehydration, they part with certain absorbed constituents.

"One of the first of these to be freed is electricity; a change of energy occurs, heat instead of electrical energy being liberated, thus explaining why, when micro-organisms gain a footing in the body, the victim exhibits a rise in temperature.

"The fight between the invaded and the invader boils down to being one for the retention of electricity. If the parasites lose their electricity, their bodies break up and go into true solution as do the protein particles of the body when the invader gets the upper hand.

"Since the battle is of such a simple nature it becomes quite clear that the sole aim of treatment is to restore to the body's protein particles, the electrons they have lost."

Chiropractors Hear Unity Plea

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26. (Exclusive)—Unity among the chiropractors of California through a strong State organization was the keynote of addresses today before the California Chiropractic Association in convention here.

"Our hope is to bring into this one organization all legal and reputable members of the profession," said Dr. C. O. Hunt of Oakland, president. "We believe that through a strong organization we will best be able to advance our profession."

Speakers include B. J. Palmer, son of the founder of the school of chiropractic, Drs. R. P. Crawford, P. Z. Whirworth and J. E. Johns of Baltimore.

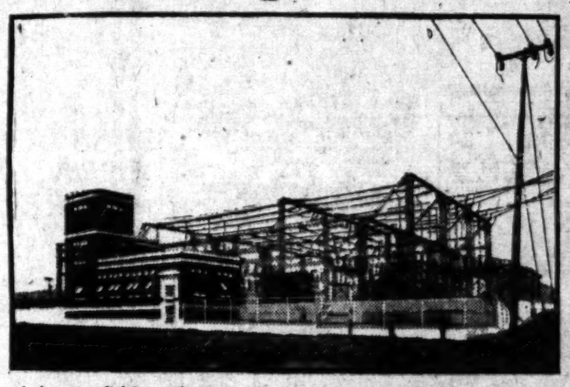
Why Electricity is Cheap



An important link in our Electric Distribution system. Eastside Substation, the terminus of the 24-mile, 110,000-volt transmission line from Seal Beach Station.

WHY?

No single organization may claim the credit for the low rates prevailing for electric service. Many organizations and industries have helped to make low electric rates possible. Like all other prices, electric rates respond to economic causes. In the present series of statements we shall discuss some of these causes briefly.

I. Greater Demand; Mass Operation

II. Better Production Methods

III. Better Distribution Methods

III. Better Distribution Methods

LOW ELECTRIC RATES are the result of economies made possible by increase in consumers, increased use per consumer, improved equipment and engineering skill. This fact is clearly seen in the case of electric distribution.

Why Distribution Costs Are Less

Improved methods of construction, reduction in line losses, the development of high voltage transmission, supervisory control substations, and the use of various labor- and time-saving devices, are some of the reasons why electric distribution costs less today—and, therefore, why electric rates are low.

Modern Methods—More Efficiency

We now dig pole holes and set poles by machinery; poles are given longer life by preservative treatment before setting in the ground; automotive equipment speeds up and increases construction work on our distribution system; automatic supervisory control of electric distribution substations has cut down operating costs; modern high voltage transmission of current, both from generating plants and through primary circuits, allows much more power to be sent over a given electric line; and improved transmission methods have reduced line losses.

More Users—More Current Used—Same Equipment

In addition, electric distribution costs per consumer have been reduced because of increased number of users and larger individual use. It costs just as much to install a mile of distribution system whether it serves 5 consumers or 50, and regardless of how much or little current the individual consumer uses. So, the more customers per mile of line, and the larger the individual consumption, the smaller the cost of distribution per consumer.

The average number of meters per mile of electric line of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation has increased 82% since 1909; and the average consumption per meter has jumped 147% in the same period.

It Costs 44% Less Today

These are some of the reasons why it now costs us 44% less to distribute electricity than it did about 20 years ago—and why electric rates are low today.

Living Costs Up—Electric Rates Down

United States Department of Commerce figures show that the average electric rate is now 8% lower than in 1914. In contrast, the general cost of living is 64% higher than in 1914.

NEWEST FILM NONEXPLOSIVE

Washable Cloth Negative is Perfected

Several Processes Involved in Invention

Made Expressly for Sound, Moving Pictures

PITTSBURGH, May 26. (AP)—The housewife of the near future may say to her servant:

"Bridget, put those photos of father in the wash and hang them on the line to dry. Be sure to iron them tomorrow, for he is coming on a visit and I want them to look nice and fresh.

Exactly that can be done with a new kind of picture film invented by Dr. F. W. Hochstetter, head of the Hochstetter Laboratories here.

He is not using the invention for household purposes, but instead is applying it to produce new types of sound-picture films and radio transmission of sound, photos and motion pictures. Several new processes are involved.

MADE OF CLOTH

The first is making photographic film out of cloth, so that it is washable, ironable and noninflammable. He says that cotton, silk, linen or even paper can be used.

All this once was considered impossible because the mesh of the goods would interfere with light transmission, distorting both pictures and sound. He overcame this by treating cloth with a solution that reads like a concoction of one of the powerful doses of medicine grandfather used to take.

This solvent includes water, gelatine, common table salt, citric acid, chrome alum, glycerine, barium, starch, glucose and emulsified castor oil.

DISTORTION ABSENT

Its results, Dr. Hochstetter says, are to melt the fiber so that it fills in the mesh spaces smoothly. When light beams pass through or reflect from this film they are "softened"—that is, transmitted in truer proportions to their photographic and sound values, and without so much risk of distortion.

The extreme machine perfection, which requires accuracy to within thousandths of an inch in some of the sound-reproduction processes, appears to be unnecessary in the cloth-film apparatus. Two common automobile parking lamps were used in a machine which Dr. Hochstetter assembled to demonstrate his invention to leaders of sound and picture industries in New York.

SILVER-SELENIUM BASE

The emulsion on the cloth film is different from the usual bromo sensitized surface. Its base is silver-selenium.

Along with the new film Dr. Hochstetter announces invention of a process for reflecting sound and pictures from the face of the film, instead of transmitting light through film. He also has a different method of amplification of sound to get further away from distortion.

The optical-reflecting circuit focuses the entire picture upon a photoelectric cell instead of scanning it piecemeal. Dr. Hochstetter says this enables the photo-electric eye to transmit the sound and picture values more correctly.

WASHINGTON, May 25. (AP) The Navy Bulletin of Engineering Information said today one of the Navy's ships during recent fleet maneuvers encountered heavy weather, with the result that her fuel ran low.

Uncertain of making port, the war craft sent the following message to the flagship:

"Am running low on fuel; would you advise burning wardroom furniture?"

"Don't burn wardroom furniture," the answer came back. "Use your head."

Woman Who Gave Health for Humanity Loses Fight

Allowed Self to Be Inoculated With Deadly Germ

Judges Rule Dead Man's Estate Not Responsible

NEW YORK, May 26. (Exclusive) A woman who sacrificed her health for humanity has been denied recompense in the appellate division of the Supreme Court. By a vote of three to two the justices dismissed her suit for one-tenth of the $5,000,000 Elvin C. DeWitt estate.

In 1919, Mrs. Mae G. Brearton charged, she submitted to inoculations of virus of one of the most dreadful diseases known to mankind. DeWitt, who was a leading patent - medicine manufacturer, convinced her that she was benefitting medical science and that he would prevent serious consequences, she said.

After several months Mrs. Brearton discovered to her horror that the disease was gaining. DeWitt finally was forced to admit that he was powerless to check its progress. Besides the $7000 he paid her at the time of the inoculations, she said, she received $200 a month until her condition became alarming in December, 1925. Then, and again in January, 1926, he paid her $1000. In February, 1926, he signed an agreement assuring her $1000 a month for the rest of her life. He died in March of the following year.

Mrs. Brearton's efforts to have the executors of the estate, Mrs. Cora C. DeWitt, widow, and a nephew, Harold B. Niles of Chicago, continue the contract, failed. She brought suit for $500,000 in December, 1927. Three justices have held that the contract was voided by DeWitt's death. The two dissenting held that it was binding on the estate.

Kentucky Boy Silent About Killing Playmate

Tells Father He Believed Gun Unloaded

Appears to be Unaffected by Notoriety

PAINTSVILLE (Ky.) May 26. (AP) Carl Newton Hahan, 6½-year-old boy who killed his plamate, Cecil Van Hose, 8, after a quarrel, has not mentioned the shooting since about thirty minutes after it occurred, his father, John Mahan, said today.

"Carl has not talked to me about the shooting," said Mr. Mahan, "since I talked to him about thirty minutes after the trouble and he told me he did not know the gun had a shell in it, that he only wanted to scare Cecil and that if he had known it was loaded he would have taken the shell out."

The Mahan boy evidently is unaffected by the dozens of reporters and photographers who have interviewed him and taken his picture. He went to bed last night at 7 o'clock and slept until 7:30 a.m. today, his father said.

Carl does not go to Sunday-school and never had been to a picture show, his father said. His family does not attend a church. Carl is to attend school in September if everything goes well, his parents said.

The boy was given a fifteen-year reformatory sentence by a county judge after his conviction by a jury, but the Circuit Court granted a writ of prohibition, to which the county judge appealed. The appeal is pending.

Slowness and Other Faults Laid to Reds and Blues

Flyers Turn Noses of Planes Toward Home Bases

DAYTON (O.) May 26. (AP)—Slowness in getting into action and many other military faults were charged against both the "Red" and "Blue" armies by Maj.-Gen. Dennis E. Nolan today in a post-mortem over the mock air and ground battles in Ohio during the last ten days.

Gen. Nolan delivered his criticisms after calling together airmen and infantry commanders whose "war" ended with an armistice early today.

More careful preparations of orders, greater use of artillery, avoidance of premature use of reserve forces in action and the necessity for ground staffs having a knowledge of air tactics were recommendations of the general as a result of weakness displayed in the maneuvers.

Maj.-Gen. Benson W. Hough of the Ohio National Guard said there was too much delay in the transmission of information because of a lack of adequate facilities. He advocated an emergency method of communication in addition to the message center system.

Col. H. C. Pratt of the Air Corps proposed that greater attention be given to the defense of airdromes. This is a way in which the opposing armies displayed weakness, he said.

Maj.-Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the Army Air Corps, who arrived in Ohio when the maneuvers were about ended, confined his remarks to an appreciation of Orville Wright, who with his brother, the late Wilbur Wright, invented the airplane. Mr. Wright was present at the critique.

When the lectures were over the flyers took to their planes and started homeward.

GENE JUST LIKE USUAL NEWLYWED

German Surgeon Rushed to Italy Assures Tunney Wife Will be All Right

BRIONI (Italy) May 26. (AP)—Mrs. Gene Tunney will be as well and sound as ever within a few weeks, her husband was assured today by the surgeon who performed an emergency operation for her abcessed appendix four weeks ago.

A rise in temperature a few days ago so alarmed the former heavyweight champion boxer, who was married only last October, that he hurriedly called upon Prof. Arthur Wolf Meyer in Berlin. The professor reached the island today and immediately motored to the Villa Puntanaso, where the Tunneys have been living in seclusion far from the social life of the large hotels on the Istrian coast.

After his examination of the patient the specialist declared the increase in temperature was normal in such cases and that there was nothing to become unduly excited about.

Accompanying the surgeon was a woman assistant, Dr. Gertrude Lullies. They were met by the local physician, Dr. Otto Lenz, who has been supervising the convalescence of the former Polly Lauder of Greenwich, Ct.

MASONIC LEADER DIES

SPOKANE, May 26. (AP)—David S. Prescott, 70 years of age, pioneer real-estate man and high in Masonic circles, died here today. Mr. Prescott, a thirty-third degree Mason, was Past Grand Master of the Masonic Grand Lodge for Washington and Alaska.

PRISON JOB FOR EX-CONVICT

Banker Who Served Time in Auto Killings Reported In Line for Inspection Post

PHILADELPHIA, May 26. (AP)—The Philadelphia Record said today it has learned from an authoritative source that Henry G. Brock, socially prominent banker who served three years in the eastern penitentiay, will be named a membe of the board of prison inspectors. The appointment, it was stated, will be made by the board of prison judges on June 4 and, according to the paper, is certain to be accepted.

Election of a former inmate of the prison as a member of the board of inspectors is without local precedent.

In 1923 Brock was charged with having killed three persons, two women and a boy, with an automobile. It was believed generally that a woman was driving the car at the time of the accident but Brock, refusing to divulge the name of his companion, also socially prominent, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six to ten years.

He was characterized as a model prisoner from the beginning of his term. His interest in the welfare of the other prisoners changed their viewpoint within a fortnight and they sought his friendship and accepted his advice.

Brock saw that hundreds of men were wasting their lives away in idleness and brooding over their misfortune. His wealth enabled him to purchase tools and machinery. He set an example of industry, and soon the "spirit of Brock" was noted throughout the prison.

Workshops inside the walls hummed with activity and there was keen competition to excel in workmanship. From the prison shops came beautiful objects in hammered brass, ship models, toys and articles of wearing apparel, all of which found a ready market on the outside.

Even after he was pardoned in 1926 Brock did not forget those he had left behind, and he has done much to make prison life a little brighter.

STRIKE ENDS AT TEXTILE INDUSTRIES

Union Leader Urges Men Back to Tennessee Jobs But Some Will be Barred

ELIZABETHTON (Tenn.) May 26. (AP)—Striking employees of the American Bemberg and Glanzstoff textile mills, meeting here late today, decided to return to work tomorrow.

The meeting, which was the outgrowth of dissatisfaction among a certain group of strikers who resented a statement by Dr. Arthur Mothwurf, president of the mills, that he was not willing to deal with the union, was addressed by W. F. Kelly, vice-president of the United Textile Workers. He advised the workers to return to work without further delay.

Kelly told the textile workers that E. T. Willson, brought here yesterday as director of personnel for the companies, in the future will act as mediator between the companies and the employees.

The workers voted to begin registration for their old jobs tomorrow morning. All will be taken back except a few "undesirables" under an edict laid down yesterday by Dr. Mothwurf.

HOOVER SITS IN LINCOLN'S CHURCH PEW

President and Wife Attend Services Dedicating New Tower on Historic Edifice

WASHINGTON, May 26. (AP)—President and Mrs. Hoover today attended services dedicating a new tower on the New York-avenue Presbyterian Church to the memory of Abraham Lincoln. The Chief Executive and his wife occupied the pew in the church which Lincoln himself used when he attended services there.

Funds for the tower were donated by Robert Todd Lincoln, son of the President, a short time before his death. It is built according to the design of Sir Christopher Wren and contains four illuminated clock dials and a set of Westminster chimes. At night the tower is to be illuminated by flood lights placed on neighboring buildings.

Secretary Stimson and Mrs. Stimson and Secretary and Mrs. Good also were present at the services. The occasion was the first Sunday that Mr. Hoover has not worshiped at the Quaker church since his inauguration, with the exception of last week when he was out of the city.

VANISHING GIRL NAMED IN DIVORCE

Daughter of William Fox Sues Spouse on Story of Bathrobe Beauty Seen

MINEOLA (L. I.) May 26. (Exclusive)—The assertion that the mysterious "girl in the bathrobe" was just an optical illusion of detectives who raided Douglas N. Tauszig, son-in-law of William Fox, motion-picture magnate, will be tested in Mineola Supreme Court tomorrow. Mrs. Mona Tauszig, the 27-year-old daughter of the film millionaire, then will begin her divorce action against her 33-year-old husband, who has denied all her charges and is preparing to battle the suit.

Tauszig, formerly the fair-haired boy of the Fox outfit—he was director in twenty corporations, was residing in the Montclair Hotel in Manhattan last January when his wife's natural curiosity as to his well-being impelled her to send private detectives to look in on him.

They took rooms on the same floor as young Tauszig and one bright day in January burst in on Tauszig. With them were two Fox company executives. Tauszig, however, was not as pleased to see them as they were him, and a scuffle ensued. Tauszig had the two Fox executives arrested on a disorderly conduct charge which later was dismissed.

Louis S. Levin and Herbert Leitstein told the court that their call was an official one and that they had satisfied themselves that the girl in the bathrobe who disappeared into the bathroom was no illusion, but good divorce evidence.

Woman's Head Cut Off in Crash

CENTRALIA (Wash.) May 26. (AP) Ida E. Sundquist, 25 years of age, Vancouver (Wash.) high school teacher, was decapitated here today when a Great Northern Railway train struck the automobile in which she was riding. The train dragged the car and its driver, H. W. Durose, of Hoquiam, 165 feet. He was taken to a hospital here with a fractured vertebra and many bruises.

Durose had driven behind Great Northern train No. 459 and into the path of No. 458, going in the opposite direction.

Sportsmen Get Plane Service

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26. (Exclusive) — Operations of the new Sierra-Pacific Air Transit with amphibian planes are expected to begin July 1, it was announced today.

The company plans flights for sportsmen to all fish and game resorts, tourist air trips to widely known spots, a three-day Pacific Coast tour and regular daily service to Sacramento and Del Monte. Connections will be made with the Boeing system at Reno, Maddux Air Lines at Fresno and Western Air Express at Oakland.

IMMENSE COTTON CROP EXPECTED

More Than 200,000 Acres in San Joaquin

Estimated Valuation Placed at $19,800,000

By-product Value Reaches Staggering Total

BAKERSFIELD, May 26.—With Kern county's great acreage representing nearly one-fourth of the total, 201,000 acres have been planted in cotton for the 1929 season in the San Joaquin Valley counties of Fresno, Madera, Merced, Kings, Tulare and Kern, and the crop will have a value of approximately $19,800,000, A. M. Frost, chairman of the San Joaquin regional industrial committee of the California Development Association, reported at an important conference held in San Francisco.

The expected production is 165,000 bales and 82,500 tons of cottonseed oil. Because of the quality and high production average, however, Kern is expected to produce nearer one-third than one-fourth of the 165,000 bales. In this county growers generally average approximately a bale to the acre, or better.

The cottonseed oil will have a value of $1,687,500.

Another major item in Chairman Frost's report, predicting an era of prosperity for the San Joaquin Valley, concerned recent discoveries in valley oil fields, particularly the opening up of the Kettleman Hills field.

Presence of an enormous quantity of natural gas and high-gravity oil has been proved and gas being piped into the San Francisco bay region from Northern Kern county will have a substantial effect on the industrial development of the State, it is believed.

Large pay rolls are being created in the valley as the consequence of this development.

FOCH CHARGE IRKS "TIGER"

Clemenceau to Answer Statement Laid to Late Marshal That He Wanted Pershing Ousted

PARIS, May 26. (AP)—Statements attributed to Marshal Foch that Georges Clemenceau wanted to ask President Wilson to remove Gen. Pershing as American commander in France have brought "the Tiger" out of his lair.

"I dislike to have a controversy over a coffin," said the old Cabinet wrecker, referring to the posthumous character of the Foch statement, "but silence on my part would be interpreted as an admission, so I will reply."

M. Clemenceau has gone to his summer cottage in Vendee, where, despite his 87 years, he is busy writing with a quill pen a book dealing with war events. The volume will, it is expected, be ready for publication in the autumn.

Aside from the fact that "for once, the Tiger has changed his mind," the forthcoming work has aroused little comment among the literary and political elite of Paris. Those acquainted with the veteran statesman were more forcibly struck by his consent to write rather than by what he might say because for every six months since the armistice he has been approached vainly by publishers.

M. Clemenceau has repeatedly refused to permit his reminiscences to be published until several years after his death.

"They would cause too much trouble," he said. "Too many of the people mentioned are still alive."

But a few days after the death of Marshal Foch a prominent French writer, Raymond Recouly, put out a book, admitted to have been approved by the great soldier, in which it was stated that M. Clemenceau had tried to have Pershing superseded because he refused to have American soldiers used only as replacements in the French and British armies.

Aside from the fact that "for once, the Tiger has changed his mind," the forthcoming work has aroused little comment among the literary and political elite of Paris. Those acquainted with the veteran statesman were more forcibly struck by his consent to write rather than by what he might say because for every six months since the armistice he has been approached vainly by publishers.

HARLEM'S FLYING "UP IN AIR"

Ruckus Between "Black Eagle" and Promoters of N.A.A.A.A.C.R. Bursts Aviation Bubble

BY TOM PETTEY

NEW YORK, May 26.—Just as aeronautical Harlem got ready to go in for flying in a large way a dark cloud of dissension settled over that populous negro quarter today and practically blotted out everything except conversational aviation. The primary cause of the low ceiling over Harlem is the smoke arising from an open feud between Lieut. Hubert Julian, better known on Lennox avenue as the Black Eagle, and the N.A.A.A.A.C.R., or as its organizers call it, the National Association for the Advancement of Aviation Among Colored Races, Inc.

The N.A.A.A.A.C.R. is not a club although the Black Eagle insists it is a club over his head.

"All them letters don't mean nothing," Lieut. Julian explained today. "I am the aviation circles in Harlem—all of them. There ain't no other colored pilot there."

BLACK EAGLE'S FLIGHT

The Black Eagle, who claims to be the only combination colored ace, commercial pilot, trick flyer and parachuter in America, is best known hereabouts for his near trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Liberia in 1924. He took off unexpectedly both to himself and the crowd that lined the banks of the Harlem River in the seaplane Ethiopal and made a nonstop flight to Flushing Bay, where he was forced down for lack of gas.

Harlem's latest aerial enterprise was organized two weeks ago by one S. F. Hoffman, a white promoter and press agent. The N.A.A.A.A.C.R. has a high-toned office in Upper Broadway and branches in Harlem. The idea of the organization is graven on its name, but first there is the immediate need of raising $500,000 by a membership drive. The money, according to a prospectus, is to be used to establish "flying scholarships" for negroes.

CAUSE OF RIFT

The little rift that grew into a feud between the Black Eagle and the N.A.A.A.A.C.R. came about after the association advertised a proposed flight by Lieut. Julian to "Paris and return." The flight was scheduled for August, but the association disassociated itself from the colored ace and put him in a tailspin by declaring he is "not sufficiently outstanding in Harlem aviation circles."

"I," remarked the Black Eagle—throwing that outfit into the eclipse with an international all-colored aviation and parachuting air circus at Teterboro, N. Y., scheduled for July 14, next, "I will be the aviator, but I will train a wing walker on the wing of my plane and I will have a lady parachutric.

LICENSE EXPECTED

"I am the only colored pilot licensed to do flying; that is, I will be licensed as soon as I go through a few formalities. I already have had a physical examination by Dr. Louis R. Burnett and he says I am phenomenally perfect. Me not outstanding in Harlem—I'm the outstandingest colored pilot anywhere in this country, because I'm the only one.

"Nobody is disassociating me from anything I want to associate with. I'm quitting them. They are trying to instigate $500,000 from the colored races. What's more, I don't like the contract the association made me. They made me sign to stipulate the N.A.A.A.A.C.R. could take out life insurance on me in their favor. I don't like that kind of insurance when I stipulated to fly across the Atlantic to Paris and back to New York again."

The incorporators of the N.A.A.A.A.C.R., besides Mr. Hoffman, are Prof. Packer Ramsay, a pianist professor, and Mrs. Geneva Morgan Johnson, leader of the psychiatrist group in Harlem.

NAVAL PARLEYS APPEAR CERTAIN

England Not to Hail Secret Methods

Geneva Sees Five Powers Talk

Nations Prepare Data on Fleets

[By wire to the New York World.]
GENEVA, May 26. (Exclusive) Britain and the United States have inferentially pledged themselves to abstain from secret, informal naval negotiations and regard the question of naval disarmament as settled, consequently, is now practically certain to take place at Geneva this summer. It is learned from unofficial sources that the Japanese, Italian and British opposition to even temporary removal of naval decisions from the framework of the League has failed in London's acceptance of the plan.

It is said that the League of Nations will be asked to sponsor an "unofficial" meeting of the naval experts and technical representatives of the Washington treaty powers, which at the same time will act as a clearing house between this group and other members of the League committing to Stockholm, and Berlin full reports of

JONES RECALLED

Admiral Hilary P. Jones, who was sent to sojourn for several months in France, was recalled by President Hoover and has arrived in Washington where the State Department in conjunction with the British government and naval colleagues will immediately put the finishing touches to the "American-British values formula" before submitting it to the Japanese, French and Italian ambassadors.

The British and Japanese experts, however, are already comparing data and comparing the strengths of their fleets with those of other naval powers to be invited in the new parley to finish. None will receive official word of the plan, however, until after the conferences between President Hoover and Admiral Jones have been concluded and the American navalists have completed their draft of the formula governing naval armament.

WILL FOLLOW PLAN

While the procedure outlined officially could be altered, it is accepted in League circles as almost certain to be followed. London has definitely given up hope that any secret or private negotiations between the admiralty experts of the naval powers in England and Washington still remains as a meeting place, however.

French and Japanese insistence during the parleys in Geneva received the hearty support of League officialdom because it would facilitate the League in its representative of the smaller states who are equally interested in all-inclusive disarmament.

Word that will now be made to the naval decisions as it is possible to clear up the matter before the September Assembly of the League adjourns. It is thought it is indicated that the parleys might even be held during the first weeks of September to allow study of President Hoover's plan by the naval powers before it has completed earlier.

NAVAL PARLEYS DELAYED

It is stated as a certainty here that the preparatory disarmament committee will not be reconvened after naval disagreements have been liquidated. The proposed five-power parley is not to be regarded as a continuation of the preparatory disarmament conference but as an informal parleys with officials merely playing the part of "observers" for nonnaval powers, thus avoiding the question of inclusion in the discussions of the smaller nations such as Spain and Russia.

Developments who have been closely following international as well as naval developments predict that nothing will be lost in bringing about the meeting of the American naval experts at the expense of time. President Hoover has received the sincere support of the Premier of Paris in pressing for the parley.

ECONOMICS MUST FILL THE SKIES

EVERY CRACKER advertisement you see helps put a cracker between two jaws. Every airplane advertisement you see helps put an airplane in the sky.

TIME, current issue, publishes 21 aeronautical advertisements—more than have ever before appeared in a single issue of any general publication. Take a look—and think.

Think that when Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic he paid no fare, carried no cargo, not even a cat. He flew entirely on goodwill, the result of his own heroism and the trail-blazing enthusiasm of friends.

You cannot fill the sky with trail-blazing Lindberghs, for the trails are now blazed. Now the inexorable play of economics must fill the skies. Now airplanes are bought and paid for—for your or your neighbor's pleasure—for your or your neighbor's business profit. Every ship must have a master and a cargo and a port. What is true of ships is now true of airplanes. The enthusiasm of pioneering plus the stern practical necessity of going further, faster, has civilized the air.

This is aviation's first big economic year. The industry commands the labors of 75,000 workmen. They are turning out 30 planes each and every day—over 10,000 a year. Success attracts more capital to build more planes. Millions of private money for thousands of private planes. The U. S. Government, unlike European governments, subsidizes no aviation projects. Today U. S. aviation soars on its own wings, self-reliant, self-supporting.

Part of this success is successful advertising. Sound advertising. Thoroughly informative advertising. Advertising in TIME, the one and only Newsmagazine. And why TIME?

Because TIME goes each week to 220,000 influential, modern-minded subscribers, who set the pace of progress throughout the land and in the sky. Because they include the principal aviation officials of the U. S. Government, the founders of Aviation Country Clubs, officers and directors of thousands of corporations and tens of thousands of young Executive-Sportsmen who buy planes for business, for sport.

Because, in short, TIME is an economic buy.

This week TIME readers will read more aviation advertising than they have ever read before. And—economics will fill the skies.

In TIME pages you will see advertised:

¶ Waco, produced by Advance Aircraft, proud of "manoeuverability . . . in and out of the smallest field:" "WACO! WACO!" shouts one war ace to another when surnames are forgotten.

¶ That potent monoplane, the Bellanca, holder of many a record. Just finished for one customer is a great bird with silver wings, black fusilage, streamline of mandarin red, and an interior fit for kings.

¶ The sturdy Bird, modern product of the modern-minded Brunner-Winkle organization. "One Bird a Day."

¶ Command-Aire's craft, advertised for their "uncanny stability," in which many a pilot has learned to fly.

¶ [Consolidated, makers of the U. S. pursuit "Husky," and "The Fleet," its counterpart for private pilots, and "The Commodore," sister ship to many a U. S. Navy amphibian.

¶ The Fokker, world famed product of Anthony Fokker's bright particular genius for constant adaptation, unceasing improvement.

¶ Great Lakes Aircraft, makers of commercial and military planes and seaplanes—a unit of Allied Motor Industries, Inc.

¶ The Hamilton Metalplane, built like a dreadnought by far-flung United Aircraft & Transport.

¶ Mahoney-Ryan, from the makers who gave the world The Spirit of St. Louis. They concentrate now on a six place dual control Brougham.

¶ Wasp and Hornet motors, made by Pratt & Whitney, and so active that they have a whole magazine to themselves. The Bee Hive, of course.

¶ The tiny Moth which you can pack in a good-sized garage when you are not flying economically where your fancy dictates. It has Handley-Page wing slots.

¶ The Stearman (made by young Lloyd Stearman in Wichita, Kansas aviation center) which many a TIME subscriber is proud to own. It's "tough."

¶ Whitelsey's Avian, with Handley-Page wing slots. England's famous Avro Avian, holder of many records, makes its American début.

¶ Besides these and other planes, the advertisements will tell about The Austin Company of Cleveland, alert airport engineers and builders. Roth-Downs Airways, Inc., tell about their aviation textbook, "The Modern Airplane." The Sportsmen Pilot, high grade magazine of aviation, solicits your subscription. And tires? Goodrich makes the most for airplanes.

¶ Your adventures will also be financial, for three houses famed for aviation securities tell their story—K. D. Johnson & Co., Inc., Pynchon & Co., J. C. Willson & Co. Likewise McNeel Financial Service of Boston offers information and advice regarding aviation securities.

AWARD WINNER LEAPS TO FAME

Dr. Fred Shannon Unknown Few Weeks Ago

Wins Pulitzer Prize for Best History

Born in Missouri, Educated in Various States

MANHATTAN (Kan.) May 26. (Exclusive)—When the $2000 Pulitzer award for the best book of the year on the history of the United States was announced the other day, townspeople and students and faculty members of the Kansas State Agricultural College had difficulty in placing the neighbor who, overnight, had won fame.

Only his immediate colleagues in the history department of the college, and a few graduate students, are intimately acquainted with Dr. Fred Albert Shannon, the winner of the award. Others recalled him vaguely as the rather alight, somewhat stoop-shouldered young professor who used the side door to Fairchild Hall, always with books under his arm.

Students who had been in his classes remembered him, of course, the better ones for his brilliant lectures. The poorer ones for his telling satire.

For to tell the truth the man whose two-volume work, "The Organization and Administration of the Union Army, 1861-65," has won him international fame, wasn't famous locally until the Pulitzer committee discovered him.

LITTLE KNOWN

Dr. Shannon has been little known in Manhattan and on the college campus for the very good reason that virtually all his time, outside class hours, has been spent in study or with his family. These are the only hobbies he will admit. He doesn't know how to dance or to play cards or golf. He isn't interested.

As an active man in a frat he would be classed as a dud. As a research man and a scholar he ranks high, say his colleagues. As a teacher, well, the good students like him, and if the poor ones don't the feeling probably is reciprocated by the professor.

If you didn't know Dr. Shannon you might put him down for a grind and decide he was hardly worth cultivating. Exactly the reverse is true. He not only can talk, but does, fluently and entertainingly, when he cares to take the time. His recently won honors have all but obliged him to do some visiting. He visited his office to grant this interview.

BORN IN SEDALIA

"Yes, I was born in Sedalia, Mo.," he said. "My family lived there six months after my birth, and they tell me I had colic the whole time."

It seemed to amuse him a little that anybody should consider it important where he was born. Dr. Shannon attended public schools in Southern Indiana, where his father worked as a coal miner. When the boy was 11 he began working in the summer vacations, continuing through the years he was in high school and college. He worked in sawmills, a glass factory, a canning factory and Kansas wheat fields.

"But please don't make this a mushy story of the boy who worked his way through college," he said.

"My father-in-law-to-be got me my first schol," Dr. Shannon related. "It was at Brazil, Ind., the home of my intended bride, and the pay was $75 a month. I taught seventh and eighth-grade arithmetic, nine classes a day. I clerked in a Brazil store the following summer to pay off the debt on our furniture. I have never gone in debt since."

The next eight years Dr. Shannon devoted to teaching and study. He was three summers and a spring at Indiana University, where he received his master's degree in 1918, and three summers and a full year at the State University of Iowa, where he received the degree of doctor of philosophy (magma cum laude.) His teaching in those years was in Indiana grade and high schools, and Iowa Wesleyan College, Mount Pleasant. He was at the Iowa State Teachers' College from 1924 to 1926, coming from there to the Kansas State Agricultural College.

OUTGROWTH OF THESIS

The Pulitzer prize trophy is the outgrowth of a master's thesis at Indiana and a doctor's dissertation at Iowa. In the preface to the work Dr. Shannon expresses his indebtedness to Prof. James A. Woodburn, formerly of Indiana University, and Arthur M. Schlesinger, formerly of Iowa University, now of Harvard, for suggestions and criticism.

"Prof. Woodburn suggested the study," Dr. Shannon said. "There wasn't any other conscious suggestion, but I won't say that Grandfather Shannon's stories of his service in the Union Army didn't contribute an unconscious part to my interest in it."

Both his grandfathers were in the Union Army. His maternal grandfather, John Wesley Sparks, was in the Trans-Mississippi Army, but his Grandfather Shannon was with Sherman.

"Grandfather was one of the few men with Sherman who was not at least a captain," Dr. Shannon remarked with a suggestion of sarcasm. "But he was an orderly sergeant and at one time commanded a company. His lacking a commission may be explained by the fact that he was a Democrat in the Union Army."

Dr. Shannon has five childrens. The fifth, Marjory, was born the day the Pulitzer award was made public. In the preface to his prize-winning history Dr. Shannon expressed a special obligation to his wife, Edna Jones, "for countless hours of assistance in elimination of errors, proof reading, and preparation of the index." The Shannons live in a rented house which fails to afford the convenience of a study.

Dr. Shannon's work is a specialized study, undertaken to show how the Union changed from a peace to a war basis, to describe the evolution of the military policy of the army and to outline the inter-relation of State and national governments in the solution of various problems of recruiting, equipping, supplying and training the soldiers.

FALL KILLS STUDENT AT WILD PARTY

Son of Banker-Politician "Cuts" Class at Yale and Dies in Liquor Tragedy

BALTIMORE, May 26. (AP)—Leigh Milts Marlow, 21 years of age, Yale student and son of C. Thomas A. Marlow of Helena, Mont., banker and former member of the finance committee of the Republican National Committee, was killed today in a plunge from an eighth-floor window of the Belvedere Hotel to the street.

The plunge followed a drinking party with Robert P. Phillips of Paducah, Ky., another Yale student, and James Mayfield of Baltimore. Coroner Reinhardt said after giving a verdict of accidental death. Phillips and Mayfield were held without bond on a technical charge of violating the Volstead Act.

Phillips told police that he, Marlow and Mayfield had spent several hours in the hotel drinking, and that early today all three retired. A few minutes later, he said, Marlow arose from bed and clad only in his underclothes, walked to the window and plunged through it.

IRATE MATE SHOOTS PAIR

Husband Wounds Wife and Presumed Rival; Both Victims, Near Death, Have Families

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26. (Exclusive)—The mother of six young boys and girls and the father of six grown sons and daughters were shot and perhaps fatally injured today by the woman's husband, inflamed with drink and jealousy.

The husband, Norman C. Crosby, 40 years of age, a railroad engineer, escaped after the shooting but was arrested later at the home of a friend. A partially filled bottle of whisky was found in his pockets. He was taken to Mission Emergency Hospital, where his two vicitims positively identified him as their assailant.

Mrs. Ethel Crosby, 37, mother of Crosby's six children, whose ages range from 2 to 18 years, was taken at the point of death to Mission Emergency Hospital with a bullet in her abdomen and her head cruelly bashed in with a revolver butt.

William S. Von Hatten, the father of six married sons and daughters, also is in a critical condition at Mission Hospital with two bullet wounds in his abdomen and a third in his arm. It was he who was the object of Crosby's jealous rage.

The shooting took place near Mrs. Crosby's home in the Visitation Valley district. Crosby and his wife have been separated since Christmas.

Robert Crosby, 15; his sister Marie, 3, and several neighbors witnessed the shooting.

Mother and Girl Die in Plunge

SANTA ROSA, May 26. (AP)—Mrs. Charles Barnett, wife of a Santa Rosa capitalist, and her daughter Edith, 16 years of age, were killed today when their automobile, driven by the girl, went over a 100-foot embankment eight miles north of Willits. Charles Barnett was taken to a Willits hospital where his condition is pronounced critical.

TWO FLYERS MISSING FOR DAYS FOUND

Australians Take Refuge in Lighthouse Following Crack-up of Their Plane

MELBOURNE (Australia) May 26. (AP)—Two young Australian airmen, Lieut. Moir and Flying Officer Owen, who have been missing since the 17th inst., when they hopped off from Bima for Darwin, have been found at Cape Don, Queensland. They are unhurt, but their plane was damaged when they mistook the Cape Don lighthouse for Port Darwin and landed in the dark.

They have been living in the lighthouse without any means of communication with Port Darwin.

Pilot Brain of the Queensland and Northern Territories Aerial Service, who figured in the Southern Cross rescue, found the missing airmen at Cape Don. Searching the coastline he spotted the plane near the lighthouse and located Moir and Owen shortly afterward. He said they are being taken care of exceedingly well by the lighthouse keeper.

The government will dispatch a boat to pick up the flyers if they are unable to make the necessary repairs to their machine.

NEW ERA PREDICTED FOR HOMES

Architects' Competition, Says Expert, Will Improve Houses' Beauty and Value

CHICAGO, May 26. (Exclusive) "American homes should be better-looking and even more desirable from an investment standpoint as a result of the 1929 National Better Homes Architectural Competition," said C. Herrick Hammond of Chicago, president of the American Institute of Architects and supervising architect of the State of Illinois, here today.

"The Los Angeles Times and the twelve other newspapers throughout the United States co-operating with the Home Owners' Institute in this nation-wide contest among architects, draftsmen and students for the best designs of small homes are sponsoring a far-reaching educational competition which I believe has the general approval of the architectural profession. I also believe that architects throughout the country should give to this contest their encouragement and support."

This statement was issued by Mr. Hammond following an investigation of the program and rules of the competition made by Arthur Wallace Rice, prominent Boston architect, as chairman of the committee on competitions of the American Institute of Architects, who reported favorably. Raymond M. Hood of Chicago and New York, member of the architectural commission of the Chicago World's Fair and president of the New York Architectural League, heads the national jury of awards and is acting as chairman of the committee of arrangements for the contest.

A total of $29,000 in cash prizes has been offered for the best house designs submitted in the contest, which closes on June 30.

After investigating the set-up of this competition Mr. Rice said, "I believe the furtherance of this idea will tend to produce better home building and, incidentally, be beneficial to the architectural profession in so far as it calls attention of the public to the advisability of having homes properly designed by professional men."

With 2713 entries already received this contest has enlisted the active interest of more than three times the number of professional men who have heretofore participated in any competitions conducted in the architectural field.

University of Texas Benefits by Oil Boost

AUSTIN (Tex.) May 27. (Exclusive)—It is expected that the recent increase in the prices for crude oil, as posted originally by the Prairie Oil and Gas Company and followed by other companies, will cause a considerable addition to the monthly oil payment royalties to the University of Texas.

The new prices provide for an increase of 25 cents a barrel on all oil under 25 deg. gravity and an additional increase of 5 cents a barrel for each additional degree of gravity, with oil of 44 deg. gravity at $1.85 a barrel.

The oil from the deepest well in the world, which is upon University land in Reagan county, is of 56.3 gravity and its production will sell for the top price.

It is mixed with the other daily production of the field and will bring approximately 7000 barrels daily up to the maximum gravity and a price of $1.85 a barrel.

Girl Succeeds in Taking Life

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26. (Exclusive) — Ralpha Henderson, 19-year-old runaway girl from Sacramento, wished to die, she said when she shot herself ten days ago while attending a party in the apartment of Traffic Officer Stephen Hinrich. Today her wish came true. She died in the San Francisco Hospital, where she has lain, silent, while doctors fought for her life.

No friend or relative was at her side when she died. Yesterday Policeman Hinrich gave his blood in a final effort to save her life by transfusion.

STUDENTS ENROLLED FOR FLYING COURSE

TOTAL OF 224 BEGIN TRAINING JULY 1 AT SAN ANTONIO AND RIVERSIDE

WASHINGTON, May 26. (Exclusive)—A total of 224 students will commence an eight months' course of flying training on July 1, next, at the two primary flying schools of the Air Corps at Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex., and March Field, Riverside, Cal. The first named school will accommodate 111 of these students, among whom will be forty officers of the regular army, nine enlisted men and sixty-two flying cadets, while the Pacific Coast school will enroll 106 flying cadets and seven enlisted men.

At March Field the following students are entered from Pacific Coast States: Arizona—J. Hudson Smart, Tucson; Orville L. Oakes, Tucson.

HIGH HAT ON MEN'S ATTIRE

Copyright, 1929, W. J. Wilkin

BEACH PAJAMAS HAT FOR A KING SHRINERS

We find enough interest in beach pajamas to mention them here. They have long been favored at the European resorts, but only this year have they really taken hold in America. At Palm Beach, this winter, many of the best dressed men affected them, favoring generally the styles in flannel and silk, featured by modest colorings, and in many instances with beach robes to match.

Somewhere, our leading hat manufacturers read that "the head that wears a crown rests uneasy". This started them thinking, and when leading hat manufacturers start thinking, anything is likely to happen. Well, it was a problem, a good meaty problem that one could wrestle with, and sink one's teeth into, and take to bed with one. It was something with which to amuse one's Board of Directors, an excuse for dozens of late nights at the office.

One can't help becoming sentimental, when one thinks of royal heads resting uneasily under heavily bejeweled crowns, and the touching humanity of our leading hat manufacturers rose to great heights, and they resolved to give good King George a real swell hat, of lightweight felt, and with a snap brim, thoughtfully selecting a style which would be readily accepted by millions of American men, the moment His Majesty could be photographed at a Hunts Meet resting easily under the zephyr influence of the "Bognor".

Contrary to any opinion which you may have formed, we are really much in favor of the "Bognor", and we hope that King George is in a large, expansive mood when it arrives, because it's a very smart shape, and has a definite place in fashion, between the straw and felt hat season proper.

It won't be long now, until our streets are enlivened by the colorful Shrine Patrols capitulating the city to rollicking festivity. And who is there to say that there is ever enough of that to fill the bins of a metropolis whose heritage of wealth and climate make it America's playground?

As one would expect, our Shrine hosts are brushing up their wardrobes, apd judging by their selections thus far, we will see sports clothes galore. The accepted daytime costume for all the informal affairs, seems to be the blue flannel jacket, white flannel trousers, black and white shoes, and red tie to match the red fez. This idea, is of course, also carried out in tans, and greys by many.

For those functions which do not require full evening dress, we find much interest in the double-breasted dinner jacket, which may be worn without waistcoat, a boon on warm evenings to be sure.

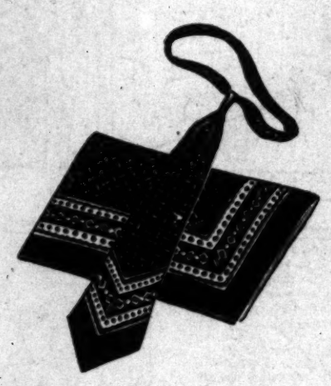
HiHat

Lightness and flexibility distinguish these Stetson Straws of imported Milan braid. They're smart, too, the puggaree band harmonizing with the new pastel shades of straw. There are a number of models, the Newport being illustrated.

At Harris & Frank

A two-piece suit which should find favor this summer is of Huddersfield flannel, from Huddersfield, England. It is grey, of lightweight fabric, soft and luxurious. The coat, which has two buttons, patch pockets, and notch lapels, may be worn with white or grey flannels. The trousers shown are English cut, white, with full twin pleats.

At Desmond's



We dropped into this shop just as the Paris wrappings were being removed from these tie and handkerchief sets. New French designs hand-blocked on crepe in striking richness, introduced a new thought in summer neckwear, the same design carried out in the handkerchief of the same material. The cravats are of loose construction and silk lined.

At Mullen & Bluett

The latest development in sports oxfords, is the tailored brogue in beige buck, with conservative wing tip. This shoe, which is made by Stacy-Adams, has a medium custom toe, semi-soft, and just enough ornament to lend a sports atmosphere to its trim, slightly severe lines. The same model may be had in brown Scotch grain, entirely hand-made.

At Hamilton's

A robe which is in great favor, both at the beaches and clubs, is of broad plaided, English flannel. The color combinations are often of striking brilliance. These robes are light in weight, but quite warm, and do not soil easily.

At Roos Bros.
Hollywood

The newest, and indeed one of the smartest robes we've seen, was created by this exclusive custom shop. It is made only to order, of course, of imported English washable viyella, in smart new colors. The outstanding feature is the roll lapel, which may be buttoned closely around the neck, as a collar.

At Machin's
Custom Shirtmaker

Here is a popular two-piece suit of dark navy blue, with broken pin stripes. In the new "Dixie Weave," it is of tropical weight, has patch pockets, and medium wide, notch lapels. May be had in several smart shades.

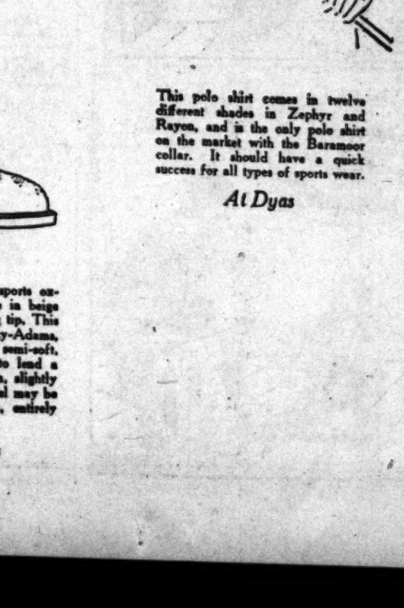
At Silverwoods

Shriners have agreed upon this ensemble as most suitable for wear during the Convention. Sports jacket of deep blue flannel, notch lapel, patch pockets. Trousers of plain white cricket flannel. Collar attached shirt of white oxford or broadcloth, and tie of silk or satin in plain turkey red, to match the famous red fez.

At Halbriter's

A harmonious contrast is achieved in this beach ensemble, which has the simple one-piece swim suit in beige (a Swim-Easy by the way,) and the smart flannel robe of rich maroon, trimmed at the roll lapel, sash, cuffs and pockets with a lighter tone, a sort of pastel maroon.

At Matthews
in Hollywood



This polo shirt comes in twelve different shades in Zephyr and Rayon, and is the only polo shirt on the market with the Baramoor collar. It should have a quick success for all types of sports wear.

At Dyas

This sports oxford of brown or black trim on white buck, is the style we see in greatest numbers at the popular resorts, worn with the flannel ensembles. It is a trim, conservative style, having the favored wing tip.

At Walk-Over

Johnston & Murphy introduce a new summer moccasin, which is an extremely smart shoe for all sports wear, as well as being exceptionally suitable for the Southern California Climate. It is of very light construction, in tan grain calf on the blucher style, and girded at the ankle with a let-in leather thong.

GOLFERS QUALIFY IN STATE CHAMPIONSHIP TODAY

Stars Come From Behind to Annex Pair

CHAMPIONS---PAST AND PRESENT

One of this trio may hold the 1929 California State golf championship after Saturday. Fay Coleman of the California Country Club, former Southern California champion, looms as a favorite to bring the title south. Dr. Paul Hunter of Annandale, California title-holder in 1920 and 1921, is playing brilliant golf. He shot a 76 in the north-south team matches Saturday. Johnny J. McHugh, 23-year-old San Francisco Irish golfer, holds the title. He finished ahead of the field in 1923, and repeated in 1927 and 1928. Qualifying play for the annual championship starts today over the famous Pebble Beach course, which has been selected for the national amateur championship in September. The sixteenth hole at Pebble Beach forms the background.

SOLONS TWICE BOW TO VITTS

Sheiks Erase Big Leads to Win, 13-8 and 7-6

Carlyle's Hitting Features Opening Struggle

Heath's Homer With Two On Captures Nightcap

BY BOB RAY

Hollywood's fighting Stars—and fighting Stars they were yesterday—twice came from behind and defeated Sacramento in both games of the Sabbath bill at Wrigley Field. The Sheiks, after spotting the Solons a six-run lead, finished strong to annex the opener, 13 to 8, and then overcame a four-run handicap to nose out the visitors, 7 to 6, in the thrilling night-cap.

MICKEY HEATH

The double victory gave the Stars the series, six out of seven, and moved them up to fourth place in the stands.

It was a great day for Oscar Vitt and the 14,000 fans gathered for the bargain bill, for everybody seemed to get a great kick out of the thrilling uphill fights made by the scrappy Stars. Overcoming six and four-run leads in one afternoon is something you don't often see, but the Stars did that stunt yesterday and won themselves a lot of followers who appreciate a fighting ball club.

Mickey Heath, who batted for the phenomenal mark of .640 last week with sixteen hits out of twenty-five times at bat, was the hero of the second game. Mickey delivered a home-run clout with two men on in the fifth to cap Hollywood's five-run rally that wiped out the Solon lead. That hit of Heath's was his third of the game and his fifth of the afternoon. Altogether, Mickey drove in five

JOHNNY M'HUGH DEFENDS TITLE AT PEBBLE BEACH

Brilliant Field of Southland Links Stars Enters California Event; Coleman Reigns Favorite

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DEL MONTE, May 26. (AP)—The eighteenth annual California amateur golf championship gets under way here tomorrow with a field somewhat smaller than in past years but never-the-less numbering enough stars to make it the classic of the Coast.

An innovation in the conduction of the tournament this year will send the low-handicap men out to battle for the State title on the tricky Pebble Beach course while those fairway ramblers whose handicaps are eight or more will compete for the newly created "handicap championship of California" on two less difficult courses.

WINSTON FULLER

Johnny McHugh, lanky San Francisco youth, will defend his title and seek a third successive championship against a list of challengers led by the grand old man of coast golf—H. Chandler Egan of Medford, Or. Three years ago, Egan fought his way to the State championship and in doing so eliminated the present titleholder in the finals. Last September it was McHugh who beat out Egan in the finals.

Among the 300 starters in tomorrow's qualifying rounds, McHugh will also have strong competition from such other noted figures as Jack Neville of Monterey, four-times winner of the State championship; Dr. Paul Hunter of Pasadena, also a former titleholder; the Coleman brothers, Fay and Lester, Harold Thompson, W. W. Camp-

CUBS TAKE NATIONAL LOOP LEAD

Regain First Place With Win Over Cincinnati, 5-1; Bush Hurls Win

CHICAGO, May 26. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today regained the leadership of the National League by trouncing Cincinnati, 5 to 1, while the Cardinals were losing double-header to Pittsburgh.

GUY BUSH

Guy Bush was on the mound for the Cubs and held the Reds to eight scattered hits. Two double plays helped him in the only innings he was in trouble. It was Bush's fifth victory of the year. He hasn't lost a game yet.

Hornsby's home run with English on base in the seventh clinched the game for the Cubs. It was his sixth of the year. Stephenson had

UPLIFTERS TAME TIGER POLOISTS IN 9-6 GAME

Eric Pedley's Uplifters' Club polo-ists rode to a convincing victory over Hal Roach's Santa Monica Tigers yesterday at the Rustic Canyon Field by a 9-to-6 score before the largest crowd of mallet fans that has gathered for a polo game this season at the Uplifters'. Pedley, making his final appearance locally for the year, was at the height of his form. The "White Knight" rode six goals across for the winning team. Pedley's performance was by far the best displayed on the rustic Canyon Field and the crowd gave an extra big hand when he rode off the field at the termination of the contest.

The game which was a rematch between the two squads was one of the most thrilling contests of the summer season. Hal Roach and Snowy Baker played fine polo for the losers but their performances was nothing in comparison to the one turned in by young Pedley who was simply unbeatable yesterday and the Tigers seemed to sense it before the game was half over.

Hal Roach scored three goals for

ANGELS NAB DOUBLE BILL

Seraphs Defeat Portland by Scores of 7-1, 8-6, to Win Five out of Seven Games in Series

PORTLAND, May 26. (Exclusive)—Walter Berger was the fair-haired hero for Mr. Wrigley's pastimers today. Berger's hitting ruined Curtis Fullerton in the first game of a double Los Angeles swept from Portland when he lammed a homer with one on in the first inning, starting a batting riot that ended with the score of 7 to 1, and he simply wrecked the second engagement.

His homer in the ninth broke a 6-to-6 tie, spoiled some fancy relief pitching by Roy Mahaffey, and gave the Angels this game, too, by an 8-to-6 count. The Angels took the series, five games to two.

WALTER BERGER

The first struggle was just one of those hitting affairs, but the second had a little of everything, including even a near free-for-all at the end.

The almost imbroglio was apparently started by Bobby Jones, Los Angeles third baseman, who was put out of the game by the umpires to cool off. This occurred just after Jones had batted, following Berger's winning home run. Jones made an effort to "drag" a ball toward first base so Pitcher Leroy Mahaffey would have to cover. It was a pop fly, however, and Keesey snared it. Mahaffey went to first nevertheless and Jones took a swing at him and punched him on the shoulder.

Jones was white-hot about something, his cause bein being the apparent belief that Mahaffey had tried to "beat" him. Just previously a pitch by Mahaffey had missed the back of Jones's head by inches

MISS WILLS, HUNTER SURVIVE

"Queen Helen" and Partner Remain of Eleven Yankee Tennis Entrants in French Hard Court Tennis Championships; May Sutton Bundy Wins Singles Match

ROLAND GARROS, STADIUM, PARIS, May 26. (AP)—Helen Wills and Frank Hunter, alone of the eleven American players entered in doubles competition of the French hard-court tennis championships, have survived the first week's play.

HELEN WILLS

"Queen Helen" and Hunter advanced to the final round of the mixed doubles today by defeating the English pair of Elsie Goldsack and D. O. Collins. The Americans will meet the winners of the match between Mme. Helen La Faurie and Rene La Coste and Eileen Bennett and Henri Cochet on Tuesday.

Most of the interest was in the men's doubles in which La Coste and Jean Borotra surprised with a brilliant five-set victory over Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, hitherto regarded in France as an unbeatable combination. The La Coste-Borotra pair won after two hours of fierce battling, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 8-6.

Much to the surprise of the spectators, Cochet was the weakest man on the court today. He lost his own service eleven times out of fifteen. Brugnon was the whole show for the losing team, but he could not stave off the fine work of La Coste and Borotra.

Miss Wills and Hunter displayed their finest tennis in downing Miss Goldsack and Collins, 6-2, 6-2. After dropping the first two games of the first set, the Americans ran off eight straight games to win the first set and lead by two games in the second. The score was brought to 2-all, but the Americans then ran out four games for set and match. Miss Wills's overhead game was much better than it has ben during the present tournament.

It was a day of unmixed bliss for the Americans. Wilbur Coen caught a tartar in the second round of men's singles in the person of Leonce Aslangul, champion of Armenia, but finally won his way into the third round by scores of 7-5, 6-1, 6-1, 4-6, 7-5. Aslangul, once the peer of the famous French players Gobert and Laurentz, was originally called "the Alligator"

Callahan to Defend Fistic Laurels in Star Battle at Olymic Tomorrow Evening

CHAMPION IS FAVORITE TO WIN GO FROM MAHAN

Mushy's Junior Welter Laurels Go on Block for First Time; Faces Deaf-Mute Boxer

Mushy Callahan is choice of so-called wise money to retain his world's junior welterweight championship tomorrow night when he defends it against Fred (Dummy) Mahan at Jack Doyle's Olympic.

However, Callahan is not underestimating the deaf-and-dumb challenger. Since joining hands with Jack Kearns the champion stands a chance to make more money than he has ever gotten before.

MUSHY CALLAHAN

Teddy Hayes and Joey Greenberg are paying as much attention to Callahan as Mickey Walker gets when he is defending the middleweight title.

Mahan—handicapped by being unable to talk or hear—has made great progress under the management of Fred Winsor.

Winsor claims that if Callahan fights Mahan like he did Spug Meyers there will be a new champion tomorrow night. Mahan is a short chop puncher and he is as rugged as a rock.

Mahan is the only deaf-and-dumb fighter in the country who ever attained sufficient prominence to fight for a world's championship.

In the last year Mahan has whipped Cuddy De Marco, Myer Grace, Clyde Hull and others. He also went ten rounds with Young Corbett in San Francisco a couple of months ago.

Mahan and Corbett drew a $14,000 gate, which is big for the northern town. The fight was far from one-sided, although the mute boxer lost the decision.

Callahan and Mahan ended training yesterday. Both are right on edge. Callahan weighed 140 pounds after his workout and Mahan tipped just a little above it. Kearns will be back of Callahan and Winsor will be in Mahan's corner. Winsor has worked out a set of signals so he can talk to Dummy during rounds as well as during the minute rests.

Jimmy McLarnin, challenger for both Callahan's and Joe Dundee's title, will sit at ringside. McLarnin has already signed to fight Dundee in New York, but so far the welter king hasn't scratched the pen yet.

The title bout is backed up by a good set of preliminary matches featuring Benny Miller and Billy Drake in the semi-wind-up and Ramon Lugo with Bobby Herman in the special event.

Miller isn't far off from the main-event class. He is one of the best Jewish youngsters developed here since Jackie Fields and Callahan came along a few years ago. Miller defeated the rugged Joe Bell in his last Olympic start.

Callahan and Mahan are to weigh 140 pounds at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

Nation's Fans Focus Optics on Callahan

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—The championship match between Mushy Callahan and Dummy Mahan at Los Angeles Tuesday night is the outstanding bout on this week's national fight program. Callahan will defend his more or less synthetic junior welterweight crown in a ten-round bout.

Leo Lomsky, one of the leading light-heavyweight contenders, will face Yale Okun of New York in another ten-rounder at Portland, Or., Tuesday night.

Chicago comes back to the fistic limelight with Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, in a ten-round nontitle match with Louis "Kid" Kaplan, former featherweight champion, at Mills stadium Friday night.

Philadelphia's outdoor season begins at Shibe Park tomorrow night with three first-class, ten-round bouts. Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight, and Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, negro, clash in one of them; George Courtney, Tulsa (Okla.) middleweight, and Jack McVey, New York negro, in another, and Pinky Kaufman, Hartford, Ct., and Baby Joe Gans, Los Angeles, negro junior welterweight, in the third.

Another bout of outstanding interest occurs in New York at the St. Nicholas arena tomorrow night when old Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion, takes his second step in a come-back campaign. McTigue is to battle George Hoffman, former amateur heavyweight champion, in a ten-round match.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday, at Memphis—Lew Terry, St. Louis, vs. Eddie Wolfe, Memphis, lightweights, ten rounds.
Tuesday, at Cleveland—Buck Lawlem, Syracuse, vs. Vince Dundee, Baltimore, welterweights, ten rounds.
Wednesday, at Akron—Eddie Anderson, Wyoming, vs. Harry Kid Brown, Philadelphia, lightweights, ten rounds.
At Oakland—Jock Malone, St. Paul, vs. Wilson Yarbo, Cleveland negro, middleweights, ten rounds.
Friday, at Hollywood—Tiny Roebuck, Kansas City, vs. Les Kennedy, heavyweights, ten rounds.
At Chicago—Bushen Hansen vs. Ted Ross, Chicago, middleweights, ten rounds.

Stauber Heads Trapshooters

The two days' registered shoot of the Los Angeles Gun Club ended in a blaze of glory yesterday. The scores yesterday were mighty fine despite the stiff wind which blew across the traps. A. J. Stauber was in fine form when he broke 99x100 to lead the fast bunch of Southern California shooters. Hebdon and Minoch were the runners-up with 97 each. Lou Reed and Gus Smith tied on 96 for third honors. Mrs. Gus Knight and Bixby whiffed 95 each. Adams, Tabler and Pfirsmann accounted for 94, while Taylor, Reidenbaugh and Houghtaling smashed 93. The 92's were Goodrich, Marsh and William Reid. Charlie Moist broke 90.

In the 100-target handicap Lou Reed from 24 yards accounted for 97 out of the century. Mrs. Gus Knight from 20 yards was the runner-up with 92; Moist third with 91 and Adams fourth with 90.

SOCCER MANAGERS ARE INVITED TO MEETING

Oscar Kozma, Los Angeles Athletic Club soccer manager, invites all the mentors of Southern California and Los Angeles City League teams to attend a special meeting to be held tomorrow night at the Mercury club, where a proposed schedule of association football games will be arranged for the Elks' sportsman's carnival. The Elks' affair will be staged on June 23 and Kozma is especially anxious to have soccer in the spotlight when the program is presented.

FRANK WYKOFF RUNS SATURDAY

Sprint Champion Appears in Junior Olympic Meet

Will Try for New Record in 75-Yard Dash

Boys of Nine Counties Will Show Their Wares

BY BRAVEN DYER

Frank Wykoff, brilliant Glendale Junior College sprinter, will be an added attraction at Moore Field, U.C.L.A., next Saturday afternoon when the Southern California Junior Olympic Games finals are to be staged.

FRANK WYKOFF

The national 100-meter champion will take a crack at the world's record for seventy-five yards. Henry Russell, eastern sprinter, did the distance in 7 2-5s. indoors some years ago, while Charley Borah of U.S.C. is said to hold the outdoor mark at 7 3-5s. At any rate Wykoff is going to see what speed he can generate over the distance and local fans will welcome the opportunity to see him in action once more.

DEFENDS CROWN

During the first week in July Wykoff defends his national championship in the A.A.U. meet at Denver and he is slowly rounding into first-class condition for that event.

Wykoff will be only one of several notables in attendance next Saturday. Douglas Fairbanks, famous motion-picture star and himself a great athlete, will be on hand to say a few words and officially recognize the youngsters who have put their heart and soul into the Junior Olympic Games program this year.

Herman Brix, second-place winner for the United States in the shot put at the Olympic Games, will also be present. He will try for a new world's record in the twelve-pound shot put.

Athletes of nine counties will compete in the meet. Those represented are Inyo, Imperial, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Riverside, San Bernardino, Ventura, Orange and Los Angeles.

Approximately 100 youngsters will take part in the program. They are the pick of more than 34,000 boys who were entered in the Junior Olympic Games this season.

Champions will be crowned in two divisions, the junior and senior. The first two boys in each section will be rewarded with a free trip to the Hawaiian Islands, this journey to be made during the latter part of July.

BAKER FAVORED

At this writing the junior division championship seems destined to go to Vane Baker, brilliant Huntington Park youngster, who rang up the amazing total of 749 points Saturday to win the Los Angeles county title. Baker was far ahead of Jerry Deal, who made the best score of his career to roll up 670 points.

Deal and Lisle Bressiln of the San Bernardino Y.M.C.A. seem to be the only juniors capable of extending Baker. The San Bernardino youngster has done 653 points and may boost that considerably in the heat of competition, just as Deal did last week. But Baker's chinning ability, coupled with his all-around performance in other events, makes him the logical favorite for the championship.

In the senior division the fight should be closer, although Robert San Jose of Anderson Memorial Playground at San Pedro has been performing so consistently in all events that it will take a brilliant effort by his challengers to knock him out of first place. San Jose did 677 points Saturday to cop the senior division for Los Angeles county. He did not win a single first place, but was so strong in all events that his score put him well ahead of Walter Waers, who came second with 649.

Although boys from outside counties have, with one or two exceptions, been unable to approach these high scores in the senior division, there may be an upset. Such a thing is very possible, especially in view of what happened Saturday, when Waers, who has been running about fourth or fifth in the county, boosted his score materially and edged into second position. Fernando Ramos, who had been touted to give San Jose a hot time of it, fell back to fourth place.

Everybody has a chance to win, even though that chance may appear slim to some at this time. The boys in third place are likely to find themselves the recipient of unexpected honors, for the executive committee has the final say as to which youngsters shall make the trip to Atlantic City for the national finals. So don't take it for granted that all the awards will be showered on the first two boys in each division.

AZTECS KNOCKED OFF TOP RUNG IN LEAGUE

SAN DIEGO, May 26. (AP)—San Bernardino put the San Diego team out of first place in the California State League here this afternoon, to all intents and purposes, by winning both ends of the double-header. The first contest went to the Padres, 10 to 2, and the second, 6 to 0. The Padres took the series, five games to one.

Sam Agnew, manager of the Aces, and Abarta, shortstop, were chased from the first game for protesting a decision at first base. The fans joined in the compliments to Umpire Bartlett. Scores:

First game:	R.	H.	E.
San Bernardino	10	11	2
San Diego	2	4	2

Lieber and Rodgers; Cross, Prestridge, Aull and Agnew, Kaufman.

Second game:	R.	H.	E.
San Bernardino	6	7	4
San Diego	0	7	4

Gorchek and Rodgers; Colley and Kaufman.

FIVE MORE ENTER MARATHON

Entry List Approaches Fifty-Mark; Former Classmate of Andy Payne Will Compete in Times Classic; Santa Paula Indian Shows Ability

With entries pouring in daily, the fifty-mark in the Times Pre-Olympic marathon is expected to be reached shortly. Five more leather-lungs signed up over the week-end to compete in the June 15 classic, swelling the list to date to thirty-eight entrants.

The latest arrivals are W. O. Lackey, who admits he is an experienced long-distance runner; Jimmy Smith, a 22-year-old athlete from Santa Ana; G. Bernard Johnson, Dave Goldberg and Eugene Chilberg.

The latter promises to be a serious threat in the 26-mile, 385-yard grind, and is ranked as a likely winner. He attended Ada, Oklahoma High School, with Andy Payne, winner of last year's C. C. Pyle cross-country bunion derby. He ran the mile on his high-school team, and switched to the two-mile while attending the University of Tulsa, where Elmer Henderson, former Trojan coach, is football mentor. Chilberg has been training regularly since coming to Los Angeles, and pronounces himself fit and ready for the long contest.

Severo Alvarez, youthful Santa Paula entrant, sent in his previous record yesterday, and seems entitled to a spot among the leading contenders. He has run in the Griffith Park, Occidental and City Terrace marathons, and only last year tested his speed and endurance over a thirty-mile route. Alvarez proclaims himself as of part Indian blood, and attributes his success in long distance running to this fact. He is running unattached, but announces that he "hopes to take first place for my Mexican race."

The entry list to date follows:

1—Henry Chaves, L.A.A.C.
2—Frank Smouse, L.A.A.C.
3—R. A. Davis, unattached.
4—Tom Humphries, L.A.A.C.

BOMBSHELL PROMISED IN "BIG TEN" RUMPUS

ernoon threw a bombshell into the situation with the assertion that it was the refusal of the university administration to support him in his efforts to clean up athletics at Iowa that prompted the conference faculty committee to oust the school from the organization.

DIRECT CHALLENGE

Belting said he opposed diverting a share of the athletic fund to help athletes through school. He ventured the opinion that President Jessup's refusal to support him was interpreted by the western conference as a direct challenge to clean sport in the University of Iowa and that they acted accordingly.

When Belting resigned as athletic director he was offered the position of head of the physical education department. This was nothing less than a bribe, he stated, and he refused to accept. He has no plans for the immediate future.

President Jessup had no explanation for the conference's decision.

"We, of course, are surprised by the conference's action in severing relations with us, but we have had no time to find out whether or not charges that Iowa subsidized athletes were true."

Asked if he was aware of the existence of a slush fund in Iowa City that took care of needy athletes, he answered in the negative.

According to Louis Pelzer, Iowa's faculty representative at the Big Ten meeting and secretary of the conference, it was the slush fund charge that resulted in Iowa's disbarment. It was his opinion, however, that Iowa will play its 1929 football games as scheduled and that the ban will not become effective until January 1, 1930.

Mr. Pelzer also believes that Iowa still is a member of the conference. His term as secretary of the conference will expire next December. If he is re-elected he believes that will be evidence that his school still holds a place in the organization. He placed no stock in campus rumors that Iowa had been ousted to make room for Notre Dame, Nebraska or some other school whose teams could perhaps make the turnstiles turn faster than representatives of the Old Gold.

Burt Ingwersen, head football coach, still was groggy from the shock of the announcement when he was interviewed this morning.

"I can't understand it," Ingwersen said. "There certainly is no school in the conference that tries harder to live up to the rules than Iowa. I know that I never have gone out of my way to recruit athletes and I challenge any man to produce evidence to disprove that statement. No other man in the athletic department ever has been accused of proselyting to my knowledge."

Students did not take the blow as calmly as the faculty. Many predicted that enough dynamite would be touched off in the next few days to blow up the conference.

"Why make a goat out of Iowa?" queried Bill Glassgow, captain-elect of the football team, who was one of the Big Ten's outstanding backfield men last season.

"I don't know what they have got against us, but if there is a slush fund operating in Iowa City I would like to get in on it. I have had only one pair of pants in the last two years. If we have been paying for athletes we have not been getting much for our money.

"It probably would do no harm if the conference faculty members would investigate some of the other schools," Glassgow added.

"I personally have received letters from Michigan in regard to enrolling there and Forest Twogood (former basketball captain and star pitcher of this year's Iowa team) received a telegram from Michigan after he started here.

WHAT ABOUT HOLMAN?

"They might look up the status of Holman at Ohio State, too, while they are about it," the Hawkeye gridiron pilot continued.

Early this afternoon 3000 students, nearly half of whom were coeds, assembled in front of the administration building, which was once the Capitol of Iowa, and listened to pleas of Cheer Leader Rowland Evans of Davenport, Iowa, that Iowa raise its voice in protest loud enough to be heard around the world.

With the shrill, staccato yell of "Iowa fights, Iowa fights," piercing the air, the delegation paraded up Clinton street, called Sorority Row, to the home of President Jessup.

After the demonstration Dr. Jessup predicted that Iowa's 1929 football games with Big Ten foes undoubtedly would be "extremely interesting."

STASIAK PICKED IN CLASH

Polish Giant Figured to Win Over Malcewicz in Star Bout at Olympic Wednesday

Stanley Stasiak, the Polish giant, is favored to beat Joe Malcewicz, the Utica mat panther, when they clash at the Olympic Wednesday night in the feature event of "Carnation" Lou Daro's wrestling show.

The Pole's forty-five-pound weight advantage, coupled with his greater strength and resistance, is expected to prove too much for Malcewicz to overcome with his sensational speed, cleverness and devastating backward body slam.

STANLEY STASIAK

Of the three matches Stasiak had here, Champion Gus Sonnenberg was the only grappler who forced him to open up to any great extent. The giant Pole is rated as one of the roughest and one of the greatest wrestlers in the game. His match here with Dick Daviscourt was one of the real rough ones of the season.

Stasiak is so strong that very few of his opponents have ever been able to break loose from his grasp after he had nabbed them with his most punishing and winning hold—the crotch and half-nelson slam. John Spellman and Daviscourt were each picked up and slammed down to stay. Malcewicz, despite his great elusiveness and his cleverness to wriggle out of punishing grips, is expected to prove another victim to Stasiak's pet grip, as well as his rabbit punches, one of the so-called roughing tactics he uses to weaken his opponents.

Both Nick Lutze, the popular Chicago mat star, and Don De Laun, young Long Beach sensation, are in line for a match with the winner of the feature event. Lutze and De Laun meet in the special event of this card, and mat experts rate them as even. Lutze is considered the more experienced and colorful grappler of the two, while De Laun is looked upon as the stronger and more punishing of the pair. For speed, there is little to choose between them.

De Laun has developed a set of cradle locks which has earned him the nickname of the "Octopus" among his training partners. He has a habit of tying his foes into knots, using both his arms and legs in the operation. He is also developing into a wonderful reverse headlock exponent, and may give Lutze plenty of trouble with this hold Wednesday night.

As Lutze will be furnishing the argument against De Laun, there is a possibility of the match "stealing" the show from the feature event. Lutze's three former matches here have all been good enough to take the play from the main bouts. The Chicago grappler's mat work has been more sensational than it ever was and his popularity has greatly increased with the local fans in the last two months.

"Bad Bill" Beth, the rough 215 pound lumberjack who gave Lutze a tough wild match here two weeks ago, will face Martin Zikovich, a Slav, who is reported to be just as tough as himself.

HUGE ENTRY FOR INDOOR TRACKFEST

More Than 600 Athletes to Compete Next Month in National Sports Event

First annual indoor track and field championships will be represented in the Los Angeles national sports June 29 at Whittier and Fairfax by more than 600 entries. George Hjelte, who is handling this phase of the A.A.U. made this announcement yesterday.

Beginning at 2 p.m. the events will be run off in the eight-lap stadium which seats 10,000 people. Only employees of industrial firms are eligibles. This eliminates high schools, colleges and major athletic clubs.

The following schedule will prevail: Track events, sixty-yard dash, 300-yard run, 600-yard run, 880-yard run, sixty-yard high hurdles, three hurdles, fifteen yards apart, seventy-five-yard low hurdles, three hurdles twenty yards apart. Field events, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, shot, twelve-pound shot. Relay events, 440 yards—four men, each to run 110 yards; 880 yards—four men, each to run 220 yards. Special events, tug of war, ten-men teams (cleats not allowed.)

This meet was arranged through the courtesy of the Los Angeles department of Playgrounds and Recreation. It will be an annual feature of the Los Angeles Inter-City Sports Exposition, which becomes a permanent institution on the 16-acre park at Wilshire and Fairfax. Robert S. Weaver, general chairman of the Elks A.A.U. show, expects to develop much potent talent in the forthcoming industrial competitions.

Sons Capture State Soccer Championship

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26. Southern California's most serious attempt to lift the coveted California cup, emblematic of the State soccer football championship, failed today as the highly touted Hollywood Athletic Club eleven bowed before the San Francisco Sons of St. George in a great final witnessed by more than 3000 persons at Ewing Field. A smashing goal scored in the last two minutes of play by George Feaver, husky forward, gave the Sons their surprising 1-to-0 victory, and blasted Southern California's dream of winning its first State title.

BRAVES DUMPED

NEW YORK, May 26. (AP)—Pat Crawford's home run with the bases filled and the score tied at 2 to 2 in the sixth started the Giants toward a 15-to-8 victory over the Braves at the Polo Grounds today. Crawford was serving as pinch batsman for Dutch Henry, and the blow gave Henry credit for the victory. The triumph ran the Giant string to five in a row, four of them over the Braves.

Crawford's homer ripped Henry Seibold from the box, and Delaney and Hearn finished. Judd and Hubbell followed Henry, who had relieved Fitzsimmons. Lester Bell touched Hubbell for a home run with the bases filled in the seventh while batting for Delaney. Score:

PHILS FALL

BROOKLYN, May 26. (AP)—A counter-rally by Brooklyn for two runs in the ninth, after the Phillies had taken the lead with three in the first half of the inning, enabled the Robins to win the final game of the series here today by 5 to 4. A home run by Cy Williams with two on in the ninth gave the Phils their margin, but the Robins came back with the two runs needed to win. Frederick's triple and singles by Gilbert and Bressler figured in the winning rally. Frank O'Doul hit a homer in the eighth.

Doug McWeeny gave only six hits and received perfect support. He never seemed in danger until Williams hit for the circuit in the ninth. Roy and Elliott divided the pitching for Philadelphia. Score:

BROWNS BEST

CLEVELAND, May 26. (AP)—Rip Collins held the Indians to six hits and handed them their second shutout of the series, 1 to 0, today.

Willis Hudlin matched Collins's performance by limiting the Browns to five safeties, but a double by Blue and a single by Manush in the eighth inning proved his undoing.

The victory gave the Browns a three-to-two edge in the six-game series.

SHEIKS ANNEX TWIN BILL

Stars Overcome Six-Run Lead to Cop Opener, 13-8; Five-Run Rally Wins Nightcap, 7-6

could get down to earth himself, three more runs were in and the score was tied.

At this point Red Roberts went in with two out and the bases full, Hollywood runs in the nightcap.

CARLYLE ALSO STARS

Cleo Carlyle was Hollywood's fair-haired boy in the opener, the sheik centerfielder hitting a home run, double and a single to drive in five runs. Carlyle also got three hits in three times at bat in the second game so he enjoyed quite a day at the plate.

About all the pitchers on both clubs were used during the hectic afternoon, but Joe Marty proved the only fortunate slabster. Marty acted as relief hurler in both contests and was credited with two victories. Joe also got a victory for his relief role Tuesday so he chalked up three wins during the series, which is not so bad, as the saying goes.

The first game opened with Ray Keating and Hank Hulvey on the mound. Hulvey was rapped to cover before a home-run attack that netted Sacramento seven runs in three frames and was followed to the box by Holleron, Marty and Wetzel. Gould, Flynn and Bryan were paraded to the mound by Sacramento after Keating was chased in the sixth. Gould was charged with the defeat.

In the closing clash Flynn started and got by until the fifth when Max Rachac replaced him just in time to be charged with the defeat. Red Johns, Hollywood's starting pitcher, retired in the second with a sore side and Marty took his place. Marty was walloped rather freely but lasted until lifted for a pinch hitter during the Stars' winning fifth-inning rally. Hollerson finished up and blanked the Sacs in their last two times at bat to preserve Hollywood's one-run lead.

FIVE HOME RUNS

There were five home runs in the first game, Ray Rohwer, Hank Severeid, Lenny Backer and Dolph Camilli connecting for Sacramento circuit clouts. Carlyle got the other homer for Hollywood. In the nightcap Camilli again hit one for four bases, while Heath, as said before, connected for his homer with two on.

Successive homers by Rohwer and Severeid gave the Sacs two runs off Hulvey in the second inning of the first game.

Hollywood came back with a run off Keating in the home half of the second when Rollings planted a single in back of walks to Albert and Heath.

Hulvey was rapped to cover in the third when the Solons put over five runs to apparently cinch the victory. Backer opened the round with a drive down the first-base line that luckily bounded under the screen along the box seats. Monroe's single, McLaughlin's sacrifice, Osborne's hit, Rohwer's out and Severeid's produced two more runs and caused Vitt to call in Hollerson. Camilli greeted Hollerson's first pitch by belting it over the centerfield screen, scoring Severeid ahead, and the Sacs were out in front, 7 to 1.

The Stars got two runs back in the fourth on Carlyle's homer, singles by Funk and Hollerson and a couple of walks. Monroe also made an error to help the rally along.

Keating was routed in the sixth and before Gould could get the side out Hollywood had counted four times to tie the score. Six hits—contributed by Lee, Burkett, Carlyle, Funk, Heath and Rollings—produced the four runs. Gould was responsible for two of the runs.

STARS CAPTURE LEAD

When Heath opened the seventh with a hit, Gould was replaced by Vinci, who was touched for singles by Rollings and Marty. Marty's hit scored Heath and put the Stars ahead. Then the Sacs blew up completely, two walks, three errors and a double by Burkett producing three more scores before Flynn fanned Heath to end the inning.

Marty grew wild in the eighth and was replaced by Wetzel after walking Backer and Monroe. McLaughlin's single off Wetzel scored a run, but Buzz disposed of Osborne and Rohwer to check the uprising.

Just to cinch the victory, the Stars nicked Bryan for two more runs in their half of the eighth, singles by Rollings and Carlyle, a walk and two errors doing the damage.

Sacramento started off the nightcap with a run in the first when Backer singled, stole second and scored when Osborne clicked one of Johns's offerings to left field.

Johns retired with his injured side in the second, and Marty took up the mound burden. A couple of walks and hits by McLaughlin and Camilli produced two runs off Marty in the third and the Sacs were leading, 3 to 0. A walk to French, Backer's double and a sacrifice fly yielded another Sacramento run in the fourth.

HOLLYWOOD SCORES TWO

Hollywood broke through Flynn's southpaw slants for two runs in the home half of the fourth. Three hits, contributed by Carlyle, Green and Heath accounted for the Stars' first runs of the game.

When Koehler doubled and Camilli followed with a home run into the bleachers off Marty in the fifth, it looked as though the Solons had sewed up the game, for it put them ahead, 6 to 2.

However, the Stars were still battling and they staged their five-run spree in their half of the fifth to eke out a victory. Sypher started the rally with a single when he batted for Marty. Lee went out, but Burkett was hit by a pitched ball. Carlyle's single scored Sypher and when Rehg walked, Flynn was replaced by Rachac. Albert, batting for Green, forced Rehg, but Burkett scored on the play. It was at this juncture that Heath came through with his homer over the left center-field fence and the Stars were out in front, 7 to 6, to stay there.

HERNANDEZ MEETS BERT SAMPSON AGAIN

Leo Hernandez and Bert Samson, welterweights, will clash in a return battle at the Main-street Athletic Club next Saturday night. Hernandez took a torrid bout from Samson there four weeks ago, although he was on the verge of a knockout in the final round.

Joe Peregrina weathered a rough third round and came back to stop Jack Clark in the fifth session of last Saturday night's main event. Bobby Garcia and Bobby Jones drew in the semi-wind-up, while Joe Borola beat Rib Frazier in the special event.

Star Boxers to Battle at Benefit Show

Ace Hudkins, Bud Taylor and Bert Colima will appear in the same ring tonight when they meet three rising young sluggers in the three-star four-round events arranged for the Jimmy Rothwell special show at the Main-street gym. Ace will meet Syg Ecklund, a rugged 165-pounder, Taylor will clash with Tony Russo, a comer among the featherweights, and Colima will face a new-comer from below the border, Villa Aguierre. Manager Carlos Curtis of the Main-street club has arranged ten four-round bouts. Jimmy McLarnin and Mushy Callahan will referee. Among the bouts carded are Hymie Miller vs. Eagle Thomas, 122 pounds; Joe Lovey vs. Pete Vayedra, 124; Mateo Magaleno vs. Joie White, 124, and Bill Cane vs. Jim Martins, 115.

Divoteers Facing Busy Month

INVITATIONALS TOP GOLF CARD

Rancho, California to Hold Important Tournaments

Feminine Stars Battle for Southland Championship

Qualifying Round for Open Scheduled at Lakeside

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

June will be a busy month for Southern California golfers of both sexes, with competition of one kind and another scheduled every day without a break from the 6th to the 23rd of the month.

MRS. HARRY PRESSLER

Two important invitation tournaments, the 72-hole medal play competition of the Rancho Golf Club and the annual California Country Club event, are expected to draw record-breaking turnouts, coming as they do immediately following the California State championship, which is being played this week at Del Monte.

Here is the complete program:

(2.) Lakeside — Qualifying round for national open championship.

(3.) Lake Arrowhead — Invitation tournament, June 10-16.

(4.) Virginia—Southern California women's championship, June 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

RANCHO TOURNEY

Leon Keller writes in that Rancho is planning a real championship tournament. Play will be in four classes, the low 32 in each class qualifying for the final 36 holes. The first 36 holes may be played Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. Those who qualify will play eighteen holes Saturday and eighteen Sunday.

A large representation is anticipated at Lakeside to qualify thirty-six holes for the open. Among those who will play are Fred Morrison of Midwick, Lewis Scott of Hillcrest, Frank Nunally of Urban, Al Cameron and Curley Freeman of Hacienda, Marvin Clawson of Sunset Fields, Joe Novak of Bel-Air, Chet Beer of Stockdale, Vic D'Alberto of Los Angeles, Willie Low of Lakeside, Eric Sevall of California, Olin Dutra of Brentwood, Tom Stevens of California, and Charlie Guest.

The national open will be played on June 27, 28 and 29, next, at Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y. Willie I. Hunter of Montebello Park, is the only local golfer who is not required to qualify. He finished inside the select group of thirty last year at Olympia Fields.

WOMEN BATTLE

Southern California's feminine championship at Virginia should bring out another brilliant field. Mrs. Harry Pressler, seemingly invincible San Gabriel star, who holds three titles, the Southern California, California State and women's western championships, will defend her title. By that time she may hold four championships, as she is entered in the Del Monte women's championship, which starts Wednesday.

The Virginia event will see the return of Miss Marjorie Kirkham to the fold. The young San Gabriel star has not played a great deal of golf since she won the Del Monte championship last year, but her game is as sound as ever. Among the other entries are Mrs. Gregg Lifur of Riverin, Mrs. Harry Grossman of Hillcrest, Miss Kathleen Wright of Flintridge, Mrs. Roy Green of California, Mrs. R. S. Edwards of California, and Mrs. Dan Jones of Brentwood.

The California invitational tournament has annually been one of the Southland's foremost tournaments. It has seldom attracted less than 400 players, and the Culver City club holds national records for tournaments of this type.

BARVALLA, KOONTZ WIN CINEMA GOLF PLAY

V. Barvalla, 100-31—69, and K. Koontz, 97-27—70; shared honors in the Radio-Pictures Golf Club's first tournament at El Caballero, yesterday. Bill Wise and Bert Glennon, in charge of the competition, divided low gross honors.

Glennon, with three three-putt greens on the first nine, held a commanding lead over the entire field before he started to crack wide open coming home and slipped up to a 52 for a 95. Charlie Sullivan, Louis Sukeky, Don Eddy and Fred Lalley, favorites in yesterday's motion-picture classic, failed to get under way during the competition, which was efficiently directed by none other than Steve Connolly, El Caballero professional.

Leading low net scores were as follows:

V. Barvalla	100	31	69

Jones Uses an Upright Swing

BY SOL METZGER

There are two methods of swinging a golf club—upright and flat. Both have proved successful as the records of Bobby Jones and Mac Smith testify. Most of us use the upright swing. Jones does.

It permits one to take the club back almost straight from the ball and then lift it up high and over the shoulder into the position Jones is occupying in the sketch. As the pivot or body turn brings the left side around and forward on a braced right side the resulting blow enables you to put every ounce of swinging power and weight into the sweep through. It gives the player less margin for error, as it tends to keep his club more on the line of play throughout the stroke. The upright swing also enables him to keep the left arm straight more easily than does the flat swing.

Note a fat man swinging. The chances are he'll use a flat swing and have the dickens of a time taking his left arm back without perceptibly bending it at the elbow. The upright swing is also better to prevent swaying, a fault that will spoil any shot. Tomorrow—how Jones starts his club back.

Putting is half the game. Sol Metzger has prepared a fine leaflet on Putting which he will send free to any reader sending stamped, addressed envelope. Address The Times.

STATE TOURNEY STARTS TODAY

bell, Harry Eichelberger, Everett Seaver, and two father-and-son combinations, Norman Macbeth, Sr., and Jr., and E. S. Armstrong, Sr., and Jr., all from Southern California.

Northern California's contingent includes George Ritchie, Claire Griswold, John G. Levison, Lawson Little and Milton Latham, all of San Francisco, and Heine Schmidt and Claire Goodwin of Oakland.

That Pebble Beach, as rebuilt for the national amateur championship in September, will furnish a stiff test for those who will seek to equal its par 72 is a foregone conclusion. In its present construction it has been classed as one of the toughest courses in the country by such performers as Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell.

The eight-handicap-or-more players will struggle for the "handicap championship" over the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course and the Del Monte course.

The Del Monte championship for women will get under way on the 29th inst. and will finish up on Sunday, the day after the men's State championship finals.

SOUTHLAND GOLF STARS TRIM NORTH, 13-4½

DEL MONTE, May 26. (AP)—The south defeated the north 13 points to 4½ in the intersectional team matches concluded today at Pebble Beach. In the Scotch foursomes, curtain raiser to the California amateur golf championship matches to be held the 27th inst. to June 1, Southern California won four of the five matches, scoring 6 points to 1½ for the north. Yesterday the south won seven of the ten singles matches.

Milton Latham and Ralph Hoffman were the only victorious northerners today, defeating F. C. Stevens and Winston Fuller 3 and 1.

The day's sensation was the brilliant golf displayed by Fay and Lester Coleman, Los Angeles. In spite of high winds they finished one under par to defeat Johnny McHugh, northern captain, and Claire Griswold, 6 and 4.

As a result of today's impressive showing many Southern California enthusiasts are picking Fay Coleman as the leading contender against McHugh, defending champion in the coming week's battle for the California amateur title.

The news that H. Chandler Egan was in bed with a lame back removed one more strong contender from the list, leaving McHugh, the Coleman brothers, Jack Neville, George Ritchie, Dr. Paul Hunter, Heine Schmidt, Lawson Little, Danny Sangster, the Norman Macbeths, father and son, Harry Eichelberger, Clare Griswold and Harold Thompson the pick of the field.

Today's team match results: Fay and Lester Coleman, south, defeated John J. McHugh and Clare Griswold, north, 6 and 4. Charles Seaver and Dan Sangster, south, defeated George Ritchie and Lawson Little, north, 3 and 1. H. Eichelberger and Norman Macbeth, Jr., south, defeated Jack Neville and H. Schmidt, north, 3 and 2.

H. Thompson and Paul Lavelle, south, defeated E. Smith and C. Potter, north, 2 up. M. Latham and R. Hoffman, north, defeated F. C. Stevens and W. Fuller, south, 3 and 1.

CALIFORNIA WOMEN STAGE CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

Qualifying play for the women's championship of the California Country Club will be held today, according to word from Tom Stevens. A large field is expected with Miss Hazel Converse, Mrs. Roy Green and Mrs. R. S. Edwards the favorites.

RUDY WINS TOURNEY AT FLINTRIDGE

L. N. Rudy won the medal play tournament at the Flintridge Country Club yesterday with 88-20—68. Play was at full handicap.

Other leaders were as follows: H. F. Robbins, 75-5—70; Joe Hegeman, 76-4—72; A. W. Maine, 77-4—73; D. F. Peyton, 85-12—73; P. E. Carlisle, 95-22—73, and C. Churchill, 93-20—73.

JUNIOR TENNIS FAVORITES WIN

Champions Annex Matches in Midwick Tournament

Not a single upset was recorded in yesterday's play in the Southern California junior tennis championship meet which is being held on the Midwick Country Club courts. The Misses Marlowe, Babcock, Workman and Doeg had little trouble in taking their preliminary matches, and should continue in the play through next Thursday's games.

Billy Doeg had a narrow squeak in his second-round match with H. Steiner, taking the first set at 7-5, dropping the second at 4-6 and coming back to annex the third frame, 6-4. Practically all of the other matches were decided by one-sided scores.

Play is to continue next Thursday and Saturday with the finals slated for Sunday afternoon.

Yesterday's results—Helen Marlowe defeated Betty Rice, 6-2, 6-2; C. Robbins defeated K. Strom, 6-3, 6-2; M. Marlowe defeated E. McCarthy, default; H. Clark defeated M. Heidmann, 6-1, 6-1; Wood defeated M. Giampetri, 6-0, 6-1; W. Caulk defeated R. Williams, 6-4, 6-0; M. Rowell defeated P. Barkelew, 6-2, 6-2; Bullock defeated M. Sealhan, 6-3, 6-3; M. Lacy defeated M. Wood, 6-2, 7-5; D. Healy defeated W. Hall, 6-2, 6-2; Tidball defeated D. Persun, 6-2, 6-2; Doeg defeated H. Steiner, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4; Chalcher defeated C. Hall, 6-2, 7-5; C. Make defeated L. Wood, default; Russell defeated J. Barkelew, 6-2, 6-2; Lacey defeated K. Miller, 6-2, 6-2; Goss defeated V. Donovers, 6-0, 6-0; Smith defeated N. Bundy, 6-0, 6-2; Little defeated R. Armstrong, 6-1, 6-3; McArthur defeated J. Millman, 6-1, 6-3; Healy defeated Caulk, 6-3, 6-0; Otis defeated McCabe, 6-2, 6-2; Vines defeated H. Butler, 6-2, 6-1; Myers defeated J. Del Lima, 6-1, 6-4; Hathbourne defeated Hellman, 6-2, 6-2; D. Workman defeated C. Aiser, 6-2, 6-2; Curtis defeated D. McCarthy, default; O. Wheeler defeated V. Swanford, 6-3, 6-1.

Alliss Wins German Golf

BERLIN, May 26. (AP)—Playing consistent golf all the way, Percy Alliss, British professional at the Wannsee Club here, won his fourth consecutive German open championship today with a score of 285 for the two-day, seventy-two-hole medal-play competition.

Alliss put together rounds of 70-74 today which with his 141 for the first thirty-six holes gave him the title by a margin of two strokes over Horton Smith, Joplin (Mo.) professional.

Smith, who led the field at the halfway wark with 140, had rounds of 73-74 today for a seventy-two-hole aggregate of 287 strokes.

Johnny Farrell, the American open champion, scored 145 today for a total of 289, and third place. A stroke behind him was Walter Hagen who needed 74 and 72 strokes on his two eighteen-hole rounds today. Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., played good golf to land in fifth position. Dudley, with 146 for the first thirty-six holes, put together rounds of 70 and 75 today for 291.

Joe Turness finished in eighth place with 307 behind Aubrey Boomer, Great Britain, and Sid Brews, South Africa. Boomer scored 294 and Brews 301. Cyril Tolley, British amateur, had a bad 80 on his last eighteen holes and ended in ninth place with 308.

Hagen Takes on Compston

LONDON, May 26. (AP)—Walter Hagen has yielded to British public opinion, and will play Archie Compston, British pro, in two 36-hole matches at Moor Park near London, the 31st inst., and at Blackwell, Birmingham, the next day. Hagen previously had withdrawn from the matches to take a well-earned rest.

SHIPPING NEWS

AND ACTIVITIES AT LOS ANGELES HARBOR

NEW SCHEDULE FOR JAVA LINE

Triweekly Sailings Will be Started Tomorrow

Improved Service Follows Increases in Trade

Koyo Maru Adds Another Mishap to Long List

BY WALDO DRAKE

Triweekly sailings in the Java-Pacific Line's direct service to the East Indies will be inaugurated tomorrow night, when the Dutch steamer Siantar sails from Los Angeles Harbor for Batavia. At the same time the company's steamer Kertosono will depart from Batavia for this port.

Perry S. Newcomb, district manager for Dodwell & Co., Coast agent for Java-Pacific, announces that two ships, the Kertosono and her 10,000-ton sister, the Saparoea, have been added to the Los Angeles-Java fleet to increase the schedule from monthly to twenty-one day frequency. Two motorships and two steamers heretofore have composed the fleet.

Rapid expansion of this service is pointed to by local shipping interests as indicative of the fast-developing trade between the Pacific Coast and the southern oriental range. Java-Pacific established the Los Angeles-Batavia line in January, 1928, with two vessels on a sixty-day frequency; cargo offerings having increased so steadily that 400 per cent tonnage increase have been necessitated in little more than a year.

The Siantar, in from the north at daylight this morning, will load out 3000 tons of Los Angeles products for the Dutch East Indies, a major portion of the cargo being 100,000 cases of gasoline and kerosene.

JAPANESE TANKER DAMAGED IN SMASH

Ill luck still dogs the wake of the Japanese tanker Koyo Maru. Reconditioned and spick and span as a new yacht after her collision in the outer harbor here several months ago with the British tramp steamer Fishpool, the Koyo Maru Saturday was passing through the west basin drawbridge when the outbound lumber steamer Martha Buehner forced her against the bridge dolphin. Damage to the tanker's hull is expected to exceed $1000, according to a survey made yesterday.

When she sailed under the British flag as the molasses carrier Athelrill, the Koyo Maru suffered numerous casualties. Immediately after having been shifted to Japanese registry she blew up in dry dock, killing numerous members of her crew.

Following temporary repairs yesterday, the Koyo Maru loaded a fuel oil cargo at the Associated Oil terminals for the Imperial Japanese Navy reserve base at Tokoyama. Shoichi Watabe, chief engineer of the Ogura Petroleum Company, who came out from Yokohama on the Koyo Maru, yesterday began his survey of American petroleum-producing and refinery methods, on which he will be engaged for the next three months.

One hundred and fifty-six vessels entered the port during the past week, a decrease of seven ships as compared with the previous seven-day period, according to E. N. Varnado, port manager of the Marine Exchange. By trades, there were forty-three passenger vessels, fifty-three general cargo ships; forty tankers and twenty lumber vessels.

Of the total, 123 were of American registry, twelve were British, seven Norwegian, six Japanese, two French, two Italian and one each under the flags of Denmark, Germany, Mexico and Sweden.

The yards of the Hammond Lumber Company handled 11,818,000 feet of the total lumber receipts of 30,682,261 feet. Oil outward shipments totaled 2,122,220 barrels.

The new short-wave radio sets recently installed on the Panama-Pacific electric liners California and Virginia have proved such distance-getters, according to Kirkwood H. Donavin, operating manager, that the vessels can now keep in constant communication with either New York or Los Angeles, regardless of their position on the 5000-mile intercoastal run.

The President Harrison, "pathfinder" of the Dollar around-the-world fleet, arrived last night in completion of her seventeenth successive tour of the world. She had thirty cabin passengers and 2000 tons of oriental freight for the port and will sail at noon today for the Far East after loading a similar amount of outward cargo.

Despite recent official denial by Lewis Luckenbach, reports still persist that the Luckenbach Line's fast fleet of eighteen express intercoastal freighters is about to be sold.

Among reported bidders are the International Mercantile Marine Company, operator of the Panama-Pacific Line, the Dollar Steamship Line, and the Dawson-Nicol interests, operators of the new Quaker intercoastal line. It is said to be the intention of both the I. M. M. and the Dollar interests to place the Luckenbach fleet in Pacific-European trade for transport of citrus fruits and passengers.

Angeleno Group to Develop Arizona Claims

Paving Plant to Rise at Old Dominion Dump

GLOBE (Ariz.) May 26. (Exclusive)—There is to be development of the Velvet group of twenty-five asbestos claims by the Globe-Los Angeles Mining Company. The organization is officered by A. P. Sessions, president; George T. Trowbridge, vice-president, and Albert B. Hard, secretary, all of Los Angeles.

Work is to be under charge of Mr. Sessions, a graduate engineer. The property lies in McMillin district, north of Globe. About $25,000 is to be spent in extending much exploration already done on the ground, into what are described as large and valuable asbestos deposits.

Local interests are keeping up the search for oil in the Gila Valley. The Vaughn Oil Company is to reease its well on the Mary S. Mack farm, near Safford, and will start another bore, favored by the log of the first well. J. Fred Carey is in charge of the drilling.

George A. Reubens, late of Los Angeles, has been added to the administrative force of the Slag Paving Brick and Products Company, which has broken ground for a large plant, below the Old Dominion slag dump, at the northern edge of this city. By September 1 it is expected that the capacity output will be reached of 166,000 brick a day, mainly for shipment on Coast contracts. There is to be a 120-foot reverberatory furnace, flanked by thirty annealing ovens, with capacity for 500 tons of slag a day, taken out by steam shovels. Fire brick linings will cost $40,000.

Another new industry is the installation of a novel lime burning plant on Old Dominion ground, on Copper Hill, by the New Process Lime Company. The product is to be used in the Miami smelters, declared superior to the raw lime rock now consumed as flux.

GROUP OF MINES IN NEW CONTROL

trates from Belmont to Tonopah, with the material to be treated at the latter point. It has been found cheaper to ship concentrates to Tonopah than haul fuel oil and supplies to the mine. The company reports a substantial tonnage of commercial ore exposed, with considerable placer cinnabar recently opened. It is composed of Los Angeles people, headed by W. A. Flower.

The Nevada Coalition Company reports that the lower tunnel at the Schubert-Coop gold property, near Manhattan, has entered ore-carrying values, and has apparently proved persistence of the main ore body below the older workings. The improved War Eagle mill is running steadily on ore from the main tunnel, and the extent of the deposit still remains undetermined. The mine is said to be one of the most impressive gold properties developed in Nevada in many years.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Chiefly Galenite

MOKOLUMNE HILL, May 3.—Question: Am sending sample under separate cover. Kindly advise through "In the Earth" column as to the contents. X.

Answer: The three thumb specimens carry impurities such as traces of chalcopyrite (iron copper sulphide) with a little pyrite and blende. Part of the galenite (lead sulphide) shows bluish colors, which are known as blue galatine. The sulphides at the mine, on the order of those now being discussed, should assay gold and silver.

Plumbojarosite Absent

WELDON, May 8.—Q.: Do the specimens I am sending you carry any valuable minerals? Locality, twelve miles from Weldon, Cal. Size of ledge around twenty feet. Thanking you for past favors. X.

A.: The samples are probably from surface stringers, and do not react for lead. There is some jarosite (potash copperas) present with high percentage of limonite. Matter on the order of the specimens might return a little gold and silver by fire assays.

Two Specimens

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—Q.: Herewith two samples of mineral taken from Inyo county. Any commercial values present? F.

A.: The thin, flat sample runs high in lime with iron carbonate (siderite.) It carries a few bluish reflections of Labrador feldspar (Labradorite;) prospect for a better grade. The remaining sample is a mixture of quartz, soda-lime carbonate, hematite (micaceous iron,) and a little manganese. Baryte traces, and free gold absent.

Calcareous Clay

TERRA BELLA, May 9.—Q.: I am sending samples of clay from a five-foot blanket vein discovered some time ago in Colorado, near Grand Junction. We did not find a market for it there. Do you think we could sell it in California? Any information you can give us will be highly appreciated. J. P.

A.: The white samples are not the valuable clay known as true bentonite, and belong to that variety of fine-grained marls (calcareous clay.) To find a market for it in California seems to be problematical, owing to prohibitive freight rates. The clay is not plastic. It might be of use in fertilizer manufacturing.

Doubtful Clay

HOLLYWOOD, May 10.—Q.: Sample No. 28 undoubtedly has some sand in it. Raw color as shown. No. 2 from a dry cove represents the material in its purity at greater depths. Raw color as shown. No. 3 was taken in a slightly moistened state, but represents the material at still greater depth. Very dark. Is alumina present in any of the samples. Locality, near Elsinore, Cal. A.

A.: No. 26 is a gritty clay; aluminum present in low percentage. Mostly silica. No. 2 is gritty clay; aluminum in low percentage; limonite present with traces of iron disulphide. No. 3 is also gritty clay running high in iron sulphides. Your questions regarding colors; heat required on individual specimens, etc., are proper questions to ask on quantitative analyses only.

Not Meerschaum

HOLLYWOOD, May 4. Q.: Kindly classify inclosed samples. Do they represent commercial values and if so what branch of industry? Both from Death Valley. Can it be meerschaum? R.

A.: The white sample is a mixture of aluminum-magnesium silicate and talc is not present. It is not bentonite. The other sample (No. 2) is indurated, alliceous talc. The two minerals represent problematical values.

Will the party who asked for the foregoing analysis kindly communicate with the editor of this department?

Native Gold Absent

MONROVIA, May 10.— Q.: This mineral occurs within nineteen miles of Los Angeles. Does it show any gold or other values?

MRS. E.

A.: The specimen is also known as soft granite by the mining boys in the hills. It carries a low percentage of magnetic iron ore and traces of microscopic golden-yellow mica known as cat gold. Free gold not present.

Galena

SAN PEDRO, May 11.— Q.: Am sending under separate cover samples from a ledge that opens on the surface half-a-mile or more and is from two to eight feet in width. The hanging and footwalls are of white quartz from six to eighteen inches thick. From the peculiar properties of this mica-schist have filed on this claim as it resembles closely a mine in Arizona near Rich Hill which paid good dividends for many years. Will you kindly advise me of its contents and what it might lead to in going down on it. Thanking you for past favors and any others you choose to offer. X.

A.: The Arizona mine you refer to did not have greasy-quartz walls, and it is hoped that the walls on your claim are not of that variety. Your specimens are gneiss; mica-schist is present with traces of magnetite and a little micaceous iron. There also is present some biotite, epidote, ripidolite, and potash mica. It would appear that this ledge between quartz walls is rather odd. What comes next to the quartz on both walls? Granite should appear under the ledge from which the samples were taken. It is regretted that no further suggestions are possible, at this time.

Of Doubtful Value

ESCONDIDO, May 12.—Q.: I would like the four samples classified. No. 1 is from the San Carlos Bitumen Oil. No doubt it is oil, but is it of commercial value? What chance for Helium? No. 3-P-2 is from the same bore and does this iron contain any values in Palladium or Platinum? No. 1 is an ore sample from same; what does it carry? No. 4 is another sample of iron from Ramona; what values? S. D. CO.

A.: The samples were received unwrapped, and numbers all mixed up. The glass vial was smashed into bits, but, nevertheless, the samples were easily detected. The bore has surely penetrated into a mass of nauseous, inky-tasted mixed sulphates, giving off an infernal aroma when handled with the fingers and hard to wash off. The small specimen found in match box is a variety of low-grade Bitumen with absolutely no chance of ever yielding Helium. No. 3-P-2 does not react for Palladium and flake platinum is absent. The chips of mineral from the broken vial are altered pyrite and arsenopyrite, now partly, sulphate of iron and arsenopyrite with hydrogen sulphides. The black sample is magnetite. This is the best that can be done on the mixed and scattered specimens.

Iron Shale

REWARD, May 12.—Q.: I would like to know what the ore is I am sending you under separate cover and if it has any commercial value? M.

A.: The sample carries Hematite (micaceous iron) with traces of limonite as coating. It is a "pretty" specimen, but represents no commercial value.

A Mixture

TUJUNGA, May 13.—Q.: Inclosed sample was found in Los Angeles county and contains, I think manganese. This seems to be a blend. Kindly advise me as to its value. Y.

A.: The sample carries quartz, garnetyte, iron oxides including the micaceous variety. Titaniferous iron in the mass. Manganese in low percentage. Zinc (blende) traces and native gold absent.

Free Gold Absent

SAN GABRIEL, May 14.—Q.: Would you please analyze this mineral for me, and State what it consists of? S.

A.: With pleasure! It is a mixture of quartz and feldspar. It carries some magnetite, black mica (biotite) and microscopical yellow mica known as cat gold.

OIL OUTPUT OFF IN SAN JOAQUIN

April Drop in Valley Fields 146,593 Barrels

Total Production for Month Set at 3,886,895

Decrease Declared Result of Curtailment Policy

BAKERSFIELD, May 26. (Exclusive)—Oil production in the San Joaquin Valley decreased 573 barrels a day during April, indicating a total slump of 146,593 barrels for the month, as a result of the production curtailment program. The total output for April was 3

PLACER MINING PROJECT READY

Gem Hill Company to Start Hydraulics Soon

Settling Dams Completed Hold Ample Water

Some Consolidated Values Gain With Depth

SACRAMENTO, May 26. (Exclusive)—The Omega Hill Mining Company is to start hydraulic mining on its immense placers about 1 mile. The property is located in the old mining town of Washington, three Nevada City, and is said to contain 30,000,000 cubic yards of auriferous gravel.

The company has built restraining dam on Scotchman Creek and Grizzly Ravine, constructed a ditch, purchased the Blue Tent mine and developed an ample water supply. Powerful equipment, including hydraulic giants, have been installed. Work is proceeding with a force of sixty men under management of W. H. Sims, noted placer miner.

Colonel Frank Lassen of the Lassen Consolidated Mines Company reports that the ore body on the 700-foot level has been explored for a distance eighty feet, with good values still persisting. Its width is from six inches to two feet, with considerable free gold in evidence. The property lies east of Deer Valley and is expected by the owners to be on a productive basis.

Robert Butler has become the principal owner of mineral ground in the Deer Valley district, his holdings extending from the heart of the town to the Black Bear property on Deer Creek, a length approximating eight miles. The group includes the Golden Center, Pearce and other noted properties. Mr. Butler inspected the holdings last week, but declined to comment on the terms of an extensive development campaign.

Colonel John C. Benson of the Mining Development Company announced ten stamps are dropping ore from the corporation's Rich Gold mine, near Angels Camp. The shaft has been deepened 100 feet, and a substantial tonnage of milling ore blocked out on the 500 and 600 levels. All machinery is electrically operated. It is said to have been one of the finest locations in California.

VALUES AT DIGGINGS REPORTED

Flattering Return Made After Assay of Camzo's Sluice Box Contents

Camzo Consolidated Corporation of Los Angeles, operating placer on Trinity River, Trinity county, whose gravel content carries gold, platinum and iridium, reports that the determination by a local firm of assayers and chemists of the metallics from the prime concentrates resulting from sluicing operations returned values of eighty ounces gold, and approximately eighty-one ounces platinum and 116 ounces of iridium per ton; while a careful estimate of the total metallic content of the gravel washed totals $2.50 per cubic yard.

No. 2 setting of sluice boxes, the management says, with the addition of 650 feet of eight-inch pipeline and a No. 2 giant, has been installed, and an undercurrent system has also been added to the sluice line for the trapping of the fines; so that, from this week on it is confidently expected the yardage of gravel handled will be considerably increased.

Drifting and tunneling are being carried on for the localization of values on the company's cinnabar property at Mill Creek some eighteen miles north of No. 1 placer holdings. This work, it is stated, has disclosed good commercial values in quicksilver, and also the presence of a large body of high-grade concentrates in the riverbed, which would seem to justify the construction of a retorting unit in the very near future.

SEA OAKS DYING OF ODD DECAY

Britain's Famous Forest of Dean Attacked by Strange Malady

BRISTOL (Eng.) May 26. (AP)—What might have been a great British navy is dying north of here of a mysterious malady.

It is the famous Forest of Dean, planted shortly after the Napoleonic wars to provide oak for a greater fleet than the England of Nelson's time had seen. Now thousands of the great trees are shriveling, their trunks covered with moss and fungi.

The planting seemed a splendid bit of foresight, but by the time the oaks were grown the armored fighting ship was beginning to crowd the frigate off the seas. Meant to resist the pounding of waves and battle, the oaks of Dean have been transformed instead into wagon scantlings. As they matured they were cut down about 300 acres a year and more of them planted to make more wagons.

Perhaps it is of disappointment and wounded pride that the Forest of Dean is dying. Experts admit they are ignorant of the exact nature of the ailment; but they have advanced several theories. One is that the conversion of parts of the forest into coal and iron mining districts has caused atmospheric pollution harmful to the trees. Another is that a hitherto unclassified fungus causes the mischief.

Poet-Prisoner Seeks Pardon to Sell Birds

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.) May 26. (AP)—Robert F. Stroud, whose death sentence once was upheld by the United States Supreme Court, now seeks a pardon from the Federal penitentiary here because, he says, he wants to sell canary birds.

For thirteen years Stroud has been in "solitary." His death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment a few days before his scheduled execution. In the last few years he has spent his time training canaries and writing poetry.

He was convicted of killing a prison guard in 1916. Five prisoner witnesses were pardoned by President Wilson so they might testify against him.

BATCHELOR NAMED TO SUCCEED WEBBER

BERKELEY, May 26. (Exclusive) With the opening of the fall semester of the University of California, L. D. Batchelor, professor of orchard management in the citrus experiment station and graduate school of tropical agriculture and horticulture at Riverside, will become the administrative head of the station with the title of director, it is announced. He will succeed H. J. Webber, present head of the station, who is retiring from administrative duties to devote his time to academic work and research as professor of subtropical horticulture.

CASINGHEAD GAS INDUSTRY GAINS

Los Angeles Basin Has Trio of Largest Plants

State Supplies 35 Per Cent of Nation's Output

Total Produced Daily Set at 2,770,925 Gallons

The three largest natural gasoline plants in the United States are situated in the Los Angeles Basin, and California produces 35 per cent of all the natural gasoline manufactured in this country, having 151 plants in operation, and turning out 2,770,925 gallons per day.

Deep oil sand development in California fields has furnished a large supply of casinghead gas in the Los Angeles Basin and this fact accounts for the tremendous expansion in natural gasoline-plant facilities, an expansion which amounted to 70 per cent in the last twelve months.

The Long Beach plant of the Shell Oil Company has a rated capacity of 185,000 gallons of natural gasoline daily and its production has even exceeded that capacity. This production is approximately equal to the total output in the United States in 1915. The General Petroleum Corporation has a 150,000-gallon plant and the Norwalk Company has a 125,000-gallon plant. Unless crude-oil production operations are curtailed in California this year there will be a further increase in natural gasoline output, it is believed. The Kettleman Hills area, where one plant recently started operating, is considered a great potential producer of natural gasoline.

California, Oklahoma and Texas, the three main crude-oil producing areas, have 83 per cent of the total natural gasoline capacity in the United States. It is estimated that $50,000,000 was spent in plant expansion during the past year with a total investment of approximately $400,000,000.

Natural gasoline production in 1929 will exceed 2,000,000,000 gallons, which will be approximately 11 per cent of the total motor fuel supply in the United States. The present actual production of natural gasoline is nearly 6,000,000 gallons daily, according to government data. It is pointed out in this connection that the natural gasoline branch of the oil industry is only about twenty years old. Previously the most of the casinghead gas from the oil-producing wells from which the natural gasoline is extracted, was wasted.

PNEUMONIA AID FOUND IN GAS USE

Inflation of Lungs by Carbon Dioxide Seen as Big Factor

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) May 26. (AP)—The use of carbon dioxide to inflate collapsed lungs in the treatment of pneumonia has been found effective in experimental research.

Experiments with dogs prove that lung collapse is a vital factor in pneumonia and that inhalation of the gas will counteract the effects of opening up closed areas.

What effect the results will have in the treatment of pneumonia in man is not predicted. If clinical pneumonia is not promised relief similar to that demonstrated in experimental infection, it is at least believed that a new field with many possibilities has been opened.

Research was carried on by Yandell Henderson of Yale University in collaboration with C. L. Birnbaum, P. N. Corylios, H. W. Haggard and E. M. Radloff.

Carbon dioxide, commonly known for its use in soda water, had earlier been demonstrated as effective in forestalling the development of pneumonia in patients who developed collapse of the lungs after surgical operations.

The present experiments go one step further to show that the gas is effective in clearing up closed areas after pneumonia infection has developed.

The action of the gas is to induce deep breathing.

DEPOSIT OF SULPHUR TO BE OPENED

Pacific Company Starts Development of Holding in Inyo County

The Pacific Sulphur Company, owning and controlling approximately 1500 acres of mineral-bearing land in the Last Chance Range in Inyo county, this State, with headquarters at Bishop, is actively employed in the development of a large sulphur deposit under the management of R. M. McEwan.

During the past six months, it is stated, the company has established a comfortable camp at the mine, consisting of six buildings, including bunk and boarding-houses; the mine being equipped with gasoline hoisting works and air compressor. The working shaft, it is claimed, has been sunk to a depth of 200 feet in sulphur ore of commercial grade. At the 100-foot level a cross-cut of the deposit shows a width of fifty-eight feet with neither wall in sight, the entire mass going 50 per cent in its sulphur deposit. From the 200-foot level a cross-cut is also being driven to determine the extent and value of the deposit.

Should continued and extensive development establish the existence of large tonnage of sulphur of payable grade, it is said, it is possible a branch railroad will be built from the mine through the Saline Valley salt deposits, the Ubehebe lead and copper district, and the Darwin silver-lead mines to a connection with the Southern Pacific Railroad at a point near Owens Lake.

DISCIPLES OF GANDHI GROW LAX

Indian Mystic Blames Self When Followers Forsake Vows

BOMBAY, May 26. (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, the Indian mystic and home-rule leader, reveals that worldliness has invaded his own institution at Ahmedabad, where his disciples practice extreme asceticism and "nonco-operation." But he adds that through these experiences he hopes to gain greater control of himself.

The lapses reported by the prophet involve even his own family. Gandhi takes upon his own shoulders the blame for these faults in a signed article published in his weekly newspaper, Navon Jivan.

Gandhi cites three cases in his story. The first is that of his own cousin, who committed petty larcenies from time to time until he was discovered by chance. The offender has left the institution.

The second case concerns the mystic's own wife. Despite her vow of renunciation of private property, Gandhi says, his wife has twice been discovered in possession of small sums of money for her own use.

The third case Gandhi cites is that of a young man who disregarded his vow of celibacy.

"I hold these manifestations of corruption in the institution to be merely a reflection of something wrong in myself," Gandhi continues. "I have never claimed perfection for myself. Who knows how my aberrations in the realm of thought have reacted on the environment around me?

"The epithet 'Mahatma' (Great Soul) has always galled me and now it almost sounds to me like a term of abuse.

"This institution is my best creation. I hope to see God through its aid. Such revelations as these put me on my guard. They make me search within. They humble me, but they do not shake my faith."

Rumanian Army to be Reformed

BUCHAREST, May 26. (AP)—Premier Juliu Maniu has decided to reorganize the Rumanian army and to create a special department in the government concerned with military affairs alone.

The technical chief of the new department probably will be Gen. Markovitch, one of the Premier's personal friends.

M. Maniu will place before Parliament the draft of a new law which will include provisions for conscription, decentralization, garrisoning, a new system of promoting officers, and an entirely new course in strategy and tactics.

ALMOND GROWERS SCORE

California Man Granted Opportunity to Appear Before Committee and Ask Higher Rate

WASHINGTON, May 26. (Exclusive)—Definite assurance that Prof. R. L. Adams, representing the California Almond Growers' Exchange in Washington, would be given an opportunity to appear before the Senate Finance Committee to appeal for a higher rate on almonds was given today by Senator Shortridge, a member of the committee.

Opportunities to appear before the Committee personally will be scarce as Chairman Smoot hopes most of the additional evidence to be considered in the Senate will be submitted by briefs. The fact that the almond case will be heard personally indicates the importance the committee attaches to the protests filed by the almond growers against the rate reported out by the House Committee. It also developed today that Senator Shortridge may be a member of the Conference Committee when the differences between the Senate and House are to be ironed out. This will give all of the California tariff cases a decided advantage.

Whether the Senator is appointed on the conference depends upon whether Senator Watson, Republican leader, cares to serve, and it is generally understood that Watson's routine duties will prevent him from serving in this special capacity.

Careful plans are being made for presenting the almond case to the Senate. Confidential word was given the California delegation in the House today that the almond battle in the Ways and Means Committee was a bitter one. At one time it was understood the committee had decided virtually to grant no increase in the almond rate. The fight within the committee for the almond increase was made by the members of the sub-committee, it was learned, in which Chairman Hawley of Oregon took a prominent part. The sub-committee recommended the full increases asked for by the growers but the best compromise possible was the one which was finally adopted. This information was given to the members of the House from a source so reliable that its authenticity is not doubted.

CAMP TO HAVE WATER SUPPLY

Eagle-Picher Lead Planning Long Pipe Line

Company Prepares to Open Up Picnic Property

Activity at Other Patagonia Mines Reported

NOGALES (Ariz.) May 26. (Exclusive)—Water for the Montana Camp operations of the Eagle-Picher Lead Company is to be pumped from the Santa Cruz River through a pipe line fourteen miles long. There has been acceptance of the fact that an adequate supply for the mill cannot be secured from the mine operations or elsewhere in the vicinity. Pumps will be placed at a point on the Baca grant, south of the Tumacacori Mission.

The same company is to develop a ten-claim group, known as the Picnic, seven miles east of Amado, optioned from Hugo W. Miller. The ground has been electrically surveyed by the Radiore Company of Los Angeles and now is to be diamond drilled.

Almost no damage to mining interests in the Patagonia section was done by a recent fire that swept several thousand acres of mountain land. The Trench property has been electrified and now is shipping ore, concentrated in the World's Fair mill. In the World's Fair, unwatering of the lower levels is being pushed, to reach copper bodies that now may be worked at profit. The American Boy tunnel, now 2750 feet deep, is being driven by F. C. Goss for an objective 500 feet farther on.

The Molly Gibson and Chief properties in the Patagonias have been prospected by the Radiore operators, with favorable report. They now are to be explored by the Arizona Consolidated Copper Company, which is headed by Lycurgus Lindsey of Los Angeles, of Cananea fame.

Fulton & Smith, formerly of the Santo Nino property, have taken over the Gladstone-Proto mines, fourteen miles east of Nogales, and are installing machinery. The Santo Nino is being given new surface equipment.

BERLIN TO ERECT ITS OWN HOMES

City Treasury to Aid House Seekers by Building Dwellings

BERLIN, May 26. (AP) — With about 180,000 people house hunting in Berlin, a three-year program to provide 32,000 new homes annually has been drawn up by the municipality.

Funds for 24,000 houses will be provided by the income from the tax on house rentals, and the cost of the remaining 8000 will be covered by municipal loans.

The capital city is paying the penalty of overcrowding for its growing economic importance as the center for German industry and business. Homeless apartment seekers must be ticketed, registered and investigated by government bureaus before they can achieve private living quarters. Even then, there is usually a premium to be paid, and one room with possibly the use of the kitchen, must be reserved for the apartment owner.

Apartments allotted by the bureau under this system have risen rapidly from 6967 in 1924, to 26,069 in 1927 and 31,194 in 1928.

Building, however, has fallen far short of keeping up with the demand, chiefly because capital has been attracted to more profitable lines. The 1928 construction, instead of showing an increase over 1927, provided 200 fewer homes, with the result that the municipality has been forced to aid the private builder.

Shaft Planned in Memory of Error Victims

MEXICO CITY, May 26. (AP)—Mexico City firemen are considering erecting a monument to their forty fellows who were killed more than ten years ago by Zapata revolutionists who thought they were enemy soldiers.

This happened when Emiliano Zapata, bandit of the near-by State of Morelos, occupied Mexico City for a while during the chaotic period when Carranza, Villa and others were fighting here and there. His army was made up of Indians from the tropical lowlands, bighatted, ferocious fighters—but country Indians who were seeing the capital for the first time.

There was a fire alarm. The engines and hook and ladder wagons came racing through the streets, the firemen in brass helmets and blue and crimson uniforms. The Zapatistas thought the fire trucks were war chariots and the firemen a crack bunch of troops belonging to some other rebel. They directed deadly volleys at the supposed enemy.

Phoenix Woman Has Unique Job

PHOENIX, May 26. (Exclusive)—Miss Gladys Woods of this city has unique distinction as the only woman cattle buyer in the Southwest, with maintenance of her own office. She was reared on the famous old Slaughter ranch, on the southeastern border of Arizona. A graduate of the University of Arizona, she has taught school, but in the past few years has turned to the cattle industry as a vocation. She also is interested in a large "dude ranch."

GREENE-CANANEA ACTIVE

CANANEA (Son.) May 26. (Exclusive)—It happens that little damage has been done by the rebellion to the Greene-Cananea interests here, which have been continuing work on both mines and reduction plants. It now is proposed to start an additional reverberatory furnace and to spend $400,000 on plant betterments, to increase both output and dividends. Over 2000 men are employed.

Train service has been restored to its pre-war basis, to Nogales and Naco, with repair of damages to the lines, and dynamite again is a permitted item of import. There is probability of a tremendous accession to the bullion production as soon as stoping shall have been started in a systematic way in the wonderful La Colorada ore body, now under exploration.

The corporation is reopening its Cananea-Duluth property, after several years of idleness, and also will develop attractive ground at Sonora Hill, the latter to 1000 feet of depth.

Renewed activity is promised on a number of rich silver and zinc mines to the southward, as well as upon the Silver Plume, a California promotion, managed by C. C. Randall of Los Angeles. This property, twenty-five miles from Cananea, is to have a fifty-ton flotation mill.

New operation is promised on the noted Democrata property, almost within the Greene-Cananea holdings. This was a producer of high-grade copper oxides in early days, with reduction in a small water-jacket furnace.

North Cananea is sinking in silver ore and is installing a Diesel power plant. Diamond drilling is to be started soon. The Manzanel, held by the Hammon interests of San Francisco, is to resume milling at once, after an overhaul. Butte Cananea also is preparing for resumption of work on its Santa Barbara property, in which has been development of high-grade silver-gold-copper ore.

Culture, Habits of Early Indian to be Studied

ABILENE (Tex.) May 26. (AP)—A historian is delving into archeology to learn the extensiveness of prepueblo culture among Indians who once inhabited what is now Texas.

The Canadian River Valley in the Texas Panhandle will be Dr. W. C. Holden's laboratory. He is head of the history department at McMurry College here, and an authority on West Texas history.

A party led by Dr. Holden has excavated what he claims is the first evidence of prepueblo culture to be found in Texas—horizontal masonry in the ruins of an Indian village. Now he believes that pueblo and prepueblo life among southwestern Indians covered a much wider area than history has recorded.

This spring Dr. Holden will excavate throughout the Canadian River Valley, assisted by archeologists. The area has long been known as a mine rich in ancient Indian artifacts, but has been only slightly studied.

COLD MARK RECORD SET AT LEYDEN

Professor Makes Nearest Approach to Absolute Zero, Using Liquid Helium

THE HAGUE, May 26. (Exclusive)—Using liquid helium, Prof. Keezon of Leyden University has succeeded in attaining a temperature of .82 of 1 degree centigrade above absolute zero (273 deg. below zero Farenheit) in a space of 200 cubic centimeters, which was large enough to allow of the introduction of physical instruments for making exact observations hitherto only attainable in the space of one cubic centimeter.

The search for the absolute zero of temperature has always attracted the keenest interest. As it is approached, substances change their properties, and it is impossible to predict what will be the electrical or physical behavior of any particular element.

It was Prof. Keezon who in 1926 succeeded in solidifying helium, and who now has attained the lowest temperature ever reached.

Divorce Granted Actress Wife of Arthur Richman

NEW CITY (N. Y.) May 24. (Exclusive)—The rose-colored spotlights focused on the romance of Arthur Richman, Broadway playwright, and Madeline Marshall, star in his dramatic efforts, are flooding an empty stage. The principals had left by different exits.

The romance began in 1923, when Miss Marshall appeared in Richman's first big success, "Ambush," in its London production. In 1925 they were married. But less than two years later Richman formally announced he would not be responsible for his wife's debts, and shortly Mrs. Richman countered with a raid and a divorce suit. Accompanied by relatives and detectives, Mrs. Richman burst into an uptown apartment, where they found a girl in negligee and, hiding under a sheet, the playwright, according to their affidavits.

Three months ago an interlocutory decree was handed down in Rockland County Supreme Court, but so quietly that it was not until the Supreme Court Clerk in New City issued the final decree that the divorce became public knowledge.

Richman is now writing talkie dialogue in Hollywood.

LITURGY BEFORE CHURCH COUNCIL

Congregationalist Meeting Opens Tuesday

Four Proposals Come Before Detroit Session

Will Seek Basis for Union of Denominations

NEW YORK, May 26. (Exclusive)—A "new Congregationalism" is indicated in four proposals which will come before the National Council of the Congregational Churches at its biennial meeting in Detroit the 28th inst. to June 4. These proposals are:

1. Espousal of scientific procedure in worship.

2. Approval of "Religion, Unincorporated" as a basis for organic union with other denominations and for overcoming sectarian divisions in Protestantism.

3. Systematic recruiting of candidates with Grade A ability for the ministry.

4. Integration of laymen into the regular activities of the churches and the denomination instead of building up a separate national brotherhood organization.

A liturgy based upon the science of psychology and not upon the authority of tradition is to be proposed to the pastors at the Detroit meeting of the National Congregational Council. It is intended that the liturgy shall be made available to the churches for suggested and helpful, but not obligatory, use in worship.

LITURGY PREPARED

Preparation of the liturgical material has proceeded under the auspices of the commission on evangelism and devotional life of which the Rev. Dr. Lewis T. Reed of New York is chairman. Dr. Reed also is general secretary of the ministerial boards and for twenty-one years was pastor of Flatbush Church in Brooklyn. Dean Luther A. Weigle, Ph.D., of Yale divinity school, has had a prominent part in the liturgical preparations. The Rev. Dr. Oscar E. Maurer, for twenty years pastor of the First Church of Christ (Congregational) in New Haven, founded in 1639 located on the "Green," will preside at the pastor's conference in Detroit when liturgical matters are considered.

A letter reporting upon "A Study of the Psychological Principles of Public Worship" was mailed last week to every pastor by the commission on evangelism and devotional life. The study was made by the Rev. Dr. Douglas Horton, pastor of Leyden Church, Brookline, Mass., who will be the chaplain for the daily devotional services at the council meeting.

In this study Dr. Horton states that "worship is an activity of the human mind" and that the most helpful worship will be that in which the psychological laws regarding attention have been heeded.

"Worship," he says, "must assume the form of 'attention,' for it is by attention that the mind works. Whether we think or dream, whether our ideas are clear or confused, whether we are animated by love, hate or any other emotion, we are, obviously, always 'attending' to something.

"It is surprisingly easy in the Sunday-after-Sunday routine of church services to forget 'what' it is in our worship that we are supposedly attending 'to.' The various parts of the service have an inveterate tendency to become exercises—in which there is nothing left to look for or appreciate but the technique of the performance. But this is worship without content.

"True worship is alive and will have commerce with a living God. God and only God is its content—not words about God, not the 201 names of God, but God. Our consideration of the psychological principles of worship will fail if we forget that the forms are nothing except as they glow with content. The attention in true worship is directed wholly toward God.

"It is only by periodic penetration through the forms to the mysteriously felt presence of the Wholly Perfect that we become aware in worship that 'something is happening' to us, our personality is coming alive, our destiny is being enlarged."

The word "unincorporated" has been added to the name for the proposed united body of the National Council of the Congregational Churches and the General Convention of the Christian Church. The plan for the merger of the two denominations was first announced last fall. As now revised the plan provides that the name for the united body shall be the "General Council of the Congregational and Christian Churches. Unincorporated." The legal charters of the Corporation for National Congregational Council and for the general Christian convention are to be retained as are likewise all the separate incorporations for mission and other benevolent boards. This policy of continuing all existing corporations has already been followed within several denominations which have recently effected mergers among their mission boards.

BROTHERHOOD DISAPPROVED

A negative answer to the question whether a national Congregational men's brotherhood should be organized will be recommended to the National Council by its commission on men's work, of which the chairman is Robert E. Lewis, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of Cleveland.

The view of the commission is that, instead of a new organization, the existing agencies for promoting Bible study, evangelical and devotional life, social service, international good will and peace and world-wide missions should give more attention to interesting and enlisting participation by men.

A greatly increased participation of laymen in the national ecclesiastical and executive affairs of the denomination also is urged. The small number of lay members in the National Council itself is held to be unfortunate and to represent an ignorance on the part of laymen in the importance and magnitude of the council's business, involving the control of $50,000,000 in property and invested funds and the administration of work costing annually more than $5,000,000.

POPE TO RULE BEATIFICATION

Catholics Will Honor Don Bosco, June 2

Pilgrims From Over World Will Attend

Founder of Salesian Order Aiding Urchins

VATICAN CITY, May 26. (AP)—Beatification of Don Bosco, founder of the Salesian order which devotes itself to training street boys for useful lives, is to take place in St. Peter's on June 2. The new saint of the Roman Catholic Church will be named Blessed Don Bosco and Pope Pius will preside.

Pilgrims from many foreign lands will be present at the ceremonies, which will be carried out in all the expensive splendor that has become traditional for such events. It is expected that from $50,000 to $75,000 will have been required for the beatification by the time the rites are ended.

Previous beatifications have cost that much, the expense being borne in each instance by "the postulator of the cause," or the person who petitioned for the decree, sought the necessary proofs of holiness and presented them to the Sacred Congregation of Rites.

The cost is spread over a number of items, among the chief of which is the illumination of St. Peter's. The whole of the basilica will be lighted this June night and the expenses, to judge from former ceremonies, may run in excess of $30,000.

The expenses of the elaborate procession, pontifical mass and preparation of the basilica's altars ordinarily amount to $2000 and the Vatican chapter annually receives about $4000 for decorations and candles.

When Pope Leo XIII canonized Saints Anthony Maria Zaccaria and Peter Fourier the ceremony cost $43,000. An earlier ceremony involved expenditure of $30,000 for preliminary procedure alone.

There is also a cost to be borne in gathering the necessary data and proofs upon which the granting of sainthood is postulated. This sometimes involves long journeys or deep delving into musty records by experts in the search for evidence concerning miracles adduced in proof of the holiness of the person to be beatified.

In the case of Don Bosco proofs were accepted in two cases involving a nun, Sister Provina Negro, who was cured of ulcer of the stomach through the intercession of Don Bosco, and a woman, Teresa Callegari, who was cured of an internal illness which had baffled physicians.

Don Bosco was born in 1815 of poor parentage. As a young priest he visited prisons in Turin, Italy, and, observing the wretchedness of youths confined therein, resolved to devote his life to saving children of the street from indigence and crime.

He met much opposition in his early efforts, but triumphed over discouragements, and in 1859 founded the first chapter of the Salesian order with fifty nuns and priests as assistants.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROFESOR RAMON GUERRERO
Encargado de la Sección Española de este diario

"Ensaladilla", diminutivo de "ensalada", es el título que da Luis Gabaldón al artículo de su pluma que transcribí en mi Plática próximo-anterior. Bien sabido es para mis lectores que "ensalada", en sentido propio, es una hortaliza, o mezcla de hortalizas, crudas o cocidas, pero frías, que se aderezan con sal, pimienta, aceite, vinagre y otras cosas. Las ensaladas pueden llevar también huevos duros rebanados, carnes frías en lonjas, fragmentos de pescado, mariscos, etc.

La mezcla de líquidos y especias, o la salsa fría (mayonesa, tártara, etc.), con que se sazona o condimenta una ensalada, lleva en español el nombre de "aderezo" o "alliño"; y así decimos que una ensalada de lechuga se compone, condimenta o sazona con aderezo francés (aceite, vinegre, sal, pimienta y mostaza), y que el mejor aderezo o alliño de una ensalada de camarones es la mayonesa. He querido mencionar de modo especial estos dos castizos términos, por si tuviere ocasión de leer la presente Plática cierta muchacha norteamericana que, en un restaurante, preguntaba el otro día a un joven mejicano cómo se decía "salad dressing" en español. Respondíle su interlocutor que no conocía, ni creía que hubiera, equivalente castellano de esa expresión inglesa. Para que una y otro confirmen que le hay, sírvanse buscar la voz "aderezo" en el diccionario, y la encontrarán definida así en una de sus acepciones: "condimento, guiso, conjunto de ingredientes con que se componen las cosas que han de comerse." Análoga cosa denota la palabra "alliño".

En sentido figurado, "ensalada" es una mescla o revoltillo de cosas sin conexión, y puede aplicarse tal nombre a artículos literarios como el que nos ocupa, en los que negociadamente nos habla el escritor de varios asuntos, generalmente relacionados con las cuestiones, noticias y sucedidos del día.

En la ensaladilla que trascribí nos dice Gabaldón que una bella actriz francesa ha resuelto abandonar el mundo y enclaustrarse en un convento. Esta desaparición de la actriz de la escena del mundo la designa el articulista con el nombre de "mutis", voz que se usa en el teatro para hacer que un actor se retire de la escena. El acto de retirarse se llama también "mutis", y "hacer mutis" significa en las tablas "desaparecer de escena". En inglés se usa con valor igual la voz "exit".

En el mismo párrafo que comentamos leemos que la actriz desaparece por el "foro". Llámanse "foro" en un teatro la parte del escenario (stage), o de las decoraciones teatrales (scenery), opuesta a la embocadura o boca (stage opening) y más distante de ella. Supongo que podría llamarse "back stage" en inglés.

Por si algunos de mis lectores desearen conocer los términos que denotan las partes más importantes de la escena o escenario (stage) de un teatro, diré que se da el nombre de "decoraciones" (scenery) al conjunto de telones, bastidores, bambalinas y demás servicio escénico con que se figura un lugar o sitio cualquiera en las representaciones dramáticas o de otro espectáculo teatral. Y así exclamamos, "¡Qué hermosa decoración!", cuando al levantarse el telón, aparece a nuestra vista una escena que representa con gran verdad un bello paisaje, una marina encantadora, el suntuoso patio de un palacio, o un gran salón ricamente decorado.

"Telón" (drop-curtain) es una tela grande que puede bajarse y subirse a voluntad en el escenario de un teatro, y forma parte principal de su decoración. Los telones se emplean, ya para separar el escenario de la sala de espectáculos—"telón de boca" (drop curtain)—, ya para dividir el escenario en dos o más términos — "teloncillos" (sundry drops)—, ya para cerrar el fondo de la escena—"telón de foro o de fondo" (back drop).

Los bastidores (wings) son los lienzos o partes de la decoración que forman los límites laterales de la escena, y van montados sobre armaduras de madera.

Llámase "bambalina" (flies) cada una de las tiras de lienzo pintado que en los teatros cuelgan de los telares (gridiron) del escenario, de bastidor a bastidor, y sirven para representar los primeros términos y parte superior de lo que representa la decoración. La frase "entre bastidores" (behind the scenes) denota, en el sentido figurado, el carácter solapado de la acción de una persona que obra en algún asunto sin dar la cara. Y así decimos que "Fulano de Tal dirige, entre bastidores, la política de Méjico", por ejemplo. También denota esa expresión lo que sucede o se efectúa fuera de la vista o del conocimiento del público: "Usted no sabe lo que ocurse entre bastidores; pero le aseguro que es algo vergonzoso."

Diré, por último, que el "proscenio" (proscenium) es la parte del tablado de la escena en un teatro, que se extiende por delante del plano del telón, entre éste y la orquesta.

En mi próxima Plática seguiré haciendo comentarios sobre el artículo humorístico de Gabaldón.

SAN QUENTIN PRISONERS GET PAROLE

L. A. Woman Freed; Twenty-seven Pleas Filed by Convicts Denied

SAN QUENTIN, May 26. (AP)—Six paroles were granted today by the State Board of Prison Directors in session here, twenty-seven were denied, twenty-six granted post-dated paroles and two convicts were ordered deported.

Mrs. Hope Phillips, sentenced from Los Angeles as the result of an automobile smash-up culminating in her conviction on a charge of manslaughter, was paroled to her husband in San Francisco.

Sylvia Frank, sentenced from Santa Clara county for passing bogus checks, was paroled after serving part of a four-year term.

Philip Day, convicted in San Bernardino county on a charge of burglary, was paroled to his parents in Ohio. Raymond Wills, involved in the same robbery, was paroled to his parents in Minnesota.

Harry Chichester, Fresno boxcar burglar, was paroled for the remainder of his five-year term, and D. W. Morgan, sentenced from Madera county for burglary, was paroled for the balance of a ten-year term.

Mrs. Gabrielle La Pierre, whose husband was executed here February 15 for killing an Oakland police officer, heard her prison term fixed at the maximum, ten years.

EARTH CENTER IS SOLID

Indiana Educator Has Planet's Core Figured

New Theory Disproves Old Molten Belief

Globe's Rotation Only Rigidity Evidence

BLOOMINGTON (Ind.) May 26. (AP)—Old Mother Earth is solid to the core, and has a molten center only as far as a small percentage of its total diameter, according to a theory advanced by Dr. Charles A. Cummings, head of the Indiana University department of geology, who recently completed research to determine the earth's interior is molten. He says the earth is the last of the planets to cool, and that the majority of mountains for the past several million years have displaced the surface crust as they flourished for years as volcanoes.

ROTATION IS ESSENTIAL

"The fact that the earth continues to rotate at all," Dr. Cummings says, "is evidence of solidity. Gyroscopes will not function with a molten axis. They failed, as in the case of the Byrd expedition, because friction of liquid oil in the bottles of the instruments caused the spinning axis to wobble. Seismographs—instruments which record earthquake waves—could not explore the interior of the earth if the interior of the earth were molten. Great quake waves which encircle the earth, such as the earthquake which shook San Francisco in 1906, are felt with the same force on all the seismographs in the world."

CITIES SHOCK WAVES

He explains how the shock waves from earthquakes, some of which are known to have been recorded on instruments on the other side of the earth, must pass through the earth, and not around it, to be recorded on instruments on the other side of the earth. Cities shock waves, he says, are not to be confused with earthquake waves, because they are created by man-made explosions and are not of sufficient force to penetrate the earth's interior. He explains how the shock waves from earthquakes, some of which are known to have been recorded on instruments on the other side of the earth, must pass through the earth, and not around it, to be recorded on instruments on the other side of the earth. Cities shock waves, he says, are not to be confused with earthquake waves, because they are created by man-made explosions and are not of sufficient force to penetrate the earth's interior.

The present crust of the earth's composition, he says, is known to be 1,000 miles thick, with the center is a core of iron and nickel with a radius of about 1,000 miles. Its density is 10. Next comes a shell of magnesium and silicates, of 3 density, and about 1,800 miles thick. Third is a crust of another 600 miles with its density of 3, and more silica and a lesser density. The fourth shell is estimated at 900 to 1000 miles, having a density of 4, and is called peridotite. Finally follows the granite shell, 9 to 12 miles deep, and 12 miles thick, density 2.5; then comes the sedimentary rocks, the last to be considered in the calculations.

BUDGET LARGER THAN LAST YEAR

Estimates Show Gain of $1,354,596

Twelve Months' Cost Set at $46,971,440

Tax Rate Forecast Despite Increase

The total budget for the next fiscal year, as prepared by Mayor George Cryer and Roy A. Knox, director of the Bureau of Budget and Efficiency, will amount to $46,971,440, which is $1,354,596.62 greater than the budget for the present fiscal year. It will be submitted to the City Council for approval next week and the Council may raise or lower the amounts granted to various departments which are included in the general government budget.

The general government budget, prepared by the Mayor and Director of Finance, amounts to $25,660,000, which is $628,000 greater than the budget for the same purposes for the present year. It is this budget which the Council has constantly maintaining $31,311,440.45 in actual budget representing payments for bond redemption, the remaining departments which consume various substances is known and enables geologists to calculate the sort of materials transmit the quake shocks.

The present conception of the earth's composition, he says, is that the center is a core of nickel-iron with a radius of about 2100 miles. Its density is 10. Next comes a shell of magnesium and iron silicate, of 5 density, and about 1800 miles thick. Third is a ring of another 440 miles with less nickel and more silica and a density of 4. The fourth shell is estimated at 900 to 1000 miles, having a density of 4, and is called peridotite. The follows the basaltic shell, 25 miles thick, density 3.2; then soft granite 9 to 12 miles deep, and 3.0 density. Finally comes the outer layer of sedimentary rocks, too thin to be considered in the calculations.

EARTH CENTER IS SOLID IRON

Indiana Educator Declares Planet's Core Firm

New Theory Displaces Ocean of Molten Middle

Globe's Rotation Cited as Rigidity Evidence

BLOOMINGTON (Ind.) May 26. (AP)—Old Mother Earth is solid to the core, and has a resistance to change of form as great as if made of the finest steel.

This is the answer of Dr. R. A. Cummings, head of the Indiana University department of geology, to recently circulated reports that the earth's interior is molten. His view is that of the majority of geologists for the past twenty-five years, and displaces the molten theory that flourished 100 years ago.

ROTATION IS EVIDENCE

"The fact that the earth continues to rotate at all," says Dr. Cummings, "is evidence of rigidity. Kelvin illustrated this by attempting to spin raw eggs about their long axis. They failed, due to internal friction of liquid contents. Hard-boiled eggs spin freely.

"Seismograms—the records of earthquake waves—enable us to explore the interior of the earth. Great quakes shake the entire earth. Such earthquakes as that of San Francisco in 1906, or the terrific Japanese quake of 1923, register on all the seismographs of the world."

CITES SHOCK WAVES

He explains how the shock waves arrive in waves, some of which can be estimated as traveling directly through the earth, while others follow the surface. The speed of vibrating waves passing through various substances is known and enables geologists to calculate the sort of materials transmit the quake shocks.

The present conception of the earth's composition, he says, is that the center is a core of nickel-iron with a radius of about 2100 miles. Its density is 10. LOS ANGELES WINS VISITOR'S HEART

GERMAN HAS NEW THRILL IN PAPERS

Bulk of Sunday Editions Amazing to Europeans, Says Publisher's Son

The bulk of the American Sunday newspaper with its many sections and features is amazing to European newspaper readers, according to Dr. jur Wilhelm Girardet, son of the publisher of five large German newspapers, now in this city on a two-year tour of the United States, Japan and China.

"I wonder if anybody reads all of a Sunday newspaper," he commented. "It would seem to me there is too much of it and do you know that almost every American publisher to whom I have spoken about the matter had agreed with me? Still the size of the Sunday paper continues to increase."

Girardet, whose father publishes the Dusseldorfer Nachrichten, Essener Allgemeine Zeitung, Hamberger Anzeiger, General-Anzeiger Elberfeld and the Niederrheinsche Nachrichten will remain in the United States one year, he said, to study American newspapers. He then will spend a year in Japan and China on the same mission before returning to his home in Essen to take an active part in his father's publishing business. He is 26 years of age.

The young German, who never has been in the United States before, declared that of all the cities visited by him so far Los Angeles is the most to his liking.

"Conditions in Germany are still bad," young Girardet said. "We have about 1,000,000 men out of work in my country but still England seems to be in a worse state, reporting twice as many men out of work. In Germany we look for a slow but a steady improvement in industry and in general conditions. None of us expects a marked improvement, however, for a good many years. In general, conditions are about as good as could be expected."

Young Girardet leaves for San Francisco in about one week.

ROAD JOB EXTENDED

In granting a petition for the improvement of Wicks avenue between San Fernando Road and Mulholland street, the City Council changed the limits of the job, making it extend from San Fernando Road to Remsen street, and specified that the Monofelt subbase asked for in the petition should be eliminated.

SHRINE TICKETS ON SALE TODAY

Less Than 20,000 Remaining to Be Disposed of

Heavy Arrivals Expected to Continue This Week

Great Plans Laid for Session Opening on June 4

Final sales of season tickets, with less than 20,000 remaining, for the seven events of the Shrine convention to be held in the Coliseum will begin this morning at all Shrine box offices.

Conclave headquarters expect a complete sell-out before the opening date June 4, with heavy demands throughout the week anticipated from thousands of Shriners and other visitors from the East due in Los Angeles, according to LeRoy M. Edwards, director-general of the convention which will be held here June 4, 5 and 6.

The van of the Shrine host that will probably total more than 200,000 members, wives and friends who will be guests of the city during the week will continue to arrive by steamer, train, airplane and automobile throughout the week before the opening of the convention. Many of these are not official delegates or members of uniformed bodies.

SPECIAL FEATURES

The oriental parades, in which thousands of Shriners will march in gay regalia of the order, are scheduled for Tuesda morning, June 4, and Wednesday night, June 5. The night procession will be featured by hundreds of illuminated novelties carried by Shrine patrols.

The Circus Maximus, a spectacular entertainment of circus and hippodrome acts, will be staged in the Coliseum on each afternoon of the convention and Tuesday night, June 4. Shadowless illumination of the aerial acts which will be performed, in many instances, 100 feet above the ground is promised.

The $1,000,000 Shrine motion-picture electrical pageant representing the entire picture industry will climax the convention Thursday night, June 6, next. The procession of illuminated floats bearing motion-picture stars and Shrine patrols will be more than two miles in length.

Imperial Potentate Frank C. Jones of Houston, Tex., is scheduled to arrive in the city at 9:15 o'clock Sunday morning June 2, next. He will be greeted by Imperial Potentate-elect Leo V. Youngworth of Los Angeles, and a patrol of Al Malaikah Temple Shriners. The Morocco Temple from Jacksonville, Fla., will arrive on a Southern Pacific train fifteen minutes earlier, and will act as an official escort for the supreme officer. They will march as guard of honor for the Potentate to his headquarters at the Biltmore.

HAWAIIAN BANQUET

An exotic treat for the delegates is promised in the Hawaiian banquet on Tuesday evening at the Biltmore. Winona Love, dancer, and Rose Tribe and Emma Bush, singers, from the islands will arrive from Honolulu the latter part of this week. This affair is under the supervision of LeRoy M. Edwards and is to be given for the members of the Imperial Divan, delegates and their ladies. The setting will be that of a Hawaiian village and the dishes are to be of the islands served in native fashion.

Sixty Cleveland Shriners are chartering airplanes to fly across the continent to the convention, it was announced yesterday.

Season tickets for the seven Shrine events in the Coliseum that are open to the public are on sale at the B. H. Dyas stores, Seventh and Olive streets, Los Angeles, and Hollywood Boulevard at Vine street, Hollywood; on the ground floor of the Broadway Arcade Building; at the Pasadena Athletic Club, 61 South Los Robles, Pasadena; the Security-First National Bank, First and Pine streets, Long Beach, and 143 North Maryland street, Glendale.

SHRINE'S ORIGIN AMERICAN

Founded in New York City Fifty-eight Years Ago and Now Has 600,000 Members

Fifty-eight years ago a famous actor gathered a few of his friends around a table in New York City and told them of curious adventures he had experienced in foreign lands. This noted comedian of his day was William J. Florence, who had just returned from a European tour.

He wove an interesting tale of France and Algiers where, he said, he had witnessed the ceremonies of a strange organization known as the Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. This band, according to the story, was of illustrious history that dated from the time of the Mohammedan Kalif Alee, the cousin and son-in-law of the Prophet Mohammed, in the year of the Hegira 25 (A. D. 656) at Mekkah, Arabia.

The members of the order were eminent for their broad and catholic toleration. The rites were of surpassing beauty and impressiveness. The roster included Christians, Israelites, Moslems and men in high positions of learning and power. The actor was so fascinated by the exotic character and good purpose of the organization that he proposed to his friends the founding of a temple in America.

ORDER FOUNDED

They indorsed the proposition enthusiastically, and as a result plans were laid for the formation of the organization. It had been agreed that as a prerequisite to the order the candidate or petitioner must be either a Knight Templar or a Thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason in good standing. The first official session was held September 26, 1872.

The formal name selected was the Mecca Temple of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. Thus this organization became the mother temple of the order. The early history of the Shriners is in reality the history of this temple, as the Imperial Council was not organized until June 6, 1876.

Almost without exception, the origin and early history of any order, and more particularly a secret organization, are shrouded in the mist of uncertainty as time progresses. Founders die, facts become interwoven with fiction and the result is a myth. Contradictory claims have been made that Mr. Florence did and did not have knowledge of the existence of a similar order in Europe or the Orient.

AMERICAN ORIGIN

Others maintain that the Mystic Shrine began as a social club among high-ranking members of the Masonic fraternity. Be those as they may, the foundation of the order is a matter of record. The generally accepted historian of the Shrine expresses doubt that any real oriental background existed, because no records remain of the society, which certainly could not have died out completely during the last fifty years.

The rubber jewelry is for wear while bathing. The wooden jewelry is for wear any time anywhere.

SOLO FLYER WILL TRY AGAIN

Fahy, Forced Down by Fog in Endurance Fight, Plans New Take-off at Dawn Tomorrow

Herbert J. Fahy intends to take off at dawn tomorrow from the Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport on a second solo flight record attempt after having been forced down by fog at 2:25 a.m. yesterday on his first flight.

The cabin Lockheed had passed the half-way mark of its forty-hour goal when the fog closed in. Fahy took off at 5:00 a.m. Saturday in his try to break the unofficial solo non-refueling record set by Martin Jensen over Roosevelt Field, New York.

HERBERT J. FAHY

The Wright Whirlwind motor on the Lockheed was turning over perfectly when the endurance flight ended, Fahy reported. He expressed regret that the weather upset his plans and is confident that he can hang up a new record on his second attempt.

CIRCLES GROW SMALLER

As the fog grew thicker during the early hours yesterday morning, Fahy was forced to fly in tighter circles around the lighted airport. An insurance clause in the policy covering the flight prevented the veteran chief test pilot of the Lockheed organization from seeking a clear area or climb above the fog, officials at the airport said.

In his attempt to live up to the insurance Fahy nearly met with disaster, it was learned from him when he landed. While banking in a tight turn close to the ground to keep the lights of the airport in sight, Fahy said he clipped a row of trees at one end of the long runway, but his plane was not damaged. It was then that Fahy decided to give the decision to the fog.

An hour after he landed a brisk wind came up, the fog bank scudded away and the sky cleared.

PLENTY OF GASOLINE

An estimate of his gasoline supply showed that the motor had used approximately eleven gallons an hour during the flight. At that rate, Fahy said, the 435 gallons he had in the tanks at the take-off would have kept the plane in the air forty-two hours. Fahy said he had the motor throttled down to 1150 revolutions a minute while droning around the airport, scene of the Question Mark record which had been shattered by the Texas flyers.

Tomorrow night's flight will not be confined to circling the Metropolitan Airport, Fahy declared. He said he will request his insurance to be changed so that he can wing his way between the San Fernando Valley and Santa Ana after darkness falls.

In case of fog under the new arrangement, Fahy said he will be able to find a spot free from "soupy" weather. Flares probably will be placed along the Metropolitan-Santa Ana route tomorrow night, officials of the flight stated.

RAIL CHIEFS ARRIVE HERE FOR SURVEY

Four Officials Make Trip From North in Interest of Great Northern Link

Four well-known railroad officials yesterday arrived in Los Angeles by automobile from San Francisco, in the interests of the proposed railway extension the Great Northern is seeking permission to build for the purpose of connecting Canada and northern States with Southern California.

In the party are James Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern; L. C. Gilman, vice-president; F. G. Dorety, vice-president and general counsel, and Thomas Schumacher, chairman of the board of the Western Pacific and Denver and Rio Grande roads. All expressed themselves as gratified at the receptions they said had been tentered them by chambers of commerce along the route.

They stated eight of the directors have just completed a tour of inspection over the line to Portland in a special train. Besides President Budd, the party included Arthur Curtis James, heavy stockholder in the Southern Pacific, Great Northern and Western Pacific, Stephen Baker, president of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, and E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Two Leaders Urge Werner

George Breslin, Catholic leader of Los Angeles, and Leo V. Youngworth, who will be installed as Imperial Potentate of the Shrine at the coming national convention, both have indorsed the candidacy of Erwin P. Werner for City Attorney.

Werner, whose campaign will reach a climax this week with a series of radio addresses, yesterday addressed a mass meeting of 2000 people held at the Mexican Theater on Main street.

Justice Given Federal Post

Announcement has been made by the three local United States district judges of the appointment of Thomas Poole, justice of the peace at Santa Barbara, as a United States Commissioner. Justice Poole's territory will include Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties, with main offices in Santa Barbara.

He takes the place of Charles Stewart, who has resigned.

NEGRO BOY LEAVES HIS ALL TO "KID IN TROUBLE"

Jimmie P. Blackmon, 6-year-old negro boy, who died in the General Hospital recently, tried to leave $1600 to "some other kid in trouble" when he died May 17, of spinal tuberculosis.

On the day of his death, he summoned Attorney J. H. O'Neill, who had told him his brother had left him $1600 of war risk insurance, and he had $1600 with which to do whatever he wanted.

"Ah cain't take it wiv me," Jimmie said. "Let it go to help some other kid along."

To this statement Attorney O'Neill has made affidavit before Superior Judge Stephens. The attorney has asked to be appointed administrator of the dead boy's estate, so he can carry out Jimmie's last request.

Meanwhile the county of Los Angeles has laid claim to the dead boy's heritage, on the ground that he was given medical attention for three years as a pauper, and so owed his money to the county, for medical services and hospital fees.

The case will be tried in Judge Stephens's court June 17.

MYSTERY VEILS ARREST OF NOTED WAR SPY HERE

Dr. Graves, Tangled in Affairs of Three Nations, Held on Asserted "Buried Treasure" Hoax

A wall of mystery yesterday surrounded the detention here of Dr. Armgaard Karl Graves, former self-styled "international spy," who is held in a cell at City Jail on a charge of suspicion of grand theft, and whose history is tangled up with the political and diplomatic affairs of this country, Great Britian and Germany.

Authorities are without information as to the details of the charge against the prisoner, who is booked as Paul Gunther, but admit that he is being held on instructions from Henry Kirchmann, of San Francisco. Kirchmann recognized Graves on the street here last Saturday and procured the assistance of the police in arresting the man, whom he accuses of cheating him out of $3500 in connection with an asserted buried treasure expedition. Following the arrest, Kirchmann left for San Francisco, where yesterday he refused to give details of his complaint against Graves.

When Kirchmann requested the arrest of Graves he was very guarded in his explanation of the matter, and the authorities were surprised yesterday when the identity of their prisoner became known. A warrant is expected tomorrow, according to a statement made by Kirchmann before he left, police say. Kirchmann is a member of a San Francisco lumber company and served in the United States Intelligence Service during the war.

Although the strictest cloak of secrecy was thrown around the detention of Graves, the man, whose life before, during and after the World Was was one of intrigue, yesterday readily admitted his real name and incidents in his history.

GRAVES ADDS TO MYSTERY

He further added to the mystery, however, by refusing to discuss the charges that apparently are to be made against him, and appeared to take his forced detention as a mere matter of a few hours. He showed very little anxiety over the arrest, and explained that he is well acquainted with the person who pointed him out on the street, and who is responsible for his week-end sojourn behind bars.

Graves asserted that Gunther as he is booked, is not an alias, but a name that he has every right to use. He declined to go into details as to why he has used numerous names in his work but that the name Gunther is not assumed. He admitted that he used the name of "Peter Grimm" during a visit to Los Angeles in 1925.

In discussing his latest brush with the law, Graves said that he came to Los Angeles some ten weeks ago from New York. He claims that his episodes during the war period brought about his complete retirement from secret service work, and that he now is engaged in writing and expects to publish a new book in the next few months. He is living very quietly here with his wife, he said, and is occupying a bungalow in the western part of the city.

ADMITS IDENTITY

No attempt was made by Graves to hide the history of his past, and the assertion that he was the object of a searching investigation by the Federal authorities which resulted in his internment during the war, brought the declaration that the Department of Justice files bulged with information concerning his movements during the past seventeen years.

Graves has obtained the services of an attorney and is prepared to meet the issue, in his present case, he said.

International attention became focused on the exploits of Graves in 1912 when he was convicted by the Scottish High Court of Judiciary at Edinburgh, and sentenced to eighteen months in jail for spying. He was asserted to be a German spy and caught in possession of vital British military information and documents. Graves, according to his own assertions, was then the "master spy" of Kaiser Wilhelm, and came out of his entanglement with Great Britain as

GRIMES TRIAL BEGINS TODAY

Woman and Five Officers Face Court Second Time on Jacobson "Morals Raid" Charges

Selection of a jury is scheduled to get under way this morning in Superior Judge Wilson's court in the second trial of five men and a woman charged with "framing" the arrest of Councilman Carl I. Jacobson on a morals charge, August 5, 1927, at the Beagle-street home of Mrs. Callie Grimes.

In addition to Mrs. Grimes, those who will stand trial on the conspiracy charge are Captains of Detectives Frank Williams and Bert Wallis, Detective Lieutenants Dick Lucas and Harry Raymond and Officer Frank Cox.

It is charged the five police officers, using Mrs. Grimes as a "lure," engineered the arrest of Councilman Jacobson in an effort to quash the latter's campaign against vice in the city.

The first trial of the case, which was conducted before Superior Judge Wood, ended in a disagreement of the jury after seventy-nine hours of deliberation. At the time the court discharged the jurors, it was reported they stood ten to two for conviction.

Dep. Dist. Attys. Dennison and Buah, who will prosecute the second trial, stated Saturday they believe they will obtain a conviction. It was reported their hopes partly are based on new evidence, the nature of which they declined to discuss.

Councilman Jacobson testified at the first trial that he had gone to the house to talk about assessments at Mrs. Grimes's request, that while she was showing him about the place some one struck him a heavy blow, stunning him, and he recovered consciousness to find himself divested of some of his clothing and the room full of officers.

The officers, who testified in their own defense, asserted they went to the house on an "anonymous tip" that a "wild party" was in progress and did not know the man was Councilman Jacobson until after they had placed him under arrest.

It is reported that Mrs. Grimes probably will be a witness at the forthcoming trial. She was expected to have been a State witness in the first case, but shortly after the indictment was returned she disappeared from the city and was not located until more than a month later when she was apprehended in El Paso. Since that time Mrs. Grimes has been held in the County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bond. Her codefendants are at liberty on $2000 bail each.

Attorneys Joseph Painer, Paul Schenck, Joseph Ryan and Paul D'Orr will be present at counsel table in behalf of the defendants when the case is called this morning. It is estimated it will take at least three weeks to try the case.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

A YOUNG lady from Iowa has won a trip to Washington to meet President Hoover because she won a spelling match. Her final triumph came when she could spell compatible.

Nobody should know how to spell compatible. It is too much to ask. Everything about the spelling of our grand old language is ridiculous. It is the easiest language in the world to learn to speak and the most ghastly to write.

English spelling must have been invented by a printer who spilled a type box after a hard night with the boys. There is no sense or reason to it.

SAVE THE BIRDS

Mrs. Edwin S. Fuller has written to me a suggestion that ought not to be allowed to die.

She pleads for a bird sanctuary in the old Ballona Slough, which runs behind Culver City. These marshes breed more than 160 varieties of birds. Some are already very rare.

Within the past fifty years more than nine kinds of birds have become extinct. Several more, found here, are in danger—the green heron, the American avocet, the tiny gull that is no larger than a robin.

We could well afford to save these birds from the process that is turning our interesting outdoor life into monotony.

MODERN HOMES

Judge Peter Shields of Sacramento comes to the rescue of the American home. He contended—in the course of a lecture before the Parent-Teacher Association—that the old-time home, of which we hear so much—wasn't so much.

THE FLAPPER

There is something in the remarks of the Honorable Peter. I think the essential difference is this: The home of past American generations was made largely by the fond parents. The home of today is molded largely according to the needs of the flappers. On the whole, they lead happier lives than the girls of long ago.

The flapper's bathing suit may be along the lines of the uniform described by Gunga Din (nothing much before and something less than 'alf o' that behind,) but she's O. K. She's smart and means well and generally does well in the bargain.

Gene Tunney says he never heard of Mrs. Fogarty, who is suing him for breach of promise; but thinks it sounds like an Irish name. As to the last premise, I have an instinct that tells me he is right.

Franchise Given Car Company for Cable Line

To enable the Los Angeles Railway Corporation to distribute electrical energy for its lines operating on Vermont avenue, Broadway and Central avenue, the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation has granted the corporation a twenty-one-year franchise to erect a line of poles, wires and cables along and across Seventy-ninth street from Vermont avenue to Figueroa street, and from Towne avenue to Central avenue.

The request of the Center Securities Company for a twenty-one-year franchise for a twelve-inch pipe line along Coast Boulevard, Via Del Mar and Grand Canal to remove hydraulically and transport sand from property controlled by the company to certain low areas in Venice and Playa Del Rey also has been granted, with the provision that the pipe line shall not be used for a domestic water supply.

NOTES STUDIED IN TORSO CASE

Mystery Messages Purport to be From Mrs. Sutton

Communications to Friend Deal With Pet Canaries

Search Continues in River for Parts of Body

Renewed efforts to identify the Los Angeles River torso murder victim as Mrs. Laura B. Sutton, or to ascertain her whereabouts, are to be made today following the receipt of mysterious messages purported to be from the missing woman yesterday.

Capt. Bright of the homicide squad of the Sheriff's office, announced that notes to Dr. F. E. Westlake of 1810 1-2 West Eleventh street, friend of the missing woman, which merely were signed L. B. S., the initials of Mrs. Sutton, have been turned over to the Sheriff's office. Some of the notes were inclosed in envelopes and others had been stuffed in the mail box.

MOTIVE STILL MYSTERY

One of the notes had been written on a typewriter, and the others in pen and ink. The text of each note pertained to the care of several canary birds which Mrs. Sutton left with Dr. Westlake. The motive for Mrs. Sutton hiding herself from her friends could not be reasoned out by them, as none of her acquaintances knew of any enemies.

Belief that the river victim was Mrs. Sutton was strengthened during the last three days through partial identification of the teeth in the skull, which was found in the river sands eight days ago.

CHART TO BE STUDIED

Emerson De Groff, brother of Mrs. Sutton, made the most positive identification when he recalled the various dental jobs which had been done fifteen years ago in Bayonne, N. J. Dr. E. C. Hyde, who attended to some dental work for Mrs. Sutton in Los Angeles, said he expects to find the X-ray chart of Mrs. Sutton's teeth today. He told the Sheriff's office that the teeth in the skull have a marked resemblance to Mrs. Sutton's teeth but said he can not be sure until he locates the chart.

In the meantime deputies are continuing their search in the sands along the river bottom from Vernon to Compton. It is the theory of Deputies Allen and Gray that the arms and legs of the victim were buried somewhere north of Florence avenue and it is in this area that their search is concentrated.

Handwriting experts are to be called in today to examine a number of letters found in the effects of Mrs. Sutton in an effort to determine whether the recent notes received by Dr. Westlake were written by the missing woman.

Ripley Youth's Funeral Today

Funeral rites will be conducted at the Little Church of the Flowers at 4 p.m. today for Forbes Ripley, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Ripley, who died last week in New York on the first lap of a projected trip around the world. Interment will be at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Ripley returned to Los Angeles yesterday with the body. Forbes was born in Los Angeles and was a graduate of Los Angeles High School. His father is general manager of the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company.

STREET PETITIONS GRANTED

Two petitions affecting Chenault street between Barrington avenue and the east city boundary at the Soldiers' Home have been granted by the City Council and the City Engineer has been instructed to prepare the necessary plans and ordinances for the performance of the work asked for. One petition asked for the construction of sanitary sewers and the other for the grading of the highway and the construction of cement curbs and concrete gutters.

TUB-BATH CONTEST WON—IN PUBLIC

Former Cashier Faces Sentence

Curtis E. Flint, youthful former cashier of the First National Bank of Hynes, will appear today before United States District Judge James for sentence. Flint had pleaded guilty to misapplication of bank funds.

While the government charge does not mention the amount, it is reported that the amount involved was more than $100,000. Restitution of the amount has been made, it was stated.

FROTHY soap-suds flew thick and fast and excited feminine squeals split the air yesterday as twelve pretty girls proved that the tub-bath need not encroach too heavily upon one's time, in a new speed contest on the strand near the Venice bathhouse. So, enter now the tub-bath speed champion! She is Marcella Arnold and she won the title by taking a bath in 4 minutes and 37 seconds.

To capture her laurels Marcella had to strip to a bathing suit, sit in the tub, scrub herself clean, dry and redress faster than her competitors. The contest was arranged by the Abbot-Kinney Company, which set up the tubs and tents in full view of hundreds of sea gulls.

Four minutes and 37 seconds! Paste that in your hat and tomorrow morning, when you start to pass up the daily tub on the score you're likely to be late for work, let Marcella's record be your guide.

ensuing years are $280,000 and $200,000, respectively, and for street work paid for by the city's share of the motor-vehicle tax, which are $600,000 and $200,000, respectively.

Despite the increase in the total budget, it was announced by Director Knox that there is certain to be a substantial reduction in the tax rate for the ensuing year, attributable mainly to the expected increase in assessed valuation and to the reduction in the amount which must come from taxes for bond redemption and interest.

Church Gets Large Gift for Building

Dr. Birney S. Hudson, pastor of the Southwest Baptist Church, yesterday announced to his congregation that he has received from an anonymous donor a gift of $35,000 toward the building of a new edifice. He did not divulge the contributor's name but stated he is a lawyer who recently made a fortune through oil holdings in Oklahoma. The pastor announced his intention of launching a drive for an additional $65,000 with a view to commencing building operations before fall. The Southwest Baptist Church is located in what formerly was the Orchard-avenue Baptist Church building at Twenty-ninth street and Orchard avenue.

Child Badly Hurt in Fall

Virginia Masteel, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Masteel of 919 Holly street, Inglewood, suffered a possible fracture of the skull yesterday when she missed her footing and plunged down a twenty-foot embankment at Castle Rock, four miles north of Santa Monica Canyon.

The child had been motoring with her parents. They stopped the car on the highway, intending to descend the cliff to the beach. Before they could restrain her, Virginia slipped and toppled headlong to the rocks below.

She was taken to the Santa Monica Community Hospital, where her condition was reported as critical.

FRATERNITY GROUP PLANTS TREE HERE

ORIGINATION OF SHRINERS TOLD

of the Mystic Shrine is an American institution that uses a beautiful legendary heritage, oriental paraphernalia, signs, and tokens for its own purpose, according to the statement of the official history. The jeweled costumes, the picturesque Arab with his tent, the holy city of Mecca, and the religion which it typified appealed to the actor Florence. He hit upon an exceedingly attractive feature. The ritual, according to the Shrine history, evidently is the free translation of a beautiful and ancient order or religion.

IMPRESSIVE RITUAL

Pertinent to the origin of the order is the fact that all of the founders were prominent members of the York Rite or the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry. As the rituals of both rites seek to impress upon the minds of candidates and members the serious and important duties of life, there is but little in them that affords an opportunity for merriment or appeals strongly to the social side of man's nature. It becomes easy to imagine, therefore, that these men would assist cheerfully in the formation of an order which, while not a playground of Masonry, would be in fact and effect a playground for Masons, the history relates.

As evidence that this was uppermost in the minds of the founders, a pamphlet titled "The Early History of the Mystic Shrine" is quoted by the official history. The work bears the name of Noble James McGeo of Mecca Temple.

To Brother McClenachan, First Imperial Potentate Walter M. Fleming submitted his manuscript of the Shrinal idea, with the explanation that he desired it put into service and ritualized to form a degree that would act as a relax and appeal to the humoresque side of human nature after the continuous serious work of the Scottish Rite degrees, suggesting that it be called the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

LIST OF FOUNDERS

Fleming is credited with the preparation of the outline of the proposed order from an idea of Florence. The first meeting of the organization was held in the Masonic Hall, East Twenty-third street, New York City. The founders were William J. Florence, Dr. Walter M. Fleming, Sherwood C. Campbell, James S. Chappelle, Oswald Merle d'Aubigne, Edward Eddy, Charles T. McClenachan, George W. Millar, John A. Moore, Albert P. Moriarty, William S. Paterson, Daniel Sickels and John W. Simons. Dr. Fleming was elected First Potentate.

From that date began the phenomenal growth of the institution that has, within half a century, become one of the powerful organizations of the world. The Imperial Grand Council was organized on June 6, 1876. The second temple was Damascus at Rochester, N. Y., founded June 7, 1876. The third was Mt. Sinai at Montpelier, Vt., October 31, 1876, and the fourth Al Koran at Cleveland November 16, 1876.

ROSTER INCREASES

At the twenty-sixth annual session of the Imperial Council held May 22, 1900, in Washington the order had 55,463 members. This number had increased to 149,146 in 1910. The report of the Imperial Recorder on January 1, 1919, showed a total membership of 288,850. Today there are more than 600,000 Shriners, according to officials.

California has had a prominent part in the growth of the order. Al Malaikah Temple of Los Angeles is the fifth largest in the organization, with more than 13,000 members. Leo V. Youngworth of Los Angeles, who will be installed as Imperial Potentate at this year's convention, is the third supreme officer named from this State. The late Charles L. Field of San Francisco was made chief of the order in 1895, and the late Fred A. Hines of Los Angeles was Imperial Potentate during 1910.

AIRPLANE TO ASSIST RANGERS

National Forests to Have Augmented Fire Control Force This Summer

National forests in California will have the maximum of fire protection this summer, it was announced yesterday by M. V. Mendenhall, supervisor of Angeles National Forest. It was stated that not only will a large potential force of guards, fire fighters and forest rangers be ready at all times, but the government has arranged to have an airplane ready as well in order to patrol the sections where there is a fire hazard.

The airplane was put into action for the first time this year when six minor fires broke out in the Angeles and San Bernardino forests. The use of the airship was necessary because forestry lookouts, stationed at strategical points, were unable to obtain a view of distant hills because of a heavy fog. M. H. Davis, fire chief of Pasadena, made the first trip in the plane, making a survey of the hills.

Street Name Changes Urged

Duplication of names and streets in the Los Angeles metropolitan area has caused much trouble at local postoffices, according to county chambers of commerce, which have filed a protest with the county Board of Supervisors, asking relief from the confusion.

For instance, a Saturn street in Los Angeles is duplicated by a Saturn street in Huntington Park, and mail and express packages are mixed up. Further complications have ensued by reason of a Saturday street and a Saturnalia avenue in the county, which, with other similar names, tend to confuse postmen and deliverymen from department stores.

It is suggested in the letter that representatives of various communities hold a meeting, in which they may present their claims relative to changes that might be made.

PORTER GIVEN TERM ON LIQUOR-SALE PLEA

William Tiller, 54-year-old Pullman porter, must spend the next nine months in jail and pay a fine of $1000. Municipal Judge Begue imposed that sentence when Tiller pleaded guilty to sale and possession of moonshine whisky. Investigators Haworth and Westman of the District Attorney's dry squad told the court they purchased a pint of "moon" from Tiller and that, when they searched his house at 1776 East One Hundred and Twelfth street, they found another half-pint in the bathroom. After he pleaded guilty Detective Lieutenant Caldwell told the court that Tiller had one previous conviction for selling liquor and two for possession. The negro admitted the convictions and told the court that he had served six months on the last one.

NATION'S DEBT TO FIGHTER MEMORIAL SUNDAY TEXT

Churches of City Conduct Services Honoring Heroic Living and Dead, America's Defenders

Thousands of members of the Grand Army of the Republic, American Legion, Spanish War Veterans and other veterans' organizations and their auxiliaries were honored guests yesterday at Memorial Sunday services conducted at scores of churches of Los Angeles. Almost every church devoted at least one service to memory of the nation's heroic dead and in honor of those living patriots who, in recent wars, gave unstintedly of their time and energy that America's name might continue to shine as the world's brightest symbol of justice and freedom.

"The America that Columbus discovered is a vastly different land from the America we are discovering today," said Dr. John Snape in his sermon yesterday at Temple Baptist Church.

"We who live today must not forget the debt we owe to the founders and saviors of our nation who, through suffering and sacrifice, preserved for us the principles that are dear to the American heart," said Dr. Snape. "America is the nation's last great adventure and frontier. There are no other continents to be discovered. However, there is indomitable spirit that the American pioneer to found civilization, to establish colleges, to climb mountains, to level forests, to cultivate gardens and to build schools, must characterize the modern men of today if America is to maintain her pace and hold her place among the forward-moving nations of mankind. America is a great adventure in democracy, to find the best way of living together and the best method of self-government; an adventure in training, to make ourselves fit for the position of the representatives of the oppressed nations of the world, and an adventure in religion, to perpetuate the principles upon which our republic was founded."

SHUT-INS RECEIVE GIFTS OF FLOWERS

According to an annual custom members and friends of Highland Park Christian Church brought flowers and offerings in memory of their departed loved ones to the service yesterday. After the service the flowers were carried to the cemeteries or distributed to shut-ins. In his memorial address Rev. Alden Bond Hill said in part:

"Let us forget our loved ones whom we have loved and lost a day as we take this day and consecrate these beautiful flowers to their memory. We recall that our Lord Master, with deep pathos and faithfulness said, concerning the memorial feast, 'Do this in remembrance of Me.' We will be inspired of the deepest dye if we fail to cherish in memory those who have departed this life, and lest we may stray but wilted flowers within a few years, we must turn our thoughts to the noble ideals for which our loved ones lived and died. To carry forward the unfinished tasks which fell from their hands constitutes our sacred duty."

JEWISH-CHRISTIAN BARRIERS MELTING

Miss Sasha, pastor of the Jewish-Christian Fellowship Church, 1713 Temple street, yesterday on "Judaism and Christianity." He said in part:

"For the Jewish people all over the world now are beginning to move attentively to the Gospel of Jesus Christ is a sign of the warriors of the past who gave their lives to make a better world," said Dr. H. C. Culbertson in his sermon yesterday at Plymouth Congregational Church.

"Each era discards the weapons of the preceding era and now the time has come to abolish all weapons of physical force and to rely upon the superior weapons which are spiritual, the weapons of love, forgiveness and good will," said Dr. Culbertson. "Read the lesson of the supreme warrior, Jesus Christ, and you will see that His weapons are as much more powerful than the spears of His enemies as good is stronger than evil and as light is mightier than darkness. Some day peace shall drive away the dragons of war, even as the dawn drives the shadows of night across the hills."

CULTURES COMPARED OF EAST AND WEST

"The whole Hindu outlook is based upon a religion of which philosophy is the backbone," declared Bramacharee Nerode in his sermon yesterday at Mt. Washington Center.

"The Indian religion is philosophical and the Indian philosophy is religious,55 said he. "Herein lie both the strength and weakness of the Hindu culture. In the West the study of philosophy is a prerogative of the few, but not so in India. Philosophy controls the life and thought even of the man in the street. In religion philosophical thinking has always been accorded the widest scope and liberty. From the dim past of the Vedic age until today India has never persecuted freedom of thought. The reason lies in the fact that Indian culture is based on philosophy, religion and morality. They are so interwoven in the web of Indian life that one cannot stand without the other. The decadence of Hindu civilization is not due to her religion or philosophy, but to lack of them. The keen students of civilization can read in the present day renascence of India the revival of the wisdom of the ancient philosophy and religion."

GLORY OF HEAVENS PAINTED IN WORDS

Rev. William C. Isett, pastor of Union Church, preached yesterday on "The Glory That Is Christ." Mr. Isett spoke in part as follows:

"God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, Jesus, so loved His own that not one of them was lost, for He loved them to the end, no matter what their shortcomings were. The world stands amazed at the love and the glory of the love of this man, Christ Jesus. It is this which draws us to Him. It is this which keeps us, strengthens us, comforts us. We know that His love understands us, makes allowance for all we have done amiss. When His work is finished and He renders back to the Father a redeemed world, the greatest glory of all will be the adoration of millions upon millions of human beings who have learned to love Him in the fashion in which he loved us. This, too, is our glory. When we can love in the same spirit as He loves we shall be like Him."

JESUS PAINTED AS SUPREME WARRIOR

"We rightly pay tribute today to the peculiarities of the times in which we live. There is still a great deal of wrong feeling and confusion, as many representatives of Jewry still abhor the name of Jesus. Yet there is evidence that the barriers are breaking down and that at last the masses of the Jewish people begin to realize that Christianity is but advanced Judaism."

CHILD ACHIEVES FIRST AIR RIDE

Little Girl Flies by Herself From Bakersfield to Hollywood

She was only 3 years of age and all alone, and she couldn't quite sign the register, but she could talk a little and look a lot and therefore enjoyed herself immensely.

She also, perhaps, enjoyed the distinction of being the youngest "all by herself" airplane traveler.

This is about Alyce Lorraine Wadsworth, beautiful little niece of F. L. Wadsworth of Hollywood, who has completed her first airplane trip via Continental Air Express from Bakersfield.

It is said that her relatives and her doll family are enjoying a continuous and enthusiastic word picture of their flying niece.

TRUE FAITH CALLED LIFE'S INSPIRATION

Dr. Sheldon Shepard told the congregation of the Universalist Church yesterday that the most perplexing problem of the open mind is what to think of Jesus. He said in part:

"Theologians, professional and popular, have mixed us up so that we do not know what to think. We are told to think of Jesus as on the right hand of God, as God, as a great human character, as teacher, leader, sacrifice, ransom, substitute in punishment, forgiver, brother, spirit, returning physical presence and so on and so on. The astonishing discovery is that in the midst of all the haranguing and quibbling there is practical unanimity of opinion concerning Jesus on every point that is important. The only 'faith' in Jesus which amounts to a postage stamp is the opinion that results in action. If the opinion does not affect the individual's life, it is a minor matter on which men may differ without religious antagonism."

TWENTY-THIRD PSALM LESSON OF CHURCHES

The subject of the lesson-sermon was "Soul and Body" Sunday in local Christian Science churches.

Among the selections in the lesson-sermon was the following from Psalm XXIII: "The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want . . . He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake . . . Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," presented these words of Mary Baker Eddy: "The science of being reveals man as perfect, even as the Father is perfect, because the soul or mind of the spiritual man is God, the divine principle of all being, and because this real man is governed by soul instead of sense, by the law of spirit, not by the so-called laws of matter."

Fund Appeal Opens Tonight With Dinner

The United Jewish Welfare Fund appeal for $200,000 for the relief and reconstruction of numerous national and international Jewish institutions will be inaugurated this evening with a workers' dinner at the Elks' Club.

JUDGE W. M. LEWIS

Judge William M. Lewis of Philadelphia, national chairman of the United Palestine Appeal, guest of honor and chief speaker, will picture work being done by the various participating agencies. Other speakers will include Irving H. Hellman, president and campaign chairman of the fund, Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, Judge Hollizer, Mendel B. Silberberg, Lester W. Roth and Paul Loewenthal, associate campaign chairmen; David Tannenbaum, campaign director, and Mrs. Adolph Sieroty, chairman of the women's division.

The two major participating causes in this year's apeal are the United Palestine Appeal, which has as its task the rebuilding of the Jewish homeland in Palestine, and the Joint Distribution Committee which is engaged in the task of settling hundreds of thousands of declassed Jewish families upon the soil of Eastern Europe.

HEIR OF AMBULANCE VICTIM GETS AWARD

Charles McDonald, injured in a fall down an elevator shaft, died after subsequent injuries received in an accident to the ambulance that was conveying him to a hospital. His heirs sued the undertaking establishment that operated the ambulance and on the records of the Superior Court is the approval of Superior Judge McComb to a settlement. The decedent's minor daughter, Frederico, will receive $1000.

BOND ISSUE GETS WIDE SUPPORT

Dr. Parrish Gives Word of Many Aid Pledges for Health Building Proposal

Support for the $1,000,000 bond issue to be known as Proposition No. 5 on the June 4 ballot, has been promised by every organization he has visited, Dr. George Parrish, city health officer, reported yesterday to the Health Commission.

Parrish made a report of his activities in behalf of the bonds for a new health building during the last week. The indorsements were given by the Methodist Ministers' Association of Southern California, the Red Cross Society, the Community Chest, Hollenbeck Heights property owners, Kiwanis Club of Hollywood, Women's County Medical Association, Women's Republican Study Club and the Osteopathic Society.

The city health officer said that L. D. McGahan, publisher of Town Topics, has indorsed the bonds through his own publication and thirty other small newspapers. He contacted with 250 Scout leaders to enlist the services of 7000 Boy Scouts in the distribution of literature, addressed the Building Trades Council on the subject, obtained a donation of 100 banners, circularized every doctor in the city and accomplished other work for the bonds.

Dr. Parrish emphasized that among the valuable features proposed for the new health building are auditoriums where civic meetings on health matters may be held, children's play rooms where they will be safely looked after while mothers are attending health clinics, and separate elevators, one for the sick and the other for healthy persons, instead of all using the same elevator service as at present in the old building.

Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven, former president and a member of the board of the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association, many of whose activities are linked with those of the city health department, has indorsed the bond issue.

WATER AND POWER BOND VOTE URGED

Councilmen-Elect as Well as Candidate Indorses Municipal Proposals

Two Councilmen elected at the primaries and one candidate for election yesterday indorsed the $17,500,000 power bond issue and the $22,500,000 water bond issue.

E. Snapper Ingram and Carl I. Jacobson, elected at the primaries, and Thomas F. Cooke, foreman of the 1928 grand jury and chosen from the Hollywood district at the primary election, urged their constituents to support the two issues.

Approval of the water and power bonds will not increase taxes, it was pointed out. Principal and interest are paid from earnings of the Department of Water and Power and not from taxes.

Charles Colden, Peirson Hall and Arthur Alber, retiring from the present Council, voiced approval of the issues and declared citizens should sanction the investment contemplated by the Department of Water and Power for needed additions, improvements and betterments to the municipal electric and water systems.

Among the men who will contest for election June 4 the following have given unqualified indorsement of the water and power bond issues, it was stated:

Charles H. Randall, Virgil A. Martin and W. J. Sanborn, incumbents; James H. Dodson, S. De Vier Ely, Thomas W. Williams and Charles A. Holland.

"Our phenomenal growth in population and factories requiring cheap power necessitate that we develop more water and more power without waiting for the completion of Boulder dam, which will take at least seven years to build," said Col. Thomas F. Cooke, Councilman-elect from Hollywood. "Therefore, I am for these bonds now."

Indorsements of the water and power bond issues also were issued yesterday by Raymond G. La Noue and D. Joseph Coyne, attorneys, and Charles A. Perryman, architect.

Colman Rites to be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Fred F. Colman, for many years owner of a large lumber yard on Whittier Boulevard, will be conducted under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Wheat-Halvorsen chapel, 6346 Seville avenue, Huntington Park. Burial will be made in Inglewood Park Cemetery.

Mr. Colman died Friday from heart disease at his home, 3707 East Fifty-eighth street, Maywood. He was 65 years of age. His widow, Paula C. Colman, and a son, Harry C. Colman, survive him.

Mr. Colman was born in Kyritz, Germany, and came to America when a young man. He was a member of the Masonic Rising Light Lodge, No 397, of the Eastern Star, of Scottish Rite and Al Malaikah Temple.

Bandits Hold Up Cleaner in Shop

Set upon by two men who entered his shop just before the closing hour late Saturday night, Norris Anderson, proprietor of a dry-cleaning establishment at 2725 South Grand avenue, was robbed of a gold watch and $40.

Anderson, who lives at 2033 West Forty-second Place, told police that the intruders bound and gagged him when he resisted their attempts to rifle the cash register. As several moments passed before he could free himself, he did not see whether the men used an automobile to escape, or were on foot, the victim said.

Today's Bible Text

Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding. Isa. xl:28.

GOING BY FREIGHT

Four eastern railroads have just placed orders for 20,000 new freight cars. Likely they will have to send some of them out here to get filled. The roads are not buying cars unless the business is in sight.

ANOTHER PUFF

During the month of April nearly 10,000,000,000 cigarettes were sold in this country and the revenue tax garnered on the same reached nearly $30,000,000. An awful lot of money is going up in smoke. Somebody ought to write to the fire department about it.

CRY FOR PEACE

All the British political parties are in favor of a reduction of armaments and for providing the machinery for permanent peace. They know the people want to cut down the cost of the army and navy and are rich in promises in the heat of a campaign. The voters should see that the pledges are kept.

SHIRTS FOR FATHER

Allurements are being sent to many of the women of our city to the end that they celebrate Father's Day by buying the old buzzard a natty shirt. This is one of the noblest suggestions we have seen. June 16 is the time and father is likely to need a shirt at that season.

HAVE A HEART

A professor of pharmacology at Dalhousie University is said to have perfected a mechanical heart, made chiefly of rubber, by which he has kept animals alive for hours. If this thing keeps up a man may be able to have his heart vulcanized and get a lot more mileage out of it. If a party has a rubber neck he won't mind having a rubber heart so that he can bounce home.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY

According to the book-keeper Uncle Sam has blown in $3,200,000,000 during the last ten months. Many folks would call him a spendthrift—and in fact this is a raise of nearly $180,000,000. But after all he has really been practicing economy and the government has demonstrated an unusual degree of thrift. We are reducing and paying off. What more could be asked?

THE PROSECUTION

The city is hiring a few special attorneys at from $100 to $200 a day each to help in the prosecution of the Julian usury cases. A purse of $25,000 put up once before appears to have disappeared. Some citizens think that this argument is not a municipal affair, but here it is. Now see what happens. Different departments of the city and county have numerous high-grade counsellors on their staffs. It is a pity that their talents are not interchangeable.

SWELLING THE VOTE

Precinct politicians in Philadelphia have the game down to a fine point. When business was dull at the polls they would turn in and vote sections of the telephone directory. In that way they were able to make a goodly showing as to numbers and confer glory on their district. This is a better system than voting the tombstones—as was the former custom with some election officials. The judges are more apt to be checked up on the dead ones than on the living.

HAVOC OF THE BLAST

Also this is getting to be a great country for cyclones in spite of the fact that as a land builds up and becomes more thickly settled the perils of the storm are lessened. In the first four months of last year the twisters that broke into the papers by reason of the death and damage wrought numbered twenty-nine. For the same months this year the great storms numbered fifty-one and the death roll was almost ten times as heavy. This is something the scientists have a hard time in explaining. They can tell when conditions for cyclonic adventure are ripe, but they cannot tell where the crazy thing is going to light.

A COMMUNITY REQUIREMENT

A new police headquarters building and city jail are more than a need of Los Angeles—they are a requirement. So also are adequate quarters for the health department. The two can be combined under one roof in a building at the Civic Center if the citizens approve, as they should, the proposed bond issue of $2,500,000 which is to be up for a vote at the city election June 4.

It is not necessary to spend a night in the city jail or to venture inside of the present health department headquarters to be convinced of the necessity of voting these bond issues, one of $1,500,000 and one of $1,000,000. It is only needful to stroll past either of these unsightly, antiquated structures with an appraising eye. Both were built years ago, the health department building for a very different purpose. The city jail was constructed in 1895, when Los Angeles had a population of 75,000; it has been supplemented with near-by structures originally designed for other uses far from being well adapted to police use; and it lacks about everything a police station and jail should have, including sanitation. It has been condemned annually by county grand juries and heartily cursed by every single Los Angeles police chief for nearly a generation; its detractors usually use the Black Hole of Calcutta as a starting place for comparison and go on from there. And they have not exaggerated.

The health department building, perched on one corner of the City Hall lot, has the appearance of being about to topple over into Temple street and is only surpassed in ugliness by the row of disemboweled and acephalous shacks that face the City Hall on the Spring-street side. Marked for destruction from the moment the City Hall plans were conceived, it has only been spared because of the fact that the health department had to be put somewhere.

The city of Los Angeles cannot afford to be without adequate housing for these two departments any longer.

The Central Police Station is more than unsanitary, more than inadequate, more than ill adapted. It is all three combined and then some. One of the best identification bureaus in the United States is crowded into rooms so small that hours and days of delay are taken up in finding important records, and this delay, wholly unnecessary if the records could be properly arranged, gives criminals a head-start that greatly hampers police in their pursuit. There is no room for private conference rooms for citizens and detectives; these must conduct business in the open, crowded chambers where what is discussed may soon be everybody's property, including the underworld's. It is unnecessary to add that the building is also a firetrap, since structures of that vintage almost always are.

For years everybody has admitted that such conditions approached the intolerable, but a strange, inexplicable apathy has prevented anything being done about it. The opportunity now offered should not be let slip. It would be worth twice the cost, in dollars and cents, to have both these structures removed, even if no others were to take their places.

TO HELP WORLD JEWRY

With a dinner at the Elks' Club this evening our Jewish fellow-citizens and their many friends in Los Angeles will launch their annual campaign in behalf of the United Jewish Welfare Fund. In accordance with modern trend in charitable work this fund does away with individual appeals and drives by concentrating on one yearly contribution to keep going its national and international philanthropic and educational work. The quota allotted to Los Angeles is $200,000.

The object of the United Jewish Welfare Fund is well known to many beneficiaries through the good it has accomplished in our own and other lands. Money invested in this great charity is invested in preserving the lives, the health and the moral fiber of the Jewish race and as such touches the welfare of humanity at large, irrespective of religious faiths or followings. The cause of world Jewry is closely bound with the progress of civilization.

National philanthropic endeavor, national educational work and international relief are the three main objects to which the welfare fund is directed. In all parts of America the fund sustains hospitals, sanitaria, maternity and convalescent homes, clinics, orphanages and other agencies devoted to social welfare work. Educationally it trains Jewish youth in the principles of Judaism, maintains religious schools and through literature and teaching strives to promote understanding and good fellowship between Jews and their friends and neighbors.

In foreign lands, almost unaided, American Jews have undertaken the Herculean task of relief and reconstruction among the ten millions of their people in Palestine, Russia, Poland, Rumania, Hungary and all places where Jews are still suffering from ancient persecutions or hoping to build themselves happier homes in the new era of tolerance and better understanding. In such work they are contributing an inestimable quota to the peace and harmony of the world.

It is certain that this great historic race will not suffer such splendid work to fall down, after so much has already been accomplished, through a lack of the financial support necessary to keep it up to its present standard. The generosity of the Jew is proverbial. The business regime that makes his charities effective is also a well-known characteristic of his philanthropies. Los Angeles can be counted upon to subscribe its quota to the United Jewish Welfare Fund.

WAR ON WEEDS

A nation-wide war on weeds has been declared by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Crops are estimated to have been damaged to the extent of millions by these pests. Even those not interested in the financial end of it will give the movement their hearty indorsement.

The first question that arises is, when is a weed? Many wild flowers are so classified. The protection of the daisy, poppy and lupin may show a conflict of authority. The ranchers may be on one side and the city folks may fight on the other. If the farmers can stand it, the fields golden with mustard are satisfactory to town people.

The Standard Cyclopedia of Horticulture defines a weed as a plant that is not wanted. So it would seem that some plants are weeds to one group and not to another. A weed depends somewhat on the affections of the people for its standing.

Many think the weed a benefactor in that it demands frequent cultivation to rid the field of it. This in turn secures better tillage of the crop. In this instance it functions as does a gadfly and stirs the planter up to good works. Naturally weeds drop out of the category of being the curse of the devil and may be regarded as the spurs of providence to keep us on the job. The discussion becomes more complex.

Then it is also true that what is a weed in one generation may be a great blessing the next. The cactus was not held in much esteem until Burbank took hold of it and disarmed both its mind and body. Now it is supposed to be succulent forage for cows. Just what the cows think about it is not clear.

Tomatoes were once weeds and ranked with the most obstreperous of them. Even potatoes knew the day when they were not wanted in the patch. Now they are both sought for their yield per acre. The list of weeds that have gone to college and graduated into something useful is a long one.

In some localities anything that will grow is regarded with great favor. The desert has spots that welcome anything that can retain a show of green. A weed is highly esteemed for its ability to survive.

However, we are not pacifists in the war on weeds!

MAKING A RECORD

Correspondents at the national capital tell of the persistent and praiseworthy efforts of Congressman Boylan to make over the Congressional Record into a modern newspaper. Of course that would be some task—with the class of contributors now under contract, but the crusader is not without hope. Jack Boylan is a Tammany Democrat and the suspicion prevails that his idea of a popular publication would include a liberal pink section devoted to sports.

There is no doubt whatever that a good sporting editor would put a lot of ginger into the Record and make it more of a barber-shop appendage. Also a bright performer in the sport department would spread interest by promoting classy events to lure the reader. He wouldn't be on the job a week before he would fix up a fight between Battling Tom Heflin of the Senate and Bloody Tom Blanton of the House for the championship of Congress. On account of the names it would be billed as a crash of Tom-Toms. The money taken in at the gate could be used for the enlargement of the Washington zoo.

But this is only a hint.

Congressman Boylan stresses the fact that the Congressional Record is today in make-up and typographical appearance exactly the same as it was when it first appeared, a matter of some sixty years ago. The newspapers of the nation have been revolutionized in that time. The Times of today bears little resemblance to the tiny sheet which formed its foundation. But the Congressional Record is plodding along in its ancient rut. The chariot of progress has passed and left it standing by the roadside. If the Record had a cartoonist, a joke column, the league scores and a few Hollywood scandals it might be able to drum up quite a bit of trade. As it is now it looks like a total loss. The Congressmen have copies mailed to their constituents. They don't cost the consumer a cent, but the sheet is so dog-goned dull that the guy who gets it will not even tear off the wrapper.

What this country needs is a movement for brighter and better Congressional Records.

ONE WAY TO PEACE

By James J. Montague

The Kwangsi armies which advanced on the rich commercial city of Canton were bought off, and the war was ended.

In China, when around a town
Investing hostile troops grow thicker
And plant their guns to knock it down,
The citizens go out to dicker,
"How muchee take, no shootum gun?"
They ask, and when the terms are stated
And some sharp haggling has been done
War's horrors have been dissipated.

No cannon batter down the wall,
No streets of buildings are denuded,
No bombs destroy the city hall
Before the treaty is concluded,
The people eased of all their fears,
Return to follow their vocations,
And do not need in after years
To file big bills for reparations.

Though many people may deplore
That these serene and placid races
Should thus insist on putting war
Upon a cold commercial basis,
And hold that men to every foe
Should offer bold and stern resistance,
Their methods, as the years will show,
Undoubtedly prolong existence.

And I myself am prone to think
That maybe if the other powers
Would imitate the placid Chink
In his delightful land of flowers
And substitute for shell and shot
A little monetary dealing
That almost every patriot
Would have a rather safer feeling!

The LEE SIDE O' LA

By Lee Shippey

A YOUNG police dog trotted waveringly and uncertainly into the street at First and Broadway, stopped, lifted its nose and seemed trying to sniff for some familiar scent. Then a traffic bell rang, and as if it were a signal streams of traffic charged from both east and west. Hardly had the dog found the one safe spot in the intersection when another bell rang, and traffic leaped from north and south. And then a street car, which turned to follow the dog as it shrank back, swung from Broadway into First street. The motorman clanged a warning bell—but where could a poor dog run?

"Hi, Al," shrilled a newsboy, "there's another dog for you!"

Immediately a stocky man who was selling papers on the southeast corner dashed into the street, picked up the dog and carried it to safety.

Best Friend of Man's Best Friend

That man's business was selling newspapers. That is the way he makes his living. But for the time he let business go. He took the dog downstreet to a restaurant, where he ordered bones and a pan of water. He gave the dog a drink right there, but took the bones out, and fed it on the sidewalk.

"We don't ordinarily serve dogs in here," apologized the waitress, as he went out, "but that's Al Hill, the best friend of man's best friend. He's always bringing stray dogs in here. So we make an exception of him."

Dogs Downtown

Albert Hill, who sells papers on that corner every night, has been doing that sort of thing for five years. Every stray dog he sees has found a friend. And there are more of them than one might expect in the downtown district. So many dogs ride out on running-boards or inside cars nowadays, and get shaken off or out in the midst of bewildering traffic.

"I've picked up dogs some people thought were mad," he says, "but they were just thirsty. I've picked up some that looked vicious, but they never bite me. I've taken care of quite a few till somebody claimed them, or until homes were found for them. Sometimes, when restaurants refused to serve 'em, I've bought candy for 'em at the drug store. But I find most restaurants and drug stores are ready to help. It isn't any fad with me. It's just because I like dogs."

Movies Aid Science

When we see and hear talking pictures, most of us have little conception of how greatly the discoveries made largely for our amusement and convenience may affect medical science and other sciences.

S. P. Grace, chief engineer of the Bell Telephone Company's research laboratories in New York, who came here recently to consult with some of the film studios, made the astounding statement that more than 4500 men, representing every university of importance in the United States and all the great technical schools of the world, are engaged in the researches that company is carrying on. And those researches largely are made profitable by talking pictures and by the demand among newspapers for photographs transmitted by wire.

Yet those researches in the elements of sound and the transmission of sound and light have resulted in the electric stethoscope, ax apparatus which can make photographic records of your heartbeats, in synthetic lungs and artificial larynxes which enable the dumb to speak. They have made scientists discover that such inanimate objects as a silver spoon or a piece of steel are full of movement and vibration, too atomic for human perception, but easily recorded by marvelously delicate instruments they have invented, and easily made discernible through loud speakers.

No one, not even the scientists, yet can more than dream what marvelous changes will come in the next few years as results of researches inspired by the needs of public entertainment, information and efficient service.

RIDING IT TO DEATH

The growth of gasoline taxes outdoes the proverbial rolling snowball.

Credit for discovering this rich new field is given to Oregon. In 1919 that State inaugurated what is now one of the largest sources of State revenue by the imposition of a tax of 1 cent per gallon.

Today every State in the Union either is collecting gasoline taxes, or in the case of the last two holdouts, is about to begin such collection. In New York the initial tax of 2 cents per gallon goes into effect May 1. Now there are ten States and the District of Columbia with a rate of 2 cents per gallon; sixteen States with 3 cents; one with 3½ cents; thirteen with 4 cents; seven with 5 cents, and one with a tax of 6 cents. On top of these taxes a number of municipalities are levying gasoline taxes on their own account.

Of thirteen States which had a tax of 2 cents per gallon in 1928 three have already moved up to 3 cents and six others are considering legislation to increase the rate to 3 cents or 4 cents.

Of fourteen other States which collected 3 cents per gallon in 1928 one has a bill pending to reduce the rate to 2 cents. On the other hand, of these States two have already gone to 4 cents, two have legislation pending for a similar increase, and four more have bills that would advance the rate to 5 cents. All told there are at this writing twenty-three States which have enacted or have put in legislation looking to further advances in gasoline taxes.

See how the total rolls up. In 1927 the public paid $259,000,000 to the States with their purchases of gasoline. That happened to be two and one-half times the aggregate net profits of the oil industry in that year. In 1928 the total ran well above $300,000,000 and for the current year indications are that collections will exceed $400,000,000.

This means that in the three years ending December 31, next, motorists in the United States will have paid nearly a billion dollars into State treasuries for the privilege of buying gasoline. Last year this item amounted to $15 per automobile in the taxing States. Moreover, in addition to the gasoline tax the owners paid $300,000,000 out in registration and license fees. The result was that in the aggregate they were taxed about $1000 per mile for all of the surfaced highway in the country.

The gasoline tax offered such an easy way to replenish State coffers that it was inevitable. The oil industry has not opposed the tax where the revenue derived therefrom was devoted to highway construction and maintenance, and where the amount per gallon was within reason. Where the tax revenues were so used both the automobile industry and the gasoline refiner were indirectly benefited by the increased use of automobiles.

The public accepted the tax in the beginning because the amount was small and the need for better roads obvious. It seemed only fair that the automobilist should pay for the new highways he wanted. The tax was paid by the consumer a little at a time so that his burden was not oppressive. It fell for the most part on those who had more than the average amount of income, since they were the class who had the means to buy and operate automobiles.

Furthermore, the public accepted the increases without complaint because the increased payments came in a period when the cost of gasoline was dropping. The combined amounts, the money paid for the gasoline and that paid in taxes did not make a formidable total. Even carrying the tax, the cost of gasoline was and still is a relatively small part of the cost of operating an automobile.

It is not the character nor the theory of the gasoline levy that is of concern to students of taxation, but the ease with which it lends itself to abuse. Just as soon as legislators found they had a new and convenient way open to them to increase State revenues they began to raise the tax. The result is that today the rate has been advanced in many States until it is far out of proportion to the sales price of the article taxed. If the present tendency continues it will be only a question of time until the public revolts. It is strange that the automobile clubs and the manufacturers of cars have not already organized in opposition to this abuse of a taxing power. In other quarters, as reflected by press editorials, numerous signs appear of growing discontent over the manner in which a burden that was gracefully assumed by the car owner in the beginning has been added to until it has become onerous.

There can be no justification other than a temporary emergency for a consumption tax on a legitimate and necessary article of commerce that runs to as high as 33 per cent of the retail price of the commodity. In the highest taxing States the consumer is today paying 24 cents for a gallon of gasoline which without tax would retail at 18 cents, and of this 24 cents but 14 cents goes to the marketer, refiner, transporter and producer. Imagine the feelings of the customer who puts ten gallons of gasoline into his tank and then pays $1.40 to cover all production costs of the article, plus 40 cents for the marketing expenses and profit of the dealer, and on top of that 60 cents in taxes.

One hesitates to contemplate the social upheaval which would follow the imposition of like taxes upon other necessities of life. Were the 10-cent loaf of bread to be increased by a consumption tax to 13 cents, or a pair of shoes from $6 to $8, or a pound of sugar from 5 cents to 6½ cents, an outraged constituency would promptly chase the offending lawmakers back into the obscurity of private life. The attempt to increase the subway fare in New York City from 5 cents to 7 cents at once became a dominant political issue and its defeat in the Supreme Court was hailed as practically insuring the re-election of New York City's present Mayor.

One reason for believing that the public will soon demand relief is that, unlike realty and income taxes, the gasoline levy is paid not only by the head of the family, but by mothers, wives and children out of small and more closely watched allowances. Their discontent is heightened by the knowledge that already in several States a considerable part of the gasoline tax money ostensibly collected for highways is being diverted to other convenient channels.

The famous instance of the attempt to establish railroad rates on the basis of what the traffic would bear proved costly to its sponsors and led to Federal regulation. The present tendency to add to gasoline taxes until the public's patience is exhausted will certainly bring its reaction in time, but not until a large amount of harm has been worked. It would be much better for the States to adjust their taxes on an equitable basis now in conformity with the recognized principles of a fair division of government expense.—[The Lamp.

WHAT PRICE LIBRARIANS?

BY E. P. L.

As public libraries become more and more recognized as the "people's university," as the continuation school of men, women and children, it is increasingly evident that we expect and demand trained librarians—experts in the field of informational aids and use of book tools. The taxpayers who support the library have a right to demand expert service from the attendants who comprise the staff of a large public library. They expect to be able to consult specialists at the library in the fields of literature, of history, of religion, of science, education and art, who are familiar with the current trends in their fields, standard publications and aids to study. In a great majority of cases the taxpayers receive this service from their public libraries.

Yet this service presupposes well-educated young men and women possessing a broad general knowledge, historical and literary, as a background for specialized interests and library trained technique. And what price are we paying for this generally efficient service?

The following is from a report of a committee on salaries delivered at the American Library Association in recent conference at Washington, D. C., by Charles H. Compton, assistant librarian of St. Louis Public Library:

"The typical library assistant is a woman with two years of college, and professional library training, who after eight years of library experience is receiving $1597 a year, which in prewar prices is equal to $934. These figures are based upon replies to a questionnaire from 685 library assistants in ninety-eight public, university and college libraries in the United States. Of the 685 there are 327 college graduates and 339 library school graduates. The average budget of this typical library assistant is Board and room, $854; clothing, $281; laundry and dry cleaning, $42; health, $45; car fare, $52; recreation, including vacation, $96; books, magazines, theater and music, $47; benevolences, $55; savings, $186; life and accident insurance, $59; all other, $127. The individual items amount to $1644, slightly more than the average salary, but this is accounted for by the fact that 141 have an average income of $324 in addition to the salary."

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Hand Crafts?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address, Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

In tropical regions of heavy rainfall there grows a vine from which baskets and reed furniture are made. The natives gather this vine, and then it is sent to Germany, where it is stripped, cut into different sizes, and sent to this country to be made into clothes hampers, trays, flare flower baskets and pieces of furniture. In the San Fernando Evening High School, at Brand Boulevard and Second street, San Fernando, there is a free class for adults on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, from 7 to 9 p.m. This class studies basketry and reed furniture making, as well as other forms of hand work.

Other crafts taught are leather work, hooked-rug making, hand weaving and the making of art lamp shades from wrapping paper. Some of the students want the articles for their own use, and others make them to sell.

The teacher is Miss Elsa C. Wolf, occupational-therapist in the United States Army after the World War, and now connected with the Veterans' Bureau, at the Soldiers' Home in Sawtelle.

Safety Corps in the Mines

Through the efforts of the United States Bureau of Mines more than 250,000 men in the mining, oil and gas and steel industries have been trained in first-aid and rescue work. This army safeguards approximately 2,000,000 people actively engaged in the fields in question.

LOSING OUT

I planned to build a chicken coop, to cost three dollars, bones, and to my neighbor, a whoop, came Charlie Stephus Jones. "I want the building that," he said, "it's my line; and you may get Sabbath hat I'll build you anything fine. I've studied building chicken coops in France and in Rome, I've studied artistic groups about and at home. I am not adept at lyres or pens, I am not keen in art, but, when it comes to housing hens I'm in a class apart. So prithee let me have this job, pay as I go along down, and I will build a home Bob, the finest coop in town." I said, "I don't believe you much, your character's bad; you said you'd build a rabbit hutch, for me, six months or so. The job involved two bucks or four—three hours would get it done; and here I waited a year for you, oh, faithless Jones! You said you'd come that Sunday and make that hutch for me; and I was then prepared to pay the smackers two or three. And every morning for a week I looked to your shack, to see you coming like a streak along the dusty road. You didn't start the job was small; you're not worth your room and board around the billiard hall. You wore a lazy smile the while you fails in little things I trust in big, and he who only brings a pale hound's wig. The man whose promise is no good, who is way behind, free, can't build a coop of tin or wood or hollow tile for me. In all your promises you fail, and got yourself in debt; and I'm waiting for its [illegible] rabbit of a smutnose that's waiting for its hutch."

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

In the springtime all those who are of Paris return to Paris, and the social atmosphere of the Latin Quarter is electric with wise-cracks from Broadway and Ceylon, Marseilles and Shanghai.

The Gilbert Whites have returned from a tour of the world. Gilbert is the oldest living Kentucky inhabitant of the French capital. He used to paint horses—now he plays them. He painted the murals for the Kentucky State Capitol and the Oklahoma State Capitol and then he got married and went as a delegate to the American Legion convention in San Antonio. He returned to Paris last week with two Ceylon apes, a parrot, several commissions from San Francisco, a number of new wise-cracks, a determination never to leave Paris again, and the same wife.

Bob Brown also recently has come out of the East—away from the islands that made "they-are-a-great-little-people" famous. Bob started life in collaboration with the author of "Diamond Dick," and then found the "Brazilian American" in Rio. Recently he's taken to writing Japanese poetry.

At the last meeting of the American Women's Club of Vienna some pupils from the Elizabeth Duncan School in Salzburg and the boys' chorus of the former Palace Chapel gave a dress rehearsal of the performance which they repeated the next evening in the ballroom of the residence of the American Minister. Among those present was Mrs. Alexander Raab, a club member who has been spending the last two years in Los Angeles.

Consul-General and Mrs. Hoover of Iowa, have with them in Amsterdam, Holland, Mrs. Ralph W. Jones, widow of the late Gen. Ralph W. Jones, and her daughter of San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newberry, who have been traveling in Sicily, were recent visitors to Palermo, where they registered at the Grand Hotel et des Palmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Templeton Johnson of San Diego have arrived in Paris from New York and are staying at the Hotel Lotti.

A brilliant social event was the reception held by the American Women's Club of Vienna on the premises of the newly formed "Oesterreichischer Klub," when Mrs. Harry E. Talbot, who accompanies the Dayton Westminster Choir on its first European tour, was welcomed as an honorary member. Among the other guests was Mrs. Mae B. Albers of Los Angeles.

H. F. Woodman, and Mrs. Woodman have arrived in Europe aboard the United States liner Leviathan to pass the summer.

Fred Darling has arrived in Florence, Italy, on a combined business and pleasure trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hunter of Pasadena, who have been passing some time in Italy, have arrived at the Hotel George V, in Paris from Rome.

G. W. Blamchard of Hollywood has been stopping at the Hotel Bristol in Berlin. Other California guests of that hotel include Victor Varconi, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kitchell and W. S. Smitson and family of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Child of Santa Barbara, who have arrived in Italy after crossing aboard the liner Augustus, will be traveling on the continent until autumn, when they will return to their apartment in the Hotel Plaza-Athenee in Paris.

Mrs. John R. McLean of Santa Barbara, has arrived in Paris from Juan-les-Pins, France, and is at the Hotel Plaza-Athenee.

Mrs. Cora Baxter of Pasadena, who have been staying in Baden-Baden, Germany, for the past month, has arrived in Paris and is a guest at the Hotel Continental.

Mrs. Lura Kirk and Miss Kirk, who made an extended journey through Italy, Austria and Germany, are at the Chateau Frontenac in Paris for several weeks.

George Schneevoigt, former conductor of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra, has crossed to Europe aboard the Cunard liner Berengaria.

Mrs. Walter Franklin Cobb of Santa Barbara, has arrived at the Hotel de France et Choiseul in Paris for an indefinite stay, after motoring for several weeks in Italy and France.

Col. J. B. Lankershim and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Heath were passengers aboard the French liner Ile de France on its recent arrival at Havre from New York.

David K. Barnwell has been visiting in Munich, Germany.

GOLDEN WEDDING DAY FETE DUE TOMORROW

A golden wedding aniversary will be celebrated tomorrow by Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. French of 215 North Gower street, with a family dinner followed by a reception to friends in the evening. Congratulating the golden wedding pair on their reaching the fiftieth milestone are to be their children, Mrs. Will Talbert, George B. French and Phil E. French, with their families. Charles E. French and Lou Shockley were married on May 28, 1879, at Vinton, Iowa. Following their marriage they lived in Moquoketa, Iowa, where Mr. French embarked in business. From 1890 to 1909 they lived in Great Falls, Mont., and from 1909 to 1920 in Seattle, Wash., after which they moved to Los Angeles, where they have lived since. Mr. French dealt in real estate here, subdividing several tracts before retiring in recent years.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

SPANISH LAMB EN CASSEROLE

Oil a casserole, slice raw potatoes very thin and place a layer of them two inches deep in the bottom of the casserole, season with salt and paprika, chop one onion fine, and one sweet green pepper, place a layer of this mixture over the potatoes, moisten with gravy, add a layer of thinly sliced cooked lamb and continue until the dish is filled; pour over one cupful of strained tomatoes, cover the top with buttered bread crumbs, place in the oven, and bake for thirty minutes.

CHOPPED GREEN OLIVES AND EGGS ON TOAST

One cupful of chopped green olives, one-third of a cupful of milk, five eggs well beaten, one tablespoonful of finely chopped onion, three tablespoonfuls of butter, cut bread one-half an inch thick, and toast lightly on both sides spread with butter, mix the well-beaten eggs with the milk, place the butter in a saute pan, add the chopped onion, and cook until tender; pour in the beaten eggs, and cook slowly until thickened; add the green olives, and allow to cook until thick; spread the mixture on one slice of toast, cover with another slice of toast, garnish with parsley and serve very hot.

STUFFED BAKED FISH

Wash a two or three-pound fish and fill with the following dressing: Mash the yolks of three hard-boiled eggs and mix with one cupful of dry bread crumbs, add two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, take one fish roe and parboil for five minutes, adding the juice of one lemon to the water, drain, skin, and add to the bread and egg yolks, season with salt and paprika, stuff the fish with this mixture, packing it in tightly; sew up or tie the fish, make small balls of the remainder of the dressing and place them around the fish; pour over a little melted butter and when half-cooked season with salt and paprika; baste with melted butter, to which has been added a tablespoonful of cooking sherry; remove to a hot platter, garnish with the egg whites, pour over the sauce in the pan.

APRICOT PARISIAN CAKE

One-half a cupful of butter, the well-beaten yolks of four eggs, three cupfuls of flour, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of almond extract, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cupful of milk, and the stiffly beaten whites of the four eggs, cream the butter, and three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, beat the yolks of the eggs with the other three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and add to the butter mixture, sift the flour, baking powder, and salt four times, add the flour to the butter mixture, alternately with the milk, beat well, add the extract and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, bake in oiled and floured layer cake tins in a moderate oven. When cool, place between the layers and apricot filling.

APRICOT FILLING

Dissolve one tablespoonful of gelatine in one-fourth of a cupful of apricot juice, or syrup, add to it, one cupful of apricot pulp that has been pressed through a fine sieve, place in a double boiler, and heat until the gelatine is dissolved, allow to cool, and spread over one layer of the cake, spread over the apricots, a thin layer of whipped cream, add the other layer of cake, cover with whipped cream and decorate the top with halves of apricots.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department. PRACTICAL RECIPES. published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Within Reach

If baby's toys and playthings are tied by a string to the arms of the high chair, it will save endless stooping for mother as baby will soon learn he can pull them up again by the strings.

Easily Adjusted

In order to get the worth of a raincoat, one must buy a good-sized one for the growing child. If it seems long the first year, turn it up and paste the hem up with adhesive tape. It can be ripped off easily the following year and the coat quickly lengthened.

Found True

Roaches are attracted by dampness, bits of food and trash of all kinds. Now get on the job and eliminate the attractions.

It is good for the morale of the youngster if he is told when he has been very good. It is just as important as the scolding on the bad day.

When lining the kitchen dresser drawers with paper, put in several layers at a time. Then the top one may be removed when soiled and the fresh one is all in place.

NEW HEADQUARTERS FOR BONELLI TO OPEN

Hollywood business men's headquarters for William G. Bonelli for Mayor will be opened today at 6378 Hollywood Boulevard, with Ralf C. Kirk in charge. An executive committee composed of outstanding figures in the screen capital will direct an intensive campaign for Bonelli. Among those who yesterday indorsed Bonelli's candidacy are: Victor H. Clarke, Walter Muller, Paul B. Roen, Ralph C. Long, Dr. James L. Howard, George L. Eastman, Elliott Kelly, Don Chambers, A. Z. Taft, Jr., James B. Irsfeld, Parker V. Foster, O. W. Meehan, Jr., Thomas D. Barnett, George H. Coffin, Jr., Harry E. Jones, Frank K. Galloway, C. E. Toberman, Karl Dietz, Al L. Bartlett, Walter J. Little, C. J. McLaughlin, Harry L. Person, H. S. Tolle, Marshall P. Wilkinson, A. B. Strode, F. A. Hartwell, Otto K. Olesen, M. F. Palmer, Arthur Alber, Fred L. Porter, E. J. Schallert, Mrs. Orville L. Routt, John V. Conroy, Mrs. John P. Mead, Dr. L. J. Huff and William G. Holman.

PLEDGES ENTERTAIN

COAST FORMATION STORY WRITTEN IN PINE CONE

The story of Western California's inundation by the Pacific Ocean and the millions of years during which the geological transformation took place which brought the Pacific Coast to its present outline, is epitomized in a specimen discovered recently near Bakersfield and turned over to the geology department of the University of California at Los Angeles.

This specimen consists of an immense pine cone, perfectly preserved in a state of petrification, found by Harold B. Rathell, oil company geologist, in the mountains east of Bakersfield. It is several millions of years since this cone dropped from the pine tree to which it belongs, and its subsequent history, as interpreted by Prof. W. J. Miller, head of the U.C.L.A. geology department, is an outline of the history of the Pacific Coast from the time when the ocean extended over the major portion of what now is California.

"This pine cone had floated upon the ocean until, becoming waterlogged, it sank far below the surface," said Prof. Miller in describing its strange evolution. "At the bottom it gradually became covered with thousands of feet of sediment. Here underground waters carrying mineral matter in solution, gradually petrified it. None of the original cells remain, but have been completely replaced with selonite, a variety of gypsum. Although the cone is in a state of remarkable preservation as regards its contour, it is a solid piece of mineral now.

"Then came the great coast revolution, geologically speaking, when the great coast range of mountains was born out of the sea—lifted thousands of feet by the great upheaval; and the sea was thrown back to its present confines. Since the great uplift, weather conditions, stream actions and other factors have worn away the overlying material laying bare the fossil pine cone."

The specimen, considered one of the most beautiful pieces representing the Tertiary age, will repose in the new geological museum which is to be part of the new university's geology department.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb-sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

TWO-YEAR-OLD WAKES EVERY NIGHT AND CRIES

A Constant Reader writes: Will you please tell me some way to prepare eggs for my 2-year-old child? I've tried them poached, coddled and in boiled custard, but she won't take them at all. Also, what makes a perfectly well, healthy child wake up every night at twelve and scream to be taken up? Even after she is taken up she sobs for a long time.

Answer

Have you tried hard boiling the egg and running it through a sieve and adding this to some other food? Or whipping the yolk of an egg into the milk and slightly sweetening it? The white may be beaten hard and made into an appetizing drink flavored with orange or lemon or pineapple juice, or it may be mixed with fruit pulps, such as prune or apricot or pineapple and served as a dessert. We have a leaflet on simple desserts of this type which you may have for the usual self-addressed and stamped envelope.

The night terrors are rather common to children of this age. Fatigue, heavy bed clothing, the presence of enlarged adenoids or tonsils, frightening stories, are the usual cause of such conditions. I should try to correct every possible thing, since I can only take your word for it that the child is perfectly well. A doctor's thorough examination and a critical eye on the child's whole day might show you some procedures which would be open to criticism.

Mrs. W. H. M. Your request that this appear in "tomorrow night's paper" shows me that you are not familiar with newspaper procedure, for columns such as this are written two or three weeks in advance of publication and so no letter, even if answered immediately upon its receipt, could possibly appear in any less time. When an immediate response is necessary, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I'll answer it personally, allowing normal time for it to reach me and be answered. Remember how many readers I have and that they all want service.

Your baby of 7 months weighing twenty-one pounds is very large. Perhaps he was larger than average at birth. He needs cereals every day, and fruit and vegetable juices as well as his four or five nursings. The use of a daily suppository, for a time, well-oiled with vaseline, is to my way of thinking the least harmful of the daily aids in inducing a movement. The orange and prune juice or pulp given one hour before a nursing are more laxative than when given with meals. I shall be happy to send you our new feeding leaflet, which contains information on feeding in detail. A self-addressed, stamped envelope must accompany all requests for leaflets.

Expensive Cars His Downfall

Because William H. Coullin liked to be seen rolling along Los Angeles boulevards at the wheel of expensive automobiles he must stand trial in Superior Court on five counts of grand theft.

According to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stahlman, Coullin, who says he is an actor, visited five salesrooms for expensive cars in three days, in each case taking out a car for "trial" under pretense of being a prospective purchaser. All five machines were recovered parked in front of stylish apartment-houses on Wilshire Boulevard and in Hollywood where Coullin abandoned them, Stahlman proved.

APPEAL HEARINGS DUE

The City Council is scheduled to hear appeals today against the confirmation of the assessments for the widening of Fries avenue between Anaheim street and a point 651.48 feet south of A street and for the improvement of K street between Lecouvreur and Barracks avenues.

PURCHASE PLEA BEFORE BOARD

Park Commission Awaits Data on Point Fermin Earth Slide Area

A suggestion that the Board of Park Commissioners shall purchase with emergency funds of the city a portion of the Point Fermin district recently affected by an earth slide has been taken under advisement by the commission.

The recommendation was made by the San Pedro Realty Board, which sent a copy of its resolution to the City Council, urging the purchase by the city of the district bound by Gaffey street, Shepard street, Paseo Del Mar and the ocean, for an addition to Point Fermin Park.

The commissioners expressed the view that they would await the result of an investigation to determine the extent of the earth slide before considering the project.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy
AUTHOR OF "THE FIRST WAY TO HEALTH" care of the Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him.

WHAT CAUSES CONSTIPATION?

A railroad train is supposed to be run on schedule The same is true of the intestinal contens. Normally, a meal placed in the stomach should reach the small intestines in about four hours, the hepatic flexure of the large colon in six hours, the splenic flexure in nine hours, and the beginning of the pelvic colon in about twelve hours. A complete evacuation of the remainder should occur in from fourteen to twenty hours. However, with many people, evacuation does not occur until twenty-four to thirty-six hours after a meal has been ingested, and, in some cases, several days may intervene, and delay in the passage of the intestinal contents is termed constipation, whether occuring in the duodenum, ileum, colon or in the rectum.

Many people appear to have a good daily evacuation, and do not consider themselves troubled with constipation, but the trouble is that the passage may be two or three days latter than it should be, and during this time toxins or putrefaction may be absorbed. Some of the principal causes of constipation are:

(1.) A weakness of the contractive muscles around the intestines which serve the purpose of pushing the contents forward.

(2.) An insufficient amount of roughage of cellulose in the diet.

(3.) Disregarding the impulse to defaecate.

(4.) The habitual use of cathartics.

(5.) Irritating substances in the diet causing a spasm of the intestinal muscular fibers.

(6.) Diseases, adhesions, or malpositions of the stomach or intestines.

(7.) Anemia, neuasthenia, hysteria, acute fevers and diseases of the liver.

The X-ray is of intestimable value in diagnosing the exact cause of constipation and in determining which portion of the intestine is affected. A meal may be watched from the time it enters the mouth until the residue is excreted. If the delay should be caused by a kink, as in the ileum, this can be readily ascertained. The normal points of weakness at which kinks may occur are in the latter third of the duodenum, the ileum, and the splenic flexure of the colon. The usual parts where dilation or muscular weakness may occur are about the ileocaecal valve and the caecum near the appendix, the ascending colon, and the portion of the sigmoid flexure just above the rectum, where the feces, having become hard, are naturally more difficult to expel.

The local pressure of accumulated feces may also produce piles, ulceration of the colon, fistulas, enteritis, or even a complete stoppage. This pressure may also interfere with the function of the other organs of the pelvis, and undoubtedly causes many of the heavy, drowsy feelings ordinarily accompanying constipation, and which are relieved within a few minutes after a thorough cleansing with the enema. Relief within such a short time proves that some of the symptoms are caused by pressure because this would hardly give time for general toxemia to disappear. In addition to the local pressure, there is the absorption of uneliminated toxins, which is perhaps, the greatest single cause of disease.

(In tomorrow's article I will explain the dangers of constipation.)

Question: Mrs. F. S. Asks: "What is the cause of migraine and what can one do to prevent it?"

Answer: Migraine is the name given to periodic headaches which occur only on one side of the head at a time. It is due to various disturbances of the nervous system and from the common cause of toxemia, which is usually present with all headaches except those resulting from accident. Colitis, constipation and extreme prolapsus of the abdominal organs are also contributing causes.

Bad Habits

Q.: Mrs. E. H. G. writes: "I am very nervous, have indigestion, low vitality and am extremely underweight for my height and age. What can I do to overcome this unhappy condition. I do office work."

A.: Your condition is caused mainly by your habits of life, such as a sedentary occupation and insufficient physical-culture exercises. Try a fruit fast for from twelve to fourteen days, followed by a starchless diet, including vegetables rich in mineral elements. I will be glad to send you my spring cleansing diet course if you will write again, inclosing large self-addressed stamped envelope.

Thick Ankles

Q.: Dot asks: "Will you please advise me of something to do for ankles which are slowly but surely getting thick? Not swollen, but just plain stolid. Surely there must be some proper exercises or treatments which would remedy this."

A.: If the thickening of your ankles is caused by fleshy deposits you could reduce them somewhat by following a correct diet and taking exercises by raising and lowering your weight alternately on heels and toes. Massage would also be beneficial. However, if the enlargement is of the bone you are probably suffering from some constitutional disease which would require a careful diagnosis.

DAWN-DUSK AIR LINE READY

Los Angeles-Kansas City Service to Start; Lake Arrowhead Also Linked by Planes

Next Saturday has been set as the definite date for the opening of the dawn-to-dusk air passenger service between here and Kansas City and also for another new line linking Los Angeles and Lake Arrowhead, officials of Western Air Express announced yesterday.

Planes will leave Vail Field daily at 6 a.m., arriving in the Missouri city about 7 p.m. Westbound departures will be made at 8:30 a.m., with arrival here at 7 p.m. There is two hours' difference in time between the two points.

FOKKER PLANES

The same type of trimotor, twelve-passenger Fokker cabin planes which have been used on the San Francisco and Salt Lake City lines of Western Air Express will make the flights. They have a high speed of 150 miles an hour and a cruising or average speed of 124 miles an hour. Two pilots are carried on each plane.

Regularly scheduled stops will be Kingman, Ariz., Albuquerque, N. M., and Amarillo, Tex. Passengers will be accommodated, however, at Holbrook, Ariz., and Wichita, Kan. The one-way fare for the through trip, according to H. H. Shields, general passenger agent, will be $175.

EVERYTHING READY

According to a telegram received here from C. C. Cole, superintendent of operations, who is in Kansas City, all details, such as intermediate landing fields, radio equipment and facilities for weather reporting have been completed. The weather service was arranged by Lieut. Frank Miller and the radio arrangements were made by Herbert Hoover, Jr., who built a number of new sets especially for this line.

No pilot or plane will be in continuous service for more than approximately six hours. Passengers traveling in either direction will disembark at Albuquerque and step into another plane with different pilots at the controls.

The pilots who will fly between Kansas City and Albuquerque are Raymond Merritt, Charles Stoffer, Royal Leonard and L. J. Chiappino. On the Los Angeles-Albuquerque division are Hal Holloway, Peyton Gibson, George Rice and O. W. Coyle.

LAKE ARROWHEAD

Of the Lake Arrowhead service, Mr. Shields states that planes of the amphibian type will depart from Vail Field every Saturday and Sunday at 1 p.m., returning immediately to go into service on the Catalina line. The fare will be $12.50.

PROTESTS SET FOR TODAY

Protests are scheduled to be heard by the City Council today against the ordinances of intention for the installation of lights on Davis street between Effie street and Lilac Terrace and for the improvement of Dalton avenue between Eighty-seventh and Ninety-second streets, and the streets in the Bedford-street, Adams-Boulevard, the Santa Susana-avenue and Topanga Canyon-avenue improvement districts.

Funeral for Mrs. Burkett to be Today

Last rites will be conducted at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Los Angeles Crematory, Venice Boulevard and Catalina street, for Mrs. Blanche W. Burkett who died unexpectedly Saturday night at her home, 920 Westlake avenue. Death was attributed to heart disease.

Born in Warsaw, Ind., March 23, 1860, Mrs. Burkett was the daughter of Hon. William Williams, Representative from Indiana during President Grant's administration and Charge d'Affaires to Uruguay under President Garfield. Marrying Dr. J. H. Davisson, she settled in Los Angeles in 1886. Dr. Davisson was one of the founders of the California Hospital, now known as the Lutheran Hospital. Some years after Dr. Davisson's death, his widow married Charles H. Burkett of Evanston, Ill.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Burkett leaves a son, Woodford Davisson, a grandson, Woodford Davisson, Jr., and a sister, Mrs. Emma Wiswall of London, Eng.

Woman Fired on by Peeping Tom

A narrow escape from being shot by an asserted Peeping Tom was reported by Mrs. A. Wagner of 1782 South Raymond avenue, and a neighbor, J. Reyne, yesterday morning.

Mrs. Wagner told police she surprised the prowler attempted to get in her bedroom window. Reyne responded to her cries for aid and, when he sought to capture the prowler, was fired on by the fleeing man. Several shots narrowly missed Mrs. Wagner and her rescuer.

'DANGER' IS WHIMSICAL IN SPIRIT

Psychologizing Dialogue is Feature of Mystery Thriller at Hollywood Playhouse

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

A mountain lodge—a midwinter blizzard—a young man in love—an interfering mama—an escaped maniac—a crook, seeking seclusion—an author and his comical wife—secret passageways—doors that seem to lock themselves mysteriously—lights that flicker—guns and knives—a quotation from Schopenhauer.

Certainly here are a fair assortment of ingredients to make a mystery play. The quotation from Schopenhauer might to the unaided first glance seem superfluous, but at any rate, it, too, is gratuitously tossed into the melee and the melange of "Danger," by Tom Barry, which opened yesterday afternoon at the Hollywood Playhouse. Edmund Breese appears as the star of this stage piece, and Gay Seabrook is the leading supporting satellite.

In comparison to the routine mystery thriller, whose presence in the theater seems almost unwanting, Barry's play is one possessed of many novel elements. Certainly, it assumes to be far more psychological than do most such nerve-teasing contrivances, and certainly, too, it does not always thrive hair-raisingly because of its psychologizing. But, at all events, it is different—different in spirit.

The plot contains fewer unusual qualities than the dialogue. Barry, judged by this play and "Courage," recently seen here, particularly shines in his capable use of language. He draws very frequently out of the wells of intellectualism—if for naught else than to embellish.

I don't know that such ornamentation, even when it may be to a degree related to situation, means much to play-making, but unquestionably it gives a pleasant impulse to the imagination. There is probably something Celtic about this particular mental adventuring of the author—which his name would bear out.

For those who want their mystery plays to be satisfactorily blood-curdling, "Danger" will supply its share of thrills, even though not a shot is fired, nor anybody killed. The threat of "danger" is sufficient to cause a mother to relent rather logically in her opposition to the marriage of her daughter to the young man trying to save her.

The plot gains some impetus at times because the heroine refuses to believe that she is really threatened. She thinks the spooky noises that go on in the lodge are merely a hoax, devised by her fiancee to render her mother more amenable to their mating. She feels that he has engineered the little ruse so that her parent will appreciate the advantage of masculine protection. At one moment, this leads the girl to take such a risk, as locking everybody out of the room she is in, whereupon she is almost grabbed by one of the lodge's mysterious invaders.

The play seeks to analyze a number of things, including an acute case of dementia, the mind of a lawyer (the sequence is quite unintentional) and also quite incidentally the dangers of ennui. It is the maniac who essays the last-named dissection, by reciting the Schopenhauer quotation, which substantially is "Life has three great enemies—hunger, sex and boredom." He points out that he had contributed something in relieving any feeling of monotony that might prevail in a mountain lodge during a house-party.

However, all that is at the end of the play, and I therefore have no business saying anything about it.

"Danger" is a whimsical sort of play, and perhaps for that reason it may not be acutely popular. There is evidence, though, that its thrill stuff will induce sure-fire reactions. The proof of that was the shrieks of the audience during the performance.

Lines were not always spoken with assurance by members of the cast yesterday afternoon. Mr. Eddy Waller and Mr. George Lamont being at some fault in this respect. Mr. Lamont otherwise gave a thoroughly good characterization.

Breese's splendid voice does not come into the tournee until the second act, but he offers a portrayal of vigor as well as some subtlety. The polish of his work is most satisfying.

Miss Seabrook, as usual, invests her lines with spontaneous humor. She is pleasing in a play of this sort. Irving Mitchell, Doris Phillips and Jane Morgan have much to do with carrying the dialogue, and accomplish this very capably.

Serpentine Is Hit in Revel of Masquers

"Midnite" show-seekers flocked in numbers to view the Annual Public Revel of The Masquers yesterday morning at Warner Brothers' Theater. The show was set for 12 o'clock but did not begin until nearly 12:30, and ended some three hours later. It included a little of everything that might be contrived by the mere masculine, with the additional aid, occasionally, of feminine garb, and provided some splendid "big moments."

The hit of hits was the "Serpentine" as staged by Larry Ceballos and danced by coryphees more notable for their avoirdupois in many instances than their perfection of figure, sixteen in number. The names included those of Tyler Brooke, William Bakewell, Charles Chase, Neely Edwards, Eddie Cline, Alan Hale, Al Ray, Lee Moran, Hank Mann, Reginald Sheffield, James Parrott, Donald Lee, Bobby Vernon, Harvey Clark, Eddie Nugent and Ceballos.

The Serpentine, which was done in all its phases and poses made familiar in the Music Box Revue of several years ago, was encored and encored, and after its various convolutions had been gone through, the "ballet" had to come before the curtain to take several bows.

Another number of very measureable interest was "Such is Fame." A casting director's office was the setting. An actor's agent sought jobs for his talent. As the names were suggested, the actors themselves appeared in excerpts from their more famous starring efforts. They included Robert Edeson, Richard Carle, H. B. Warner, Julian Eltinge and Edmund Breese. Eddie Kline furnished humor as the casting director, and Walter McGrail was the actor's agent.

The show offered a variety of acts and turns, with the following appearing prominently: Joe E. Brown, Frank Fay, James Gleason and Robert Armstrong, Conway Tearle, Ben Bard and Bobby Callahan, Lawrence Grant, Lupino Lane, James Bradbury, Sr., and Jr., Charley Chase and Neely Edwards, Clyde Cook, Henry Clive, Bobby Vernon, Mitchell Lewis, Harry Stubbs, Harry Gribben, Purnell B. Pratt, James Spottswood, William Davidson, Robert Keith and others. Sam Hardy, as harlequin, was master of ceremonies, and Little Billie, his assistant, Louis Gottschalk, directed the music.

The program culminated with "The Modiste Shop," well staged and costumed, and presenting an ample chorus. Armand Kaliz and Brooke were principals, and the models, labeled variously Miss New York, Miss Detroit, Miss Texas, Miss California, were impersonated by Robert Fraser, Anthony Merlo, Cornelius Keefe, James Parrott, Mahlon Hamilton, Walter C. Percival and Francis X. Bushman.

Actress Enjoys Soubrette Role

Mazie, the tough soubrette with the "heart of pure gold," whom Eileen Wilson portrays in the comedy "Burlesque," is the only part the actress has had which is not a leading role. Arthur Hopkins offered it to her for the originalstryout of the play and she accepted for the fun of it. Then she found so much pleasure in romping through the show that the producer had no difficulty in signing her for the part in the Broadway production.

Previous to this Miss Wilson, who appears in the same part with the production of "Burlesque" which Hal Skelly and the Henry Duffy Players are presenting at El Capitan, had played leads on Broadway and in stock companies. She was the leading woman with Henry Duffy's company in Washington, D. C., six years ago, before the actor-producer came to the Pacific Coast.

Studio Change Made by Actor

Having completed the starring role in "The Climax," the last talking picture under his contract with Universal, Jean Hersholt has moved his make-up box to the Paramount lot. Within the next two weeks he will begin work in "The Genius," which Victor Schertzinger is to direct as an all-dialogue production.

Following the completion of his Paramount assignment, it is understood Hersholt will become affiliated with United Artists for the starring role in one of their biggest productions to be made on this year's program.

Two Plot One's Downfall

Myrna Loy and Roy D'Arcy

In a moment of scheming from "The Black Watch," the Fox Film adaptation of "King of the Khyber Rifles," now in its final weeks at the Carthay Circle Theater.

BOYD SNOWBOUND IN TALKER

A "mighty melodrama of the great outdoors" with William Boyd, a man among men, dominating, is current for a week at the Hillstreet. "High Voltage" is its name and it would be the dynamic drama intended had the fuse burned down a trifle quicker. In charge of this cinematic combustion was Howard Higgin, who, given this big moment in movies, made much of it, as did his co-workers, Mr. Boyd, Carol Lombard, Diane Ellis, Owen Moore and others. From the start, one is attracted by its unusual flavor and the talking talents of its players.

Snowbound in an auto stage to somewhere, are a detective (Mr. Moore,) his prisoner (Miss Lombard,) a sweet young thing (Diane Ellis,) a man of big business and, of course, the driver. As a storm approaches, they stagger through the great outdoors to a deserted church, where they find Bill Boyd already ensconced with a can of sardines and a winning smile. Everyone settles down, goes to seed and the drama unfolds. And that is about the last one sees of God's country, for the rest of the action takes place in the one room. Which is the real trouble with the picture. There never has been much drama in sitting around the house, particularly if prolonged, and one soon wishes they would all go places and do things.

As starvation sets in, the men grow beards and the girls let their hair get straight. And in the midst of it all, Bill falls in love with Carol and her lovely, husky tones. He also is awaited at prison. Doing his duty, Owen Moore objects. One night, thinking him asleep, they start to make a getaway. The American aviation chooses that moment for a rescue, so their better natures get the best of them and they return to save the rest. Owen becomes big-hearted and wants to let them go, but no. They had "found" themselves out there in the snow, and purged by the mountain air, are happy in one of those redeeming loves.

What happens when East goes West is shown in the act by Long Tack Sam and Company. This flock of Chinese wonder workers performs amazing physical feats and magical tricks. But the only oriental thing about them is their costumes and a stage swathed in embroidery. While his duet of daughters skip around expertly to the latest song hits, Mr. L. T. Sam wisecracks in about fifteen different languages.

Billy Glason and his classic hat are also featured in "Just Songs and Sayings." The efforts of Kelley and Kackson to "win the girl" provide amusement. And quite appreciated was the young dramatic tenor belonging to Charles Derickson, which exercises itself pleasingly and works up to a grand finale with "Glad Rag Doll."

BLACK-FACE TEAM IN HALF-WEEK OF FUN

Comedians Remain at Pantages to Delight Patrons; Ray Shannon Present

With that popular team of funsters, Amos 'n' Andy, held over for another four days, Pantages assures plenty of entertainment for those whose tastes lean toward variety.

The black-face duo offer the same program of wise-cracks they did on last week's bill, but there appears to be no decrease in the number of laughs the skit supplies the audience.

If you enjoy the antics of these two via radio, don't miss the opportunity of seeing them clown in person. They'll even prove conclusively that thirteen times seven is twenty-eight.

In addition to the troubles of the Fresh Air Taxicab Company, Pantages offers Ray Shannon and company in a one-act playlet, "Oh, Pops!"

Shannon is a sterling comedian of the Joe E. Brown type . . . and will probably be flaunting his various wise-cracks in front of the microphone before long. His skit, a backstage farce, proves one of the program's most popular hits.

Shannon is supported by an able company.

Those who recall Joe Roberts, the boy with the banjo, for his previous appearances at the variety house, will no doubt welcome the news that he has returned to Los Angeles . . . banjo and all. Roberts offers a program of both popular and classical tunes . . . and with the "Rhapsody in Blue" as a starter.

A picturesque and novel sketch is that under the billing of "Polar Pastimes." Acrobatic in nature, "Polar Pastimes" features some difficult feats of head balancing, performed by two lads masquerading as polar bears. A young lady adept in the art of high kicking and fancy cart-wheels, adds the feminine touch.

A diversified program of sound and silent pictures is featured on the screen. A Collegian Comedy, "The Road Race," and a talker produced by George Lemaire, provide a full quota of comedy.

Featuring George Simon, Lemaire's production proves a veritable riot. Even the fact that it depends upon the old "mistaken identity" theme for a plot fails to dim the excellence of Simon's characterization.

A silent and a talkie newsreel round out the bill.

SOUND FILM AT RITZ

Starting tonight and continuing until Wednesday the Fox Ritz will offer "Speakeasy," the William Fox all-talking production with Henry B. Walthall and a large cast of stage favorites. "Speakeasy" enjoys the distinction of being the first film offering to actually record the sounds of New York's "gay white way." The roar of Broadway traffic, noises of the subway and elevated, all are faithfully reproduced for audiences in "Speakeasy," which was adapted to the screen from the stage play of that name.

INTERESTING TIME HAD IN VAUDEVILLE

Ken Murray Returns; Jean Gail Out-Apaches Them All at Orpheum

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Apparently none the worse off for his late contact with the talking pictures, Ken Murray put in an early appearance yesterday afternoon at the Orpheum Theater. Mr. Murray, you will recall, is the youth with a cigar, a high hat in bad shape and a fondness for tackling and throwing offending persons with terrifying suddenness. It is to be hoped that he controlled this passion, or at least, used it with discretion, in his studio encounter. On the stage of the Orpheum, its display is still the comicalist thing about Mr. Murray and his act.

While the balance of the revue presented a few weeks ago by this humorist of sorts has left him, as the saying goes, flat, Helen and Milton Charleston—the true-blue Charlestons—have stayed on. They are there at the Orpheum with Mr. Murray, singing a little, dancing a little, joking a little. And all three would make a creditable diversion on any program.

As master of ceremonies, Mr. Murray has the responsibility for introducing the others on the current bill, among them Kenneth Harlan, the movie actor; Sylvia Clark, the singing comedienne; Al Herman, the black-face comic, and the Lee Gail Ensemble.

From a news standpoint, the Lee Gail Ensemble did enough yesterday to get itself a place at the head of this column. With one extra spurt of additional energy, indeed, it might have got itself on the front page, or at least in the obituaries. What happened was that Leon and Jean Lee Gail went in for Apache dancing in a big way.

Apache dancing, as you probably are well aware, is no joke even in a small way. One needed no more than a single frightened glance at Leon and Jean to expect the worst; and still it was something in the nature of a shock to see the lady come spinning merrily across the length of the boards and—still spinning, but not so merrily—plunge over the footlight-well and into the abysmal recesses of the orchestra pit, causing the unfortunate 'cellist and pianist to take their minds quite off their music and make, as a direct result, a discord as big as your ear.

However, the best part of the story remains to be told. Equal to the emergency, Leon (a good man to have around the house) leaped forward without hesitation, reached down with his hand at the approximate spot of his partner's disappearance, and after a moment of suspense, dragged her triumphantly forth. But you cannot appreciate the full significance of his feat until I tell you that, true to the noblest traditions of the Montmartre from which he sprang, the method by which he liberated the lady from her predicament was to haul her out by the hair of her head.

Sylvia Clark, "home from London triumphs!" is described ac vaudeville's little buffoon. Into the clear light of veracity she brings her impersonation of a saleslgrl "in the hardware" of a metropolitan department store; and, later, with the aid of Bobbie Kuhn, her guitaring accompanist, she explains in song just why we are all just grown-up babies, after all.

Kenneth Harlan's debut is accomplished by means of a playlet entitled "The Honeymoon," by Aaron Hoffman. Moving rapidly to the tune of wedding bells, it treats the husband-and-wife question (and it certainly is a question) in a manner that vaudeville audiences everywhere will dote on. Evelyn Humes and Wilbur Cox furnish better support than a screen player usually has when he experiments with the two-a-day.

Al Herman, with the assistance of a man in a box, furnishes merriment; Al Gordon's dog show is worth coming in early for; and Lewis and Winthrop tap-dance acrobatically.

Ward and Van, filling in for the absent Irene Franklin, make jokes and music in their familiar style. One of them plays the harp very prettily when he sticks to sentimental melodies, but—

Melodrama of Fiji Isles Now at Play Shop

Another version of what happens to white men when the tropics get into their blood is being currently unfolded at the Cordova Play Shop, that hole-in-the-wall which is devoted to things esthetic in the drama. There "White Wreckage," a play by Mary Sheldon and Loring Kelley, is being aired for its devoted pilgrims; and if it falls something short of the mark to which the bona fide esthete truthfully aspires, it is still not without its amusing moments.

The energy and earnestness with which this generally youthful cast applies itself to the telling of a lurid tale of the Fiji Islands are in themselves sources of wonderment. Acting for the joy of it is a phenomenon with which the theatergoing public is not any too familiar. Here, then, it is.

In a place called Luvi, a man named Trask keeps natives and whites both under his whip hand. The woman, Maria, an all but hopeless drug addict; Lewis, the company manager; Madeline, his daughter; Luana, the half-caste girl, and Donald Ross, a missionary, all come within his province. The rebellion of the missionary is the torch that finally leads them to freedom.

Lillian Rivers has some moving moments as the woman Maria; with such exuberance as hers, it could not be otherwise. The dark blood which runs fire in the blood of Luana, the half-caste, gives Lyle Van Auken an opportunity to be as convincingly untamed as she is pretty. Polly Ann Young is suitably aloof as the English girl, and Esther Waggoner plays a native.

Not so much can be said for the gentlemen of the cast.

FILM STARS TO BE SEEN AS MODELS

Peggy Hamilton Engaged for Special Event at Elks-A.A.U. Exhibition

Peggy Hamilton, Times fashion expert, will direct the sports fashion revue of the Los Angeles National Sports Exposition, it was announced yesterday by Harry S. Lawson, director-general of the forthcoming Elks-A.A.U. show at Wilshire Boulevard and Fairfax avenue.

June 27, which will be motion-picture day at the exposition, is set for Miss Hamilton's presentation. She will use as models only prominent film players, who will parade in the large stadium at the ten-acre park with a background of suitable props. Riding togs will be shown with models mounted on blue-blood horses; tennis wear on actual tennis courts; yachting and beach wear on carefully prepared floats, for which autos will be used.

Other features of this day will be a dog show, motion-picture athletes in competition on the field and track and a snappy program by the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

The exposition will cover a period of eleven days from June 20 to June 30. John J. Doyle is chairman.

SUSPECTED AUTO THIEF SHOT DOWN

Police Bullet Ends Long Chase After Pair in Car; Two Men Arrested

Culminating a chase of several miles through the Hollenbeck Heights district early yesterday, a suspected auto thief, Joe Gonzales, 24 years of age, of 1400 Pleasant avenue, was shot in the right shoulder by pursuing policemen, Miles, Gardner and Simpkins.

Gonzales, with Manuel Cuaron of 123 North Boyle avenue, was in an automobile registered to B. T. Horseman of 7619 Male street, the policemen reported.

The officers stated they were investigating persons hanging about a cafe in the Hollenbeck Heights section when the two suspects jumped into the car and fled. The pursuit ensued down boulevards, through side streets and alleys. Several shots from the officers' guns failed to halt the suspects, until, at Third and Clarence street, one of the bullets struck Gonzales. The suspects are held on suspicion of grand theft.

DR. AKED TO BE HEARD BY GRADUATES

All Souls' Church Pastor Baccalaureate Speaker for U.S.C. at Coliseum

Rev. Charles F. Aked, pastor of All-Souls Church, is to deliver the baccalaureate address of the University of Southern California in the Coliseum next Sunday, according to announcement of Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid, president.

Dr. Aked's topic will be "Growing a Soul."

The academic procession will form at Bovard Auditorium at 3 p.m. and proceed along University avenue. The exercises in the Coliseum, which are public, will begin at 4 p.m.

Dr. Aked formerly was minister of Pembroke Church, Liverpool, Eng.; of Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York (the Rockefeller church,) and of the First Congregational Church, San Francisco. He is author of a number of works.

City Develops Aeronautical Turn of Mind

Circumstances are making Los Angeles "lighter-than-air-minded," according to F. X. Kennelly, a local representative of Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of California. Some of these circumstances are the coming here of the airship Volunteer, which soon will be in the air, the local interest in the trans-Atlantic flights of the Graf Zeppelin, and the award to the Goodyear company by the United States Navy of a contract to build two rigid airships of 6,500,000 cubic feet each.

The Volunteer is to be reassembled here and put through continuous practice flights preparatory to inauguration of a trans-Pacific airship service between Los Angeles and Hawaii. During the training period the airship will cruise up and down the California coast, and will become a familiar sight in local heavens.

To educate the public on lighter-than-air subjects, P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear corporation, has written a brochure entitled "The Story of the Airship." The booklet of sixteen pages is illustrated with pictures of airships from the first balloon to the latest airship. Types of dirigibles described include military, passenger and contest airships.

Mr. Litchfield traces the evolution of the lighter-than-air creations from the Montgolfier's balloon in 1783, to the newest rigid and nonrigid airships. The advance in the inflating substance from Montgolfier's hot-air and smoke to the present helium is described in detail. Appointments of passenger air liners, including berths and dining-room are shown. The brochure concludes with a preview of the day when men fly from New York on Saturday, reach Europe on Monday and return to New York the next Monday.

WOMEN MEET TOMORROW

A special meeting of the international friendship committee of the California Women of the Golden West will be conducted tomorrow noon at the Breakers Club, 360 South Westlake avenue.

STATE OF NATURE EXILES RALLY

FOLLOWING the example of other former residents of somewhere else now living in Southern California, exiles from the good old Wild State have just held their annual picnic at the Los Angeles ostrich farm. At least, if it was not annual, it was a regular picnic for all who attended. The police were not called in but to the spectators it was a riot. There were 50,000 picnickers, counting the fleas.

Hon. Simian A. Roughneck, president of the organization, late of Tennessee and Arkansas, was master of ceremonies. He had promised hot peanuts, silk badges and county registers to all attending and then proceeded to eat all the supplies personally.

This aroused no little criticism among the other participants and infesters. Sahara A. Ostrich went so far as to hiss the presiding ex-resident when he rose to speak. This led to an argument in which Roughneck was forced to jump on Senor Ostrich to subdue his disturbance.

Ostrich eggs, slightly scrambled, were served as the basket lunch number, assuaging the current hunger and furnishing a topic of conversation. One orator stated that Southern California produces more ostrich eggs than the Polo Grounds and the Cubs' baseball park combined.

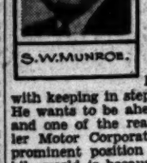
The speaker announced that a company is being launched to convert ostrich egg ends into safety-zone buttons, another new industry brought to the region as a direct result of the efforts of former residents of the good old Wild State.

The next picnic will be held in the center of the Mojave Desert—if the farm's fence yields to concerted assault.

MOTOR CAR SALES HEAD LIKES WEST

Automobile Owners Here Use All of Their Car, Chrysler Official Says

S. W. Munroe, director of sales for the Chrysler Motor Corporation, arrived at the Biltmore yesterday for a brief visit in Los Angeles. He is on a national tour and arrived from the north by motor.



S. W. MUNROE

"I am on what you might call a pulse-feeling expedition," he said. "I am trying to determine what you people of the West Coast want in the way of automobiles.

"Mr. Chrysler has no patience with keeping in step with the times. He wants to be ahead of the times, and one of the reasons the Chrysler Motor Corporation occupies its prominent position in the automobile world is because we have been able to do so.

"West Coast motoring habits are quite different from those of the Middle West or East. You drive much greater distances in a day than the average easterner.

"Your roads make sustained speeds of forty miles an hour or better entirely safe. You climb mountains with your automobiles that would scare a southerner to death. You use all of your car while the rest of the country uses only a portion."

Mr. Munroe has been with Chrysler Motors since its inception. His experience in the automobile field has ranged from retail salesman upward through various phases of dealer and factory work. He says that business conditions in general throughout the nation are good and the automobile business particularly good.

NEW PASSPORT QUARTERS

Announcement was made yesterday by United States District Court Clerk Zimmerman that beginning today a special room has been provided for the passport bureau, in charge of L. J. Cordes. Passports hereafter will be issued in Room 405, Federal Building, instead of Room 417, and first citizenship papers may be obtained in Room 410, instead of 405.

EVIDENCE IN ARNOLD CASE NEAR

Selection of Jury May be Completed Today in Murder Trial

Efforts to complete a jury will be made today in Judge Hardy's court in the trial of George S. Arnold, service station operator charged with murder in connection with the shooting of Police Sergeant E. C. Baab, said to have been Arnold's war-time "buddy" and best friend.

The case was started Friday but when adjournment was taken the prosecution and defense still had five challenges each which may be exercised before the jury is completed. Dep. Dist.-Attys. Aggeler and Richardson, prosecuting, announced they expect the jury will be sworn in today and that testimony will get under way.

Arnold is asserted to have shot Baab in the kitchen of the latter's home just as a wedding anniversary party given by the Baabs was ending. The State will seek to prove that Arnold had lived in Baab's home for a number of years and that the asserted murder was entirely unprovoked or without cause.

It is expected the widow of the police officer, who was well known in Los Angeles, will be among the first witnesses called by the prosecution when taking of testimony starts.

Garden Expert Lauds Planting Over Southland

Southern California, drawing plant materials freely and intelligently from every corner of the world, is now a veritable man-made Garden of Eden, according to Alfred C. Hottes, nationally known garden authority and associate editor of Better Homes and Gardens, Des Moines. Hottes is spending several days in Los Angeles, studying outstanding plantings, and carrying the gospel of good gardens to several garden clubs.

During his stay in Southern California, Hottes has visited all of the outstanding gardens. He was particularly impressed with the Huntington Botanic Garden at San Marino, and with the potentialities of the California Botanic Garden in Mandeville Canyon.

BAR PLAN APPROVED BY WILBUR

Judge Indorses Effort to Select Qualified Men for Judicial Positions

Judge Curtis D. Wilbur, former Secretary of the Navy, and recently appointed judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Ninth Judicial Circuit, has expressed enthusiastic approval of the efforts of the Los Angeles Bar Association to elect judicial candidates best qualified to serve on the municipal bench. In a letter received by Kemper Campbell, past president of the Los Angeles Bar Association, Judge Wilbur says:

"When in Washington I had occasion to answer a letter from the Los Angeles Bar Association requesting contribution to the campaign fund of the organization in furtherance of the election of judicial candidates indorsed by the bar association. In answering that communication I expressed my very great satisfaction at the activities of the Los Angeles Bar Association on behalf of judicial candidates. Unless and until the State or municipality furnishes to the voters some statement as to the character, standing and qualifications of judicial candidates it will be necessary, in my judgment, for the bar association to continue its activities. I feel that by making such an active campaign on behalf of well-qualified judicial candidates the bar association is making a very definite and desirable contribution to the welfare of the State.

"It was originally the custom of the bar association to indorse candidates and then take no further part in the nomination or election of such candidates. The present plan is much more desirable. I feel at liberty to express this opinion in view of the fact that I am no longer in a judicial position in which the tenure of office depends upon an election. I venture to hope that not only will the bar association continue its efforts, but it will also seek to have the laws so amended that the voter will be informed officially with relation to the qualifications of the judicial candidates, who should not be put to the expense of maintaining an active campaign."

The Los Angeles Bar Association has indorsed for re-election in the June 4 finals Judge George W. McDill and Judge Guy P. Bush, both incumbents on the Municipal Court bench.

Leak Located in Catalina's Phone Cable

The United States Army cableship Dellwood yesterday afternoon located the leaky spot in the Catalina telephone cable and today will attempt to bring the faulty section to the surface for reinsulation, from where it lies in 2600 feet of water, approximately thirteen miles southwest of San Pedro.

The Dellwood, which, during the past fortnight, has been engaged off the local coast in laying fire-control cables for increases in the coast defenses of Los Angeles, herself laid the San Pedro-Catalina cable four years ago.

Repair of the leak is under the direction of F. N. Rush, district general manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. Its approximate location had been previously determined by sounding and testing devices.

Pupils to Get Swimming Aid

"Every sixth-grade boy and girl a swimmer."

With this slogan, the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department and the physical education division of the city schools will join in a two-weeks program of instruction calculated to teach any child of sixth-grade age how to swim. Beginning this afternoon, a six-day instruction will take place for sixth-grade girls. Boys will be taught next week.

The campaign will be conducted under supervision of C. P. L. Nicholls, supervisor of the aquatics division of the playground and recreation department, and H. L. Mitchess, assistant director of physical education of the city schools.

REALTY WOMAN AWAITS FATE

Mrs. Effie L. Reel Will Appear in Court Soon to Ask for Probation Following Her Conviction in Involved Deal Hingeing on Lot Sale

Held in the County Jail pending decision on her probation application, Mrs. Effie L. Reel, who at one time occupied a prominent position in the Los Angeles real estate business as a sales manager, is wondering whether she will have to serve a San Quentin sentence or whether her plea for leniency will be granted.

Mrs. Reel recently was convicted in Judge Hardy's court with Claude A. Doty of two counts of grand theft in connection with the sale of a lot in Vinecrest, a Hollywood subdivision, to Mrs. Eleanor W. Lynch, 1654 North Stanley avenue.

The story of Mrs. Reel's downfall, as revealed by the testimony at her trial, is a long and involved one. After having achieved considerable success and prominence as a saleswoman, it is said she and Doty decided to launch into business in an executive capacity in connection with the sale of the Vinecrest lots.

According to Mrs. Lynch's testimony, she first went to the subdivision in the Hollywood foothills in the fall of 1926 and entered negotiations with Mrs. Reel and Doty to purchase a lot there and build a home. Mrs. Lynch said she paid $462 on the lot on October 26 of that year and on January 7, 1927, paid the balance of $1700.

It was then that the trouble which led to jail for Mrs. Reel started. According to Mrs. Lynch's story, the defendants failed to deliver her a deed and put that part of the transaction off for more than a year under one pretext or another.

Finally Mrs. Lynch consulted her attorney who, after an investigation, put the matter before the District Attorney's office, with the result that the grand theft charges were preferred against Mrs. Reel and Doty.

It developed at the trial of the case that the money paid by Mrs. Lynch for her lot had been turned over to a bank by the defendants, in accordance with the terms of a trust under which the property was being sold, but that the defendants later had ordered the money withdrawn to pay taxes and the trust therefore was unable to issue a deed to Mrs. Lynch. According to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Barnes, who prosecuted the highly technical case, the trust provided that the defendants were to pay the taxes out of their own funds and not from proceeds realized from the sale of any of the lots.

And so now Mrs. Reel and Doty face possible San Quentin sentences of from two to twenty years. Their motion for a new trial was denied last week by Judge Hardy, who, however, allowed their attorneys, W. J. Ford and George A. Judson, to file applications for probation. Hearing on the applications was set for June 7, next.

Mrs. Reel does not believe she is guilty of the crime of grand theft. She wants another chance, and when the case again comes before Judge Hardy the probation officer will place before the court a complete history of her life on which she will base her plea for leniency.

STATION GROUP TO BE IMPROVED

Expansion Announced for KTM, KTAB and KGB

Pickwick Entry Into Network Field Ultimate Aim

Radio Takes College Sport News to Byrd Party

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Preparations are to begin today for the installation of complete new technical equipment in KTM, Los Angeles, and expansions at KTAB, Oakland, and KGB, San Diego, according to officials of the Pickwick Broadcasting Corporation.

The announcement follows receipt of a telegram from Federal Radio Commissioner Lafount granting permission to increase the power of both KTM and KTAB from 500 to 1000 watts, it is stated by Henry A. Hohman.

The projected expansion is one of the largest on this coast in recent months and ultimately the Pickwick stations are to be linked by land wires into a three-station chain.

This will mean one more network for the West. The field now includes the Don Lee chain of three California stations; the Coast network of N.B.C.; the western division of A.B.C., and the affiliated stations of the Columbia system.

Pickwick officials also state that permission has been granted to change the KTAB frequency from 550 to 560 kilocycles to eliminate any possible interference with Navy radio transmission. When the change is made at the Oakland station, which maintains studios in San Francisco, it is said that crystal control will be included.

Henry A. Hohman, managing director of the Pickwick system, and Clarence B. Juneau, chief transmission engineer, returned from Washington last week where they were in conference with members of the Radio Commission.

NEWS FROM HARVARD BROADCAST TO ANTARCTIC

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) May 25. (AP) Radio has been called on to satisfy the curiosity of N. D. Vaughan, Harvard '29, a member of the Byrd Expedition in the Antarctic, as to the outcome of Harvard athletic contests.

A letter from Vaughan to the Harvard Athletic Association arrived on the ship that recently returned with a part of the Byrd party. He wanted to know how the Harvard teams had been getting along.

So the student organization arranged a broadcast through the short-wave station of WGY Schenectady, to send Harvard sports news to the Antarctic.

FURNITURE PURCHASE CRITICISED

Low Bidder for County Contract Brings About Investigation of Award

Protests of a local furniture dealer who complained that chairs and desks to furnish the new Long Beach Courthouse were not bought from the lowest bidder are being investigated following a letter from the furniture dealer to R. F. McClellan, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors.

According to the letter of complaint, the original award of the contract for the furniture, made on April 16, was changed on April 29 so that some of the furniture was bought from two other dealers at prices greater than the figures submitted by the low bidder.

The dealer whose bids were rejected states that the high bidders attempted to purchase the material from the low bidder, for resale to the county at a higher price.

Chairman McClellan has asked all county officials concerned for a complete report on the situation.

Dying Singer's Ideal Attained in Swan Song

The song of Max Berenson, 79 years of age, is ended, but the melody lingers on in Superior Judge Stephens's court, where the story of Berenson's swan song is on file.

Berenson died at the Hebrew Sheltering Home for the Aged. His will, filed by Attorney David Tannenbaum, leaves the home $350 and a pile of music scores. Stricken a month ago, Tannenbaum was put to bed in a hospital. A voice teacher in Europe for many years, Berenson believed to the last that he some day would realize his youthful ambition, and become a great singer.

"When I get well my voice will return," he said.

Shortly thereafter, nurses heard the "Dream Song" from "Manon" echoing through the corridors.

Patients awoke, wondering what opera singer had come to serenade them. In his bed, Berenson sat upright; on his face a smile that told of an ideal come to life. He was singing in a voice that would never have been suspected as coming from one of his age.

But when the song was finished, Berenson sank back on his pillow, and died.

The testator's will provides that his scores be bound in a volume and presented to the public library.

WILMINGTON SEEKS BRANCH OF HOSPITAL

A branch hospital at Wilmington will be considered by the county Board of Supervisors at its meeting today, if a letter of J. W. Weightman, secretary of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, gets the attention it demands. With 17,000 population, the city of Wilmington has no hospital facilities, and it is removed a distance of twenty miles from Los Angeles hospitals, too far for efficient emergency service, Weightman's letter asserts.

FLYING CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Aviators Form Organization for Mutual Aid

Glendale Man President of New Association

Headquarters to be Built Near Flying Field

GLENDALE, May 26.—The Flying Club of California, an organization designed to assist aviators and airplane owners, along the lines followed by the motoring clubs of the country, has been formed here and plans are now under way for the erection of a $150,000 clubhouse on a site that has been tentatively selected at the Grand Central Air Terminal. The club has been incorporated under the laws of California and its name has been registered at Washington, D. C.

Officers of the club who were elected at a meeting held in the offices of Maddux Air Lines are Dr. T. C. Young, Glendale aviator and a member of the aeronautical committee of the California Development Association, president; William S. Belt, manager of Maddux Air Lines, first vice-president; Dudley Steele of the Richfield Oil Company, second vice-president; Victor M. Clark of the C. C. Spicer organization, secretary, and D. E. McDanield, Pasadena, treasurer. Directors who have been chosen are Capt. C. C. Spicer, president and general manager of Grand Central Air Terminal, Ltd.; J. L. Maddux, president of Maddux Air Lines; W. T. Balderston, Los Angeles aeronautical instrument manufacturer; W. E. Thomas of the Pacific Aeromotive Corporation; Thomas W. Morgan, vice-president of Pickwick Airways, Inc.; Harry Wetsel of Douglas Airplane Corporation, and four others are yet to be chosen, probably from among the leading flyers or aeronautical industrialists in the East.

The primary objects of the club are to serve aviators by furnishing them with weather reports of the West, with strip maps showing all the California air lanes and to assist in registering and securing licenses for pilots and owners. Courtesies of the club will be extended to visiting flyers and accommodations for the pilots and hangars for their planes will be provided at the Grand Central Air Terminal.

The clubhouse will be erected on a site on the west side of the terminal, according to present plans, and will be financed by Capt. C. C. Spicer, the club agreeing to take a long-term lease on the building. The grounds surrounding the club will be landscaped and terraced toward the Los Angeles River, and facilities for social and athletic diversions will be furnished for the members and the visiting aviators. Living accommodations will also be incorporated in the club building, sufficient to care for fifty members or guests, according to Secretary Clark.

New steel hangars are to be erected close to the clubhouse for the convenience of visiting flyers, and service for their planes will also be provided. The hangars and the clubhouse are to be erected at a location where they will not interfere with the arrival and departure of the regular passenger planes that are now using the field, or that may use it later.

A signal tower that is to be erected close to the intersection of the present runway and the proposed cross runway will flash signals of arrivals and departures from the main tower that is to be erected on the east side of the terminal.

Some of the leaders in the aviation industry in the East, who were interviewed by Capt. Spicer and J. L. Maddux during their recent visits to the East, are said to have expressed their unqualified approval of the club project and to have signified their intention to apply for membership.

New Golf Club for Beaumont

BEAUMONT, May 26.—This city is soon to have a golf course. Plans have been completed for a nine-hole course, and a country club building, the organization being perfected with George G. Lavon as president, Carl R. Brown, vice-president; Wiley Mull, secretary; Theo G. De Peel, president of the Chamber of Commerce, treasurer. To the board was elected Kenneth F. Rich, J. D. Funk, Harry P. Morse, Floyd W. Hough and Chester C. Hissong.

Preliminary steps of incorporation were placed in the hands of President Lavor and Mr. Brown.

The plan is to finance purchase of the real estate by the issuance of an interest in the club to the present realty owners, and the sale of memberships to those who care to join.

On the 160 acres in Mansanita Park steps will be taken soon to lay out the golf course and begin preparations of the grounds.

AIRPLANE TAKES OFF FROM CITY STREET

REDONDO BEACH, May 26.—The day when airplanes may be launched from back yards or streets was anticipated today by J. H. Hatfield, local mechanic, who successfully launched his monoplane from the esplanade near the Miramar Military Academy this morning. Hatfield's plane, a Thomas Morse scout plane with a wing spread of twenty-seven feet and of the type used during the World War, was being taken from his home here where he has been engaged in rebuilding it to the Dycer Airport near Gardenia.

Launching was adopted as less hazardous to the machine than being transported by truck. The plane made an easy ascent after the street had been cleared by traffic officers. Hatfield, although not a commercial aviator, is a self-made pilot with 212 solo flying hours to his credit.

Crowd Surrounds Man Said to Have Molested Girl in Dance Hall

PASADENA, May 26.—Suspected of molesting a girl who was selling "Buddy Poppies" in a local dance hall, Mainard Wheatland of 203 South Rosemead avenue, was lodged in the City Jail last night after a crowd of men had captured him at the end of a blind alley near the intersection of Euclid avenue and Union street.

According to the report of Patrolman C. B. Spake, who placed Wheatland under arrest as a group of men and boys who captured him were threatening to beat him, the suspect followed the girl from the dance hall and seized her by the arm in the alley. Spake reported that Wheatland was intoxicated at the time and that when he saw the crowd running toward him, he tried to escape, but was cornered at the end of the alley.

The prisoner denied today that he meant to injure the poppy seller.

He asserted that after dancing with the girl he invited her to "go out to get some air," after promising to purchase her entire stock of poppies. While the two were conversing in the alley, Wheatland said he saw "a gang" running in their direction and became so panic-stricken that he took to his heels.

Business Men Will Finance Boy Scouts

ALHAMBRA, May 26.—Financing of the Boy Scout movement in this district, without recourse to annual money-raising campaigns, has been virtually assured through the medium of the Quarter of One Club, founded by R. Westcott, Alhambra building contractor. Members of the club agree to turn over 1-4 of 1 per cent of the amounts of bills or contracts, in business dealings with other members, to the Scout fund.

The city of Alhambra heads the list of executive members, and the names of a dozen business concerns were added to the rolls during the last few days. The plan has been sanctioned by the national board of the Boy Scouts of America and has received wide indorsement as a means for financing Boy Scout activities. Mr. Westcott, who has been actively interested in Boy Scout work in the Pasadena-San Gabriel district for some time, conceived the idea during the Boy Scout campaign last winter and has received the support of many prominent business men.

BEACH CELEBRATION OF INDEPENDENCE DAY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 26. The city of Huntington Beach will stage an immense Fourth of July celebration here on Independence Day, according to plans advanced by the City Council. The American Legion will be asked to undertake the arrangements for the big event. The finances of the music and promotion committee will be placed at the disposal of the Legion in planning the celebration.

Contests with large awards as prizes, and exhibition of fancy fireworks, a street parade and a number of other unique attractions will be featured on the big program.

This is the first year that the city has taken official action in the annual celebrations. The American Legion has staged the Fourth of July festivities in the past and promises to surpass all other celebrations in this year's event.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK AT LA VERNE COLLEGE

LA VERNE, May 26.—La Verne College commencement week opens tomorrow with the baccalaureate services for the senior class. Participating on this service will be Dr. S. J. Miller, who will read the Scripture lesson and prayer. The sermon will be given by President Ellis S. Studebaker. All churches of this community will dismiss their services Sunday evening and join in the college event to be held in the college auditorium.

Commencement for the thirty graduates will be held on Friday, the 31st inst. Dr. Daniel H. Kulp, formerly of Brown University and now of Columbia University, will give the commencement address. The subject for his address will be "The American Temper."

WATER SPEEDWAY TESTED

Pilots of Racing Boats Try Out Fast Craft Over New Course Near Venice; Races Next Sunday

VENICE, May 26.—The new Venice Motor Boat Speedway, a half mile east of here, just off Washington Boulevard, received its "baptism of fire" today, when more than twenty of the Southland's foremost outboard motor pilots took their first practice spins over the new course, preparatory to the speedway's inaugural program of motor boat races next Sunday, June 2.

Early this morning the pilots tuned up their motors and throughout the day the water of the lake was alive with the fast little craft. At the close of the initial practice all of the outboard drivers expressed themselves as highly pleased with the course, and were most complimentary of the arrangements made for the first actual competition on the lake next Sunday, as laid out by John B. Illo, sponsor of the new outboard course.

With the competitions at Elsinore and the Salton Sea, which have held the attention of outboard fans for the past few weeks, requiring a long drive from Los Angeles to reach, new interest in the sport is expected to result from the building of a course so accessible to the city.

A grandstand to accommodate 8000 persons along one of the straightaways is nearing completion at the new course, and indications are that it will be filled to capacity at the initial program of races. Facilities to handle with ease the parking of 5000 motor cars also are being installed by the speedway officials.

Water District to be Discussed at Dinner Meet

VENTURA, May 26.—The formation of a Ventura-Ojai Water District is to be discussed informally at a dinner meeting to be held Tuesday evening at the Pierpont Beach and Country Club under the auspices of the water committee of the Ventura Chamber of Commerce. It has been proposed that Ventura and Ojai unite in the formation of a water district which will make possible a survey of the entire Ventura River watershed and a fair and efficient allocation of the water from that shed to both Ventura and Ojai eliminating overlapping and conflicting rights.

It is to discuss this proposal that the dinner is to be held. Engineers familiar with the Ventura watershed conditions are to speak and prominent civic leaders from both Ventura and Ojai are to attend to offer their suggestions or criticisms of such a scheme.

Edward Hyatt, chief of the State Division of Water Rights, announced a representative of that department will be at the dinner to enter into the discussion.

Among the speakers are to be J. B. Lippincott, prominent consulting engineer who has already made a study of the Ventura watershed conditions, and F. H. Price of Santa Barbara, attorney for Santa Barbara in its water controversies with outside territory.

New Gymnasium at Alhambra

ALHAMBRA, May 26.—The Board of Education has authorized the construction of a new gymnasium for girls of Alhambra High School to cost $75,000. John C. Austin, Los Angeles architect, is preparing plans for the structure, which will be erected on a portion of the playground south of the present high school plant. Money from the general funds of the high school district will be used to pay for the building.

The structure will be patterned after a similar building at Glendale High School. It will be two stories high and have a floor space of 65x115 feet. There will be a gallery with a seating capacity of 2500 persons, it is planned.

Plans for two new elementary schools and additions to present grammar school buildings, bonds for which were voted recently, are being prepared. A school is to be erected in the Emery Park district and another in the southwestern part of Alhambra.

PUBLICITY DIRECTOR COMES TO REDLANDS

REDLANDS, May 26.—L. E. Williams, who has been publicity director and head of the journalism department at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., has accepted the post of director of publicity and head of the journalism department at the University of Redlands. Under his direction the school paper, the Campus, will be published.

Mr. Williams is expecting to bring his family to Redlands about the first of July. He has had many years' experience in the work which he is to do here.

Announcement is also made that Miss Velma Hooper has been elected the vice-president of the students for next year and Raymond Anger has been elected treasurer.

Fred Austin and Gordon Raffety were elected the managing editors of the Campus. Mildred Bradbury has been named women's forensic manager.

Marvin Dean is to be yell leader.

PROMINENT MASON DIES

MAYWOOD, May 26.—Fred P. Colman, 65 years of age, a native of Kyritz, Germany, who came to California nineteen years ago, passed away at his home in this city, and arrangements have been made to hold funeral services in the Wheat-Halverson chapel Tuesday afternoon. Deceased was a member of the Masonic lodge at Huntington Park, a Thirty-second Degree Mason and a member of Al Malaikah Temple of Shriners, Los Angeles. He was engaged for several years in the lumber business in Bell. He is survived by a widow and one brother.

Laundrymen Petition for Repeal of Laws

SAN DIEGO, May 26.—Seeking relief from asserted excessive and unreasonable fees and taxation, the San Diego Laundry Owners' Exchange has filed a petition with the City Council asking repeal of certain sections of the recently enacted ordinance providing for inspection of machinery and steam boilers.

Repeal is asked of the section prohibiting an engineer from leaving the boiler room for more than fifteen minutes when the plant is operating under the rules and regulations of the State insurance inspector and under jurisdiction of an engineer holding a city license. Repeal also is asked of the section providing for many inspections on the ground that the accumulated fees are extravagant when the plant is operated under a licensed engineer.

In presenting the petition, Herman Jacobson, president of the organization, contends that the laundry interests are by far the largest and most important in the city of San Diego and that the twenty-one laundries in the city are carrying an overload of fees, taxes and insurance.

NEW BREAWATER NEARS COMPLETION

SANTA BARBARA, May 26.—The city's original contract with Merritt, Chapman and Scott Company for 1200 feet of the breakwater has been entirely completed and work is going forward rapidly on the additional 600-foot Fleischmann section, E. W. Alexander, chairman of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, announced.

The 1200-foot strip was contracted for after Maj. Max Fleishmann donated $200,000 to be matched by a similar appropriation by the city. Later Maj. Fleishmann gave an additional $250,000 for 600 feet more seawall, making the total cost of the structure $850,000.

A meeting of the Harbor Commission will be called this week by Chairman Alexander in which discussion of the work as completed thus far will take place. A meeting was scheduled last week, but due to the illness of Mr. Alexander it was not held.

BEACH SCHOOLS ELECT NEW SUPERINTENDENT

REDONDO BEACH, May 26.—The board of trustees of the city schools have entered into a contract with Elliott B. Thomas, principal of the Burbank Junior High School, as superintendent of the city school system here following the resignation of J. B. Potter, which becomes effect on July 1.

Mr. Potter, who came here six years ago from Bisbee, Ariz., where he was principal of the junior high school there for a period of six years, has made no announcement of future plans. An expansion program in which more than $300,000 was expended in additions to the school system was carried out during his incumbency here.

SAN DIEGO WINS PRIZE AT SHOW

Southern City Has Best Orange Show Exhibit

Los Angeles Not Entered in Competition

Crowds Continue to Break All Attendance Records

ANAHEIM, May 26.—Before the California Valencia Orange Show comes to a close here Monday, every attendance record in the nine years' history of the event will be broken. This is the estimate of George W. Reid, general manager, who declared today that in the first four days of the 1929 classic the attendance mark equaled that of the entire first week of last year's show.

The decision of the judges in making the awards for the finest feature exhibits at the exposition was among the most difficult to confront them since the inception of the Valencia classic in 1920. This year's elaborate exhibits are said to have entailed a greater cost than those at any previous show.

Los Angeles county, admittedly the finest exhibit at the Anaheim event, did not compete for a prize. San Diego was awarded $300 and a silver trophy for the best feature display having mechanical action. Sunkist was second, receiving $200, and Ventura, third, $100.

Pomona gained the distinction of being adjudged the best feature display without mechanical action, winning $250 and a silver cup. Long Beach was second, gaining a cash prize of $150, the Anaheim Union High School was third, winning $75 and Orange City was fourth, receiving $50.

At each program the throngs have been loud in their praises for the unexcelled talent which the management of the show has offered for their entertainment. This week is fraught with many special features. Paramount night, on Monday. Movie night on Tuesday. The finals of the world's championship packing contests on Wednesday. The fancy packing contest on Thursday, Plantation night Friday, Pasadena day on Saturday and San Diego and Ventura day Sunday.

Reid has arranged for a series of events during the last days of the big exposition that will rival anything ever seen on the Pacific Coast, according to the announced plans. The show is being lauded as the greatest of its kind.

Tom Mitchell, world-famed radio announcer and former musical-comedy star, has been officiating in a capable manner as master of ceremonies. His broadcasting over KNX at each afternoon and evening program has won much favorable comment for the Valencia show.

Landowners Given Chance for Protests

MONROVIA, May 26.—Protests of property damage in the condemnation proceedings of Huntington Drive incident to improvement of the boulevard, will be heard tomorrow afternoon in Department 34 of the Superior Court, according to city officials.

Payment of the awards for property damage and land values in the condemnation proceedings, will be made about June 7, it was stated today by Robert C. Wygant, attorney for the referees' board in the case. Following a court settlement of the protests allowing a period of ten days for judgment to be rendered, providing there are no appeals made, the money for the various parcels of land will be paid from the fund from the acquistion bonds.

Although reports have been made that about twenty property owners would protest the awards of the Board of Referees, agreements have been reached in all but two cases, which will be heard in court next Monday.

Nina Teal Cadman, owner of Parcels 211 and 213, claims $4300 damages. Her property damage was first appraised at $1336 and the referees' report awarded her only $677.

Another protestant is Ralph Cady, owner of Parcel 77, who contends that a storm drain constructed on the front of his property seriously has damaged it. The appraisers' report placed his damage at $493.75 and the referee awarded him $512.

VALLEY BREAKFAST CLUB ORGANIZES

CAHUENGA PARK, May 26.—The San Fernando Valley Breakfast Club, to be patterned after the one in Los Angeles, is to be permanently formed at a breakfast under the oak trees of Sherman Oaks next Tuesday morning, it is reported today by Walter Mendenhall of Van Nuys, chairman of the organization committee.

Two weeks ago the committee was appointed to lay out plans and report back at the second breakfast to be held on Tuesday. The organization is to be of a purely social character and is designed to draw its membership among leading business and professional men and ranchers from all parts of the valley.

LONG-DELAYED BRIDGE IS SOON TO BE BUILT

VAN NUYS, May 26.—The Board of Public Works has been requested by the City Council to advertise for bids for the proposed bridge over Los Angeles River to connect Kester avenue, which, for some time has been paved north and south through San Fernando Valley, and which because of lack of the bridge has not been used as a through highway. For several months citizens here have asked the Council to hurry up the work. It was stated the bridge has been delayed because of want of funds for the purpose.

SIERRA MADRE RECALL CARRIES

SIERRA MADRE, May 26.—Councilmen Henry Isaacs and Joseph Belohlavek were ousted from the City Council yesterday in the first recall election ever invoked in this city, and in their place Ralph Stewart, American Legion commander of the Eighteenth District, and H. C. Reavis, commander of the local Legion post, were elected to the board.

The recall is carried by the following votes:

In the votes for their successors, Reavis received 759 and Stewart 741.

The recall election, which set a record in the number of votes cast, 1288, culminates the long-fought battle between property owners and the City Council concerning the improvement of Central avenue.

The recall petitions were circulated by members of the Central Avenue Property Owners' Association, who opposed the program as ordered by the Council for the improvement project, which they contended was far too large an undertaking for property owners at the present time.

The association made their first attempt to arbitrate with the board when their officers compiled and presented a much smaller development program for the approval of the Councilmen, who, at the time, declared they would carry out the project as set forth by the property owners, but who later ordered a survey for the new boulevard as originally planned.

LUTHERANS DEDICATE SANCTUARY

Ten Ministers Take Part in Elaborate Ceremonies; Edifice Cost $20,000

INGLEWOOD, May 26.—Ten pastors, widely known in Southland circles of the denomination, today took part in the dedication rites of the new $20,000 home of the First Evangelical Lutheran Church of this city, completed only four and a half years after the congregation was first organized here from the nucleus of a handful of faithful Lutheran residents.

The man who pioneered the work here and who left two years ago for other fields, Rev. W. Lange, now of Compton, preached the dedication sermon, taking as his text, Psalms, xxix:ii, "Give unto the Lord the glory due unto His name, worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness."

The dedication service began at 3 o'clock this afternoon, with Rev. George H. Schuster, pastor of the church, presiding. He performed the dedicatory act, assisted by the following Lutheran pastors: Revs. O. A. Fisher of Anaheim, J. E. A. Dorman of Long Beach, J. E. Peters of Los Angeles, R. Leissner of Pasadena, A. C. Schultz of Pomona, G. F. Gausherr of Santa Ana, W. Hohberger and F. P. Fritzler of Los Angeles, and W. H. Meyer of Ontario.

There were also special exercises at the morning Sunday-school hour, held for the first time in the basement of the new edifice, and the regular morning service was given over to the theme of Sunday-school work by the pastor, with all the classes present.

The new edifice is of Spanish type with stucco finish. The building, is 60x40 feet in dimensions and seats a congregation of 300. There is a finished basement under the entire auditorium, which will be used for the Sunday-school and for the metings of auxiliary organizations of the church.

The day closed with a joint meeting of the Luther League and the Brotherhood, held at 7:30 p.m., addressed by Rev. Schultz. There will be other meetings throughout the week, culminating on next Sunday with a confirmation service in the morning and a children's day service in the evening.

MORE ORANGE TREES FOR ZELZAH SECTION

ZELZAH, May 26.—Zelzah is fast becoming a large citrus-growing district and within a short time will be forced to put in its own packing-house. Olaf Halvorson, president of the Zelzah Bank, this week is planting ten more acres of his property to oranges. Mateo Ghiglia, a mile north of the Halvorson property, is planting twenty acres. There are now scores of acres of orange trees in the Zelzah district that are just beginning to come into full bearing, and other younger groves nearing that stage.

LIFE GUARDS TO TAKE EXAMINATION

NEWPORT BEACH, May 26.—Examinations designed to find the best candidates for summer positions of life guards at the beach will be given twenty-five applicants here June 8, it was announced today by Fred Barnett, head of the city life-saving department. Many new guards will be employed here this summer to assure the safety of the crowds seeking recreation here.

Five guards were on duty all during last summer and an increase is planned this year.

The tests will be as rigorous and extensive as those given in any other Coast city, according to Barnett.

Millions to Read of Valley Area

VAN NUYS, May 26.—Probably no other section in Southern California keeps up its advertising and publicity in the Middle West and East as does San Fernando Valley.

Rockwell Smith, chairman of the publicity committee of the Valley branch of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, with headquarters in Van Nuys, today reports that since the first of the year 1151 copies of the folder "San Fernando Valley, the Magnet of Los Angeles" have been sent to all parts of the United States. These folders have been sent to persons whose names have been turned in to the chamber by valley residents. Each person receives a letter with a copy of the folder.

Smith also states that the chamber is about to subscribe to a syndicate press service that serves 14,000 American newspapers reaching about 30,000,000 people in all States. Articles will be written here about San Fernando Valley and sent to the syndicate which in turn will give it to the 14,000 newspapers.

KITES AND AIRPLANE IN SCHOOL CONTEST

INGLEWOOD, May 26.—A model airplane and kite contest, open to all grammar school pupils of the Centinela Valley, will be held here on Tuesday afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock, under the direction of Virgil Dahl, director of physical education for Inglewood schools. A series of valuable prizes is offered for each event.

Airplane model events are as follows: Scale models, judged on perfection of workmanship and accuracy of scale; miniature model flights for distance, in various classes; endurance contest for gliders.

Kite events include contests for: Largest kite, kite of most unusual appearance, and kite flight.

In the kite-flight event all contestants must remain within a twenty-inch circle. The contest will conclude with a spectacular "battle of the kites," with the survivor adjudged the winner.

DECISION ENDS OIL QUESTION

Royalty Interest Transfer Held Personal Property

Doubt Settled for First Time by Court in This State

Ruling Marks Conclusion of Dabney-Johnstone Case

A transfer of a royalty interest in oil to be produced and saved is not a conveyance of a percentage of the oil still in the ground. It merely is an agreement to share in the oil after it is produced and, as such, it is personal property.

This is the opinion of Superior Judge Yankwich in a ruling on the status in court of royalty interests in oil lands, and what the buyer is buying when he purchases such interests, handed down at the close of the suit brought by the Dabney-Johnstone Oil Corporation, Fred S. James and Frank N. Loder against Charles W. Blott and others to quiet title to certain real estate in Los Angeles county.

The opinion given by Judge Yankwich will be scanned with the keen interest by all persons interested in oil lands and leases and royalties derived from oil, for it sharply defines, for the first time in California, what the nature is of the interest of a person acquiring what is known in the oil world as "landowners' royalty interests."

SALE OF PERCENTAGES

Owners of oil land, after entering into an oil lease, which gave them the right to receive a certain royalty in kind or cash, have been in the habit of selling percentages in the royalty.

In the Dabney-Johnstone Oil Corporation vs. Blott action the plaintiffs sought to quiet title to certain real property. All of the defendants disclaimed or defaulted except the following: M. S. Walker, his wife, Lelia Walker; A. H. Kiesau, his wife, Lorene Kiesau; R. M. Kiesau, his wife, Marie B. Kiesau; J. T. Walton, his wife, Delta R. Walton, and J. O. Mann and his wife, Nora Mann.

The above-named defendants by their answer asserted in effect that they were the owners of certain percentages of landowners' royalty in and to all oil and gas produced and saved from such real property. There never was any production of oil, gas or other hydrocarbon substances from the premises.

BASIS OF CLAIM

The claim was based on certain assignments made to the named defendants by one Burton Benwell, of landowners' royalty interest, and the interests claimed by them thereunder refer to the undivided one-fourth interest in the real property formerly held by Benwell and acquired by the plaintiff, the Dabney-Johnstone Oil Corporation. The form of the assignments was not the same.

The assignment to Walton, Mann and Walker purported to assign a percentage of the landowners' royalty in oil, gas or other hydrocarbon substances to be produced, saved and sold. The assignments to R. M. and A. H. Kiesau purported to assign a percentage of the landowners' royalty in oil, gas or other hydrocarbon substances produced and saved upon said premises.

QUESTION FOR DECISION

The case was submitted on an agreed statement of facts and the question for decision was:

Have the defendants, under the foregoing assignments, any interest in the oil, gas or other hydrocarbon substances in, or under the premises, to which the action related, or any said substances to be hereafter produced, or saved, or sold therefrom which should not be quieted as to the plaintiffs?

The contention of the plaintiffs was that royalty interests are personal property, and that therefore the defendants acquired no interest in the land. The defendants, on the other hand, argued that royalty is an incident to the land and that by the transfer they acquired an interest in the land.

COURT'S RULING

Judge Yankwich held for the plaintiffs.

"The question we are confronted with," says Judge Yankwich in his opinion, "is not to be solved by the adoption of an abstract definition of the nature of the oil royalty. Rather, it must be solved by the determination of the effect of the particular conveyance."

Judge Yankwich reached the conclusion that the instruments taken as a whole evidence an intent to transfer a percentage of the gross production of oil and gas saved. As such, they are nothing more than agreements for the division of royalty and as such are personal property.

"When the parties," says the opinion, "entered into a contract they were not contracting for an interest in or concerning real estate, but for a division of personal property. The royalty is an incident to the written instrument as a means of compensation to the lessor for the grant and privileges conveyed."

Relative to the contention that the defendants bought with the understanding that they were obtaining an interest in real property, Judge Yankwich's opinion says that if this be so their remedy is against the person who made the sale to which the plaintiffs were not parties.

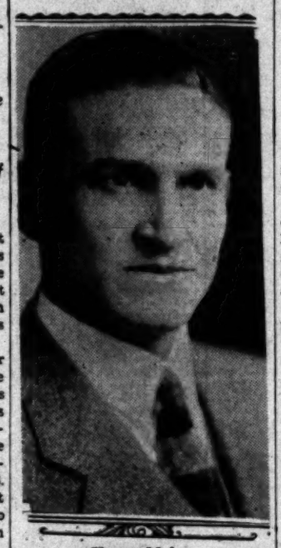
NEW CHIEFTAIN OF TRADE FLEDGELINGS



Harry Mabry

HEAD PICKED BY JUNIORS OF CHAMBER

Harry Mabry, Los Angeles Attorney, New President of State Organization

Harry Mabry, Los Angeles attorney, was elected president of the California Junior Chamber of Commerce at its annual meeting and election of officers Saturday night at Fresno. Junior chambers of commerce from both Northern and Southern California were represented at this meeting.

The new president during the past year has been vice-president of the California Junior Chamber of Commerce and for 1928-29 was first vice-president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Los Angeles.

Other officers elected at the State meeting were: Raymond S. Kitchener of Oakland, first vice-president; Al G. Smith of El Centro, second vice-president, and Roland Maxwell of Pasadena, secretary and treasurer.

The State Junior Chamber of Commerce during the ensuing year will launch an extensive campaign to organize junior chambers of commerce in all the larger cities of the State which now have no such organization.

The State organization also unanimously indorsed as a candidate for the presidency of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce Durward Howes, former president of the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce and now a director of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. The national organization will meet in Flint, Mich., June 12 to 16.

SCORE GETS SENTENCES TO PRISONS

Weekly List of Convicts Includes Four Punished for Grand Thefts

Twenty-two defendants were sentenced to State prisons during the last week by Superior Court judges, according to the weekly report of Superior Judge Shaw, presiding judge of the criminal division of Superior Court.

Of this number, four were sentenced for forgery, three for robbery and three for burglary, two for extortion, and two for grand theft, and one each for bribery, receiving stolen property, driving an automobile without consent of the owner, possession of a still, issuing checks without sufficient funds, the infamous crime against nature, petty theft, and violation of the State Poison Act.

The list of defendants, the crimes of which they were convicted and the sentences imposed follow:

Harry O. Bates, San Quentin, asking and receiving a bribe, one to ten years.
William M. Dunlop, San Quentin, forgery, one to fourteen years.
Alfred O. Howard, San Quentin, robbery of second degree, one year to life.
John T. Whan, San Quentin, receiving stolen property, two counts, one to five years each.
Manuel Alcala, San Quentin, driving automobile without consent of the owner, one to five years.
Emilio Felix, San Quentin, possession of a still, one to five years.
James Morgan, San Quentin, grand theft, one to ten years.
Karl C. Amann, Folsom, forgery of indorsement.
George P. Brennan, San Quentin, issuing check without sufficient funds, one to fourteen years.
Alfonso Mesa, San Quentin, robbery of second degree, one year to life.
George Dixon, Folsom, burglary of second degree, one to fifteen years.
James A. Gould, San Quentin, burglary of second degree, one to fifteen years.
Clarence W. Chase, San Quentin, robbery of first degree, five years to life.
Cecil E. McFarland, San Quentin, extortion, one to five years.
Bert Lebee, San Quentin, extortion, one to five years.
Lafayette J. McConnell, San Quentin, forgery, one to fourteen years.
Clark C. Winkle, Folsom, burglary of first degree (having admitted prior conviction of a felony,) seven years to life.
Theodore Wellington Darnfield, San Quentin, crime against nature on two counts, one to fifteen years each; lewd conduct with minor child, one year to life.
John Russell, San Quentin, petty theft, with prior conviction of petty theft, not to exceed five years.
J. R. McLeod, Folsom, grand theft, admitting prior conviction of a felony, three to ten years.
Thomas Walker, Folsom, forgery, prior conviction of a felony, seven to fourteen years.
Jesus Ceniceros, San Quentin, possession of poison, one to six years.

Engineers Will Appraise Claims

Two of the outstanding mining engineers of the Pacific Coast have been employed to investigate the placer mining claims in San Gabriel Canyon, which are at stake in an ejection lawsuit brought by the county against the claimants, which will be in court for trial next Friday.

The two experts, employed after a canvass of available authorities by Roy Dowds, counsel for the flood control district, are Frank A. Short and C. H. Monroe of San Francisco. They will be paid $100 a day and expenses while investigating the asserted placer mines, and testifying in court.

A woman in Arabia is married while very young, sometimes at 9 years of age. She must have a "dot" of clothing and jewelry, or money. No Arabian woman is allowed divorce, although she may and does run away from her husband.

TRIAL BY MAIL BEGINS TODAY IN TRAFFIC COURT

Beginning today Municipal Courts will do a mail-order business in traffic tags, Judge Swain, presiding in the traffic courts, announces. In other words, if one suffers stage fright in court, or if no one can be got to take care of the baby while one goes to court on the tag given by an officer, a letter may be written to the traffic court, telling the circumstances and inclosing the tag. By return mail, the clerk will inform the absentee of the amount of the fine, which must then be mailed to the court.

Those who take advantage of this, Judge Swain wishes it understood, are pleading guilty to doing so. He declares that he has no desire to conduct a trial by mail, and in any case where a tagee feels that he is not guilty, he must come to court and say so.

In making the innovation, Judge Swain declares that he believes it will greatly lessen the time required for routine pleas in the traffic courts. More than half of the persons ordered to appear in court for trial on minor offenses, the records show, plead guilty and pay their fines. The fact that they are, by the city ordinances or State law, required to appear in court, works a hardship on many minor offenders, who are sometimes required to spend a half-day waiting for their cases to be heard, he believes.

Cases of reckless driving, or other offenses which are ordinarily punishable by jail sentences instead of fines, cannot be handled by mail, but other offenses such as violation of the speed laws without recklessness, failing to make proper signals, and illegal lights, will fall under the new rule, according to Judge Swain.

MYSTERY VEILS ARREST OF SPY

His release created a stir in England which eventually found its way to the floor of Parliament and caused a demand for an explanation from the British Home Secretary. Then the case became lost in the archives, and according to Graves ended in his starting espionage work for Great Britain.

Graves first appeared in this country in New York in 1913, where he made himself known to the authorities and claimed that he was in the British Secret Service and had followed confidential envoy of the Japanese government to these shores. He also divulged another bit of his "master spy" work, by asserting that he had uncovered the German plan for the invasion of England.

In 1916 Graves was arrested for an asserted attempt to extort $3000 from Countess von Bernstorff, the wife of the German Ambassador, over certain personal letters he claimed to have intercepted, and which he declared would embarrass the Bernstorffs if made public.

ARRESTED IN EAST

The case against Graves, who then styled himself the "master international spy," was dropped by government agents on March 8, 1917, because the principal witnesses had left the country.

About this time Graves decided that he would become a citizen of the United States, giving as his reasons that he feared the German government was attempting to get possession of his person. At that time he told the authorities that he was formerly the confidential investigator of some of the highest officials in Germany, including the Kaiser. When the United States authorities began a check on earlier activities of Graves, in connection with his citizenship move, it was announced in German newspapers that Graves was not connected with the German Secret Service in any way, and that his real name was Max Meincke, and that he was born in Central Europe.

Graves ran afoul of Federal authorities in 1917, and he was arrested by State Department agents in Kansas City. At that time he was accused of representing himself to be a Department of Justice representative, the authorities charging him with making such assertions in several western cities. When arrested Graves was en route to Denver, where he told the officers he was going to obtain papers that would cast reflections on the Hohenzollern family. On September 22, 1917, Graves was ordered interned by the Federal authorities for the duration of the war. He spent this sentence in Federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and Fort Ogelthorpe, Ga.

VENTURES LAID TO HIM

The further escapades of Graves were somewhat dimmed the years just following the close of the war, and for a short period he dropped from sight.

In 1925, however, he again gained notoriety, and suddenly appeared only to disappear from Brooklyn after assertedly making statements to friends that a widespread effort was underway to replace the Hohenzollerns on the German throne. It was understood at that time that Graves was in sympathy with the movement and was active in a plan to restore the monarchy with the Crown Prince at its head.

Some months later he was discovered in Los Angeles, under the name of "Peter Grimm," and here his activities were said to have been two-fold. One was a report that he had tried to interest Los Angeles business men in a scheme to bring $1,500,000 worth of war loot to this country, which he was said to have represented as being salvaged from the German war raider, Emden.

Another venture charged to him informally, was said to have been disclosed by Theda Bara, actress, who was avowedly the prospective heroine of diplomatic intrigue stories which Graves had incorporated into books. One of the volumes was published under the title of "The Secrets of the German War Office." Two or three other books also are on the market from the pen of Graves, he said yesterday. All deal with intrigue, espionage, and pretend to divulge the diplomatic secrets of Germany under the rule of the Hohenzollerns.

Public Sales Corporation Deals Untangled

Receiver Issues Titles to Many Purchasers

Report on Conduct of Affairs Praised

Several hundred persons who bought Arizona lands from the Public Service Sales Corporation will receive title to the lands they have paid for within a comparatively short time, according to a report filed with Judge Gates of the Superior Court by R. E. Allen, appointed as receiver of the corporation several months ago. The report was presented by Attorney George B. Webster, counsel for the receiver.

At the time the receiver took possession, the report shows, the only assets of the corporation consisted of the right to take title to 7812 acres of Arizona school land on payment of approximately $25,000 to the State of Arizona. The company had contracted to sell a large part of this land to several hundred purchasers of small tracts and had collected the full sales price from a large number. Proceeds of the sales had been used for other purposes than completion of purchase contracts with Arizona and the company was therefore unable to make its delivery contracts good. Allen was appointed receiver to clear up the situation.

His report shows that deeds are being issued steadily to holders of paid-up purchase contracts in their order, the balances due Arizona for land being paid off out of the proceeds of new sales. The receiver informed Judge Gates that he now has a large sale under negotiation, the proceeds of which will place him in possession of sufficient cash to pay off all balances due Arizona and thus enable him to deliver title to all purchasers of land in the corporation.

"I have directed the conduct of many hundred receiverships," Judge Gates observed on the hearing of the receiver's report, "and I feel that I ought to say that I do not recall any case in which the outcome has seemed more fully to have justified the expectations and hopes of the court and the litigants. It appears that within a few months this receivership has made possible the fulfillment of many hundred commitments that, when the receiver was appointed, seemed hopeless of execution. I think that both the receiver and his counsel are entitled to this expression of the court's appreciation."

Army Officer Ready Customer
Col. Nelson purchases flower from Jocelyn Lee and Mary Philbin

JOCELYN LEE and Mary Philbin, film actresses, had an easy job in selling Col. H. B. Nelson, local Army recruiting officer, the first Buddy Poppy in the five-day sale to raise funds for ex-service men in need. James B. Gresham Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has charge of the sale here, which is to continue until the eve of Memorial Day. The Buddy Poppies are made by disabled veterans in government hospitals.

NILE DAUGHTERS ARRIVE

Delegates from Forty-six Temples Due Today for Convention Opening Tomorrow

With the arrival yesterday of delegations from thirteen temples of the Daughters of the Nile, registrations and preparations for the fifteenth annual convention of the organization and session of the Supreme Temple were under way. The registrations are in charge of Mrs. Mae Estabrook of Nefu Ari Temple of Oakland.

Following the arrival in the morning over the Union Pacific of the delegates of Tirzah Temple of Butte, delegations from Lybia Temple of Salt Lake City and Zenobia Temple of Chicago were greeted at the station in the afternoon by the uniformed patrol of Mokattom Temple of Los Angeles and escorted to hotels. Later in the day a special train of the Santa Fe brought delegations from ten New York, Indiana and New Jersey temples.

By today delegations from each of the forty-six temples of the organization, which is affiliated with the Shrine, are expected to be in attendance.

Formal opening of the supreme body will take place at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Biltmore, with the presentation of the national flags of the United States and Canada followed by a devotional and choir service. Hazel Sunderland of El Mejdel Temple, Denver, will respond to the welcoming address of Verna Teazle, Queen of the local organization.

The corps of supreme officers includes two Los Angeles women, Leona D. Crowe, Supreme Princess Marshal, and Elizabeth Trebilcock, Supreme Princess Nydia, besides the reigning Supreme Queen, Victoria Crouse.

Mokattom Temple, No. 12, of Los Angeles will honor the Supreme Queen, her officers and the delegates with a banquet and ball this evening at the Biltmore. An imported Egyptian centerpiece and oriental furnishings will form an appropriate setting for the festivities, which have been planned by Geraldine Gault. Edith E. Gattis of Hatasu Temple, No. 1, Seattle, the first Queen of the first temple, and the first Supreme Queen, will act as toastmistress.

J. A. H. Kerr, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, will tender the city's welcome, while the address of the evening will be given by Leo V. Youngworth of the board of trustees for the Shriners' Orthopedic Hospital.

NEW BOOK ON LIBEL

Judge Yankwich's Volume Will Be Ready Next Saturday

"Essays on the Law of Libel" is the title of a new book, written by Superior Judge Yankwich, which will make its bow to the reading public on next Saturday. The work is couched in language that the layman can understand.

The new book, according to the proof sheets, sets forth in a clear and concise manner the important problems which confront publishers relative to what is and what is not libel.

Japan has about 1500 women doctors. They work not only in Japan proper, but in Formosa, Korea, Hokkaido, Saghalien, China, the United States and other countries. They not only practice medicine, but some are internes of hospitals, and work in government service.

GROVE-PLANTING BARD'S TRIBUTE

Shakespeare Foundation Will Set Out Tree on U.C.L.A. Westwood Campus

A Shakespeare Grove, inspired by the recently organized Shakespeare Foundation, will have its initial tree-planting ceremony on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles June 7. R. D. MacLean, Shakespearean actor, will dedicate the grove.

Mrs. Leafie Sloan-Orcutt of the foundation heads the committee. It is planned that each succeeding graduating class will participate in the planting of trees so that Shakespeare Grove will come to be a historical spot on the campus.

Broadcasters to Help Entertain Long Beach Club

Several broadcasting stations of Southern California will contribute to the program of the Long Beach Breakfast Club tomorrow morning at the Pacific Coast Club, Long Beach. The entertainment will be broadcast over KGER beginning at 7:30 a.m. C. Merwyn Dobyns, owner of KGER, will act as host to the artists recruited from the different stations.

Among the performers who will be on the air are Clif Howell of KFI, with Robert Hurd and Virginia Plohri; Dorothy Compton and Mary Ellen Pritaland, directed by C. M. C. Raymond, assistant manager of KHJ; Joseph Diskay, well-known Hungarian tenor, and Jack Carter from KNX; Jean Cowan, blues singer, and the Harmony Hawaiians from KFWB. Several others are included on the extensive program.

Many of the radio performers and officials will arrive in Long Beach this afternoon and evening. An informal reception for them will be given at the Pacific Coast Club where Mr. Dobyns will welcome them on behalf of the Breakfast Club.

Mystery Talker for Advertisers

The Advertising Club of Los Angeles will meet tomorrow at the Biltmore for its weekly meeting. The committee in charge has kept the identity of the principal speaker secret. He is said, however, to be a prominent advertising man from the East. Joe Roberts, the "banjo king," also will be present.

NAVY TO HONOR HERO DEAD

Battleships Will Aid Memorial Day Observance at Southern California Beach Towns

Observance of Memorial Day will be made by all units of the battle fleet this year, although the bulk of the force will remain at anchor at Los Angeles harbor. The battleship Mississippi will go to Santa Monica for the day and the destroyers Paul Hamilton and Stoddert will be anchored off Pismo Beach; all other units remaining on station.

Visitors will be received on board all battleships on Memorial Day as well as the aircraft carriers Saratoga and Lexington. The fleet will be at anchor here all week for machinery overhaul, ship upkeep and fleet athletics, the squadron being in the midst of the annual baseball championship struggle.

The U.S.S. Texas, flagship of Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet, will sail on June 1, next, for her annual speed trials over the Rackland (Me.) course. She will arrive at the Maine port on July 1, next, remain in that area over Independence Day and then go to the New York navy yard for annual overhaul.

Admiral Pratt, accompanied by his flag lieutenant, Lieut. C. W. A. Campbell, already has left overland for Washington, where during the first week of June he will sit as head of the Naval Selection Board, to name a new list of officers for promotion to the grades of rear-admiral, captain and commander.

The U.S.S. Mississippi, returning to Los Angeles Harbor from Santa Monica on the 31st inst., will prepare for her summer's work of steaming up and down the Pacific Coast on training cruises with the naval R.O.T.C. units from the Universities of Washington and California. She will sail from this port June 5 to pick up the University of California contingent at San Francisco, proceeding thence to Seattle.

ARIZONA LAND KNOTS UNTIED

Receiver Issues Titles to Many Purchasers

Report on Conduct of Affairs Praised

Several hundred persons who bought Arizona lands from the Public Service Sales Corporation will receive title to the lands they have paid for within a comparatively short time, according to a report filed with Judge Gates of the Superior Court by R. E. Allen, appointed as receiver of the corporation several months ago. The report was presented by Attorney George B. Webster, counsel for the receiver.

At the time the receiver took possession, the report shows, the only assets of the corporation consisted of the right to take title to 7812 acres of Arizona school land on payment of approximately $25,000 to the State of Arizona. The company had contracted to sell a large part of this land to several hundred purchasers of small tracts and had collected the full sales price from a large number. Proceeds of the sales had been used for other purposes than completion of purchase contracts with Arizona and the company was therefore unable to make its delivery contracts good. Allen was appointed receiver to clear up the situation.

His report shows that deeds are being issued steadily to holders of paid-up purchase contracts in their order, the balances due Arizona for land being paid off out of the proceeds of new sales. The receiver informed Judge Gates that he now has a large sale under negotiation, the proceeds of which will place him in possession of sufficient cash to pay off all balances due Arizona and thus enable him to deliver title to all purchasers of land in the corporation.

"I have directed the conduct of many hundred receiverships," Judge Gates observed on the hearing of the receiver's report, "and I feel that I ought to say that I do not recall any case in which the outcome has seemed more fully to have justified the expectations and hopes of the court and the litigants. It appears that within a few months this receivership has made possible the fulfillment of many hundred commitments that, when the receiver was appointed, seemed hopeless of execution. I think that both the receiver and his counsel are entitled to this expression of the court's appreciation."

U.S.C. Senior Loses Life in Northern Lake

Leon Umsted, senior at the University of Southern California, was drowned in Lake Betteravia, seven miles from Santa Maria, yesterday morning, according to word received here by members of his family at 1365 West Thirtieth Place.

Telephone reports received by the youth's sister, Mrs. Frank Buhrman, stated that Umsted went for a boat trip on the lake with Miss Katherine Sankey, David Sankey, her father, and an aunt and uncle of Miss Sankey. The boat is reported to have overturned and all escaped but young Umsted.

He drove to Santa Maria in company with Miss Sankey and her father last Saturday to visit her relatives, Mrs. Buhrman said.

Umsted was 24 years of age, and was to have graduated as a major in electrical engineering from the local university on June 8. He was born in Los Angeles and graduated from Los Angeles High School in 1924.

During his four years in the university he was a self-supporting student and had held responsible positions in the Trojan administration offices.

He leaves his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Leon W. Umsted, and his sister at the West Thirtieth-Place address.

The father left last night for Santa Maria to make arrangements for the return here of his son's body.

Boys Get Chance to Predict Rain

Here is a chance for some high-school boys who have had a year in high school or a semester in college on physics to tell whether or not it is going to rain.

Warener McIntyre, secretary of the local office for the Federal Civil Service Commission, announced yesterday that he will receive applications from prospective weather prophets. A minor knowledge of physics is required. The positions are junior weather observers, the salaries ranging from $1440 to $1740 a year.
